Chicago Subdues Doves

CHICAGO (AP) — Police arrested 31 demonstrators today near the International Amphitheatre, scene of the Democratic national convention, and 1,400 members of the Illinois National Guard were ordered into the downtown area to cope with massing anti-Vietnam war demonstrators.

The troop call-up was in anticipation of possible trouble later today when thousands of hippies and peace demonstrators attempt to carry out a planned march on the convention hall.

A spokesman for Brig.-Gen. Richard Dunn of the National Guard said Chicago police requested the guardsmen to support a large police force guarding the Conrad Hilton Hotel, headquarters of the convention.

Some 800 guardsmen relieved police at the hotel early today after 2,500 anti-war demonstrators gathered in a park across the street in defiance of a city law that closes parks from 11 p.m. to 4 a.m. Three guardsmen later were withdrawn as weary police returned to guard the hotel.

Still later, Assistant Police Supt. James Rochford requested return of the guardsmen to the hotel area and Grant Park, across the street from the hotel, as the peace demonstrators began massing for a rally in the park and the expected march on the convention hall on the south side.

Near the convention hall, police arrested 31 persons conducting a standing prayer vigil when they defied orders to move from a security area. Included among those arrested were nine women.

Police said the group was led by Dr. Saughton C. Lynd, former Yale University history professor who made an unauthorized trip to North Vietnam and China several years ago. Lynd was arrested.

POLICE WEARY

Rochford said the 800 guardsmen took over protection of the Hilton Hotel early today only because many of his police had been on duty 15 to 17 hours and were weary.

But it was obvious that city officials were worried about the presence of hippies and the peace demonstrators, most of whom had been routed from Lincoln Park with clouds of tear gas just after midnight, because they defied the same law.

Some 300 police won the "battle of Lincoln Park," and took firm possession of their trash-littered battlefield by stationing blue-helmeted men every few hundred feet along its southern edge.

SEEN BY DELEGATES

Officials made no attempt, however, to use the same tear-gas tactics when most of the demonstrators moved four miles south to the Hilton.

There they joined a small demonstration already in progress in Grant Park, just across fashionable Michigan Avenue, and in full view of both delegates and national television cameras.

The guardsmen closed Balbo Drive, which runs through

Kennedy Kills Draft Movement

Times News Services

CHICAGO — Hubert H. Humphrey sped toward triumph today with more than enough votes to win a first ballot nomination for the Democratic presidential nomination. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy removed the obstacle of his phantom candidacy with a "final, firm disavowal of interest" and a draft-Kennedy move collapsed.

Three favorite sons in quick order endorsed Humphrey following Kennedy's firm, new disavowal.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey produced 61 more votes; Floridans flocked to Humphrey when Sen. George Smathers shed his favorite son status, and — the bandwagon rolling fast now — Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen released his delegates from their favorite son commitment to him.

The 118-vote Illinois delegation was in caucus at mid-day with Mayor Richard Daley, its firm leader, expected to join the Humphrey movement. Daley had breakfast with Humphrey prior to the caucus.

McCarthy, realizing the lonely and once ridiculed effort he had taken to demonstrate the Vietnam war's unpopularity had reached its end, talked philosophically about how to soften the blow to his dedicated supporters.

He cancelled appearances before caucuses of delegates and held so-called "emergency meetings" in his hotel.

It was revealed today that McCarthy offered Tuesday night to throw his entire support to Sen. Kennedy if he would accept the nomination.

Sen. George S. McGovern, a late starter who never was much of a threat to Humphrey, continued his round of appearances with pleas to deny the nomination to Humphrey and to repudiate President Johnson's war policy at the convention's afternoon debate on Vietnam.

Drafts Acceptance Speech

So confident was Humphrey of quick success tonight that he took time out to draft sections of his acceptance speech and to confer with party leaders about his choice of a running mate.

Kennedy's firm statement from Washington calling upon those promoting a draft movement here to "cease all activity on my behalf" brought gloom to a youthful band working on his behalf. They closed their "draft Kennedy" headquarters in respect to his wishes.

Jesse Unruh, leader of the largely uncommitted 174-vote California delegation, abandoned any possibility of a draft-Kennedy movement. He announced that Kennedy had told him personally he was not a candidate.

Unruhy, California assembly speaker, told his state's delegation: "When I came to the convention I had hoped we might have another candidate in the race — a candidate who I felt could win the nomination and, more importantly, could win this fall."

But he said he received a telephone call from Kennedy making clear that he would not give any support to the draft movement — and without advance word from Kennedy delegates would not be willing to be caught short by backing a non-candidate.

Battle Renewed on Vietnam

Delegates renewed today their battle over Vietnam war policy, which had forced the convention to adjourn in tumult early this morning.

Debate finally began this afternoon on a plank that, opponents charge, was tailored to the interests of President Johnson and Humphrey.

The unwieldly assembly of 3,099 delegates, having ended its first session early Tuesday in uproar over the issue of anti-Negro bias in the Georgia state delegation, broke up in the same mood early today, hours behind schedule.

Delegates on the convention floor, thick with security men, revolted at debating the touchy issue of Vietnam at such a late hour. In effect, the revolt led by Wisconsin forced Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago as a convention architect to move adjournment.

It was a clear triumph for elements opposed to the proposed policy statement on Vietnam which backs up President Johnson's determination to force acceptable concessions from North Vietnam as a condition of peace negotiations more fruitful than the sterile exchanges so far at Paris.

It also was a triumph for getting the Vietnam debate

Hanoi Meddling, Says U.S.

PARIS (AP) — The United States accused North Vietnam today of meddling in American politics, and demanded that it quit. Spurning the demand, Hanoi's Ambassador Xuan Thuy accused President Johnson's administration of forcibly suppressing opposition to the Vietnam war.

Thuy's statement was made in the 19th session of the Paris peace talks.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman called for a start in serious peacemaking with an end to what he described as North Vietnamese interference in American internal affairs with constant comments on the presidential election contest.

"Among the American people the voice against the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam is every day growing louder," Thuy told Harriman.

"This is why in the present election campaign, in order to cope with the indignation of the people, the U.S. authorities have had to use barbed wire and tens of thousands of troops and police agents."

Stiff Battle Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen battled a sizable force in the jungled infiltration corridor northwest of Saigon today while inside the capital Viet Cong rockets fell for the third time in two months, killing three civilians.

U.S. headquarters said a stiff fight was under way 34 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital and that so far 44 guerrillas have been killed.

The rocket attack on Saigon hit a slum district on the southern edge of the city, blowing up one house and damaging two more.

Deadline Demanded On Soviet Withdrawal

TIMES NEWS SERVICES

PRAGUE — The Czechoslovak National Assembly today adopted a resolution demanding a firm deadline for the withdrawal of Soviet-led occupation troops and condemning the occupation as illegal.

Informants said the National Assembly also declared it could not ratify the Moscow agreement because it was reached under pressure.

There was no immediate report from a secret meeting of the Communist party central committee on its position on the Moscow accord that continues the occupation and has forced the Czechoslovak regime to halt its liberalizing program.

But sources indicated that opposition to the terms of the settlement was hardening rapidly despite appeals Tuesday by Alexander Dubcek, the party leader, and President Ludvik Svoboda for Czechoslovak understanding while they work to end the occupation.

Dubcek was expected to address the central committee meeting at the clandestine Communist headquarters.

"The National Assembly continues to regard the occupation of the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic by forces of five states of the Warsaw pact as illegal and as violating international treaties, the UN charter and the Warsaw pact," said a Free Prague radio broadcast.

"The National Assembly is convinced that our armed forces are capable of security of our western frontier and calls on the government to insist the fixing of and adherence to concrete dates for the withdrawal of foreign troops.

"At the same time we maintain that all our citizens who have been illegally detained and imprisoned by Czechoslovak and foreign organs since Aug. 21 should be released."

The assembly statement reaffirmed support of Dubcek's reformist leadership and thanked Czechoslovak leaders for their efforts at the showdown talks in Moscow. It also added that the "National Assembly is convinced that this country's only place is in the community of Socialist nations."

Reformist sources said that Dubcek has been asked to deny rumors he yielded to Soviet demands to declare the special 14th party congress illegal.

HELD SECRET MEETING

The congress met secretly last week and elected a liberal Central Committee replacing one that still included a strong conservative wing.

Informants said there was growing opinion that Dubcek should be voted out of office if he confirmed the rumor. This could result in two rival central committees with reformists holding membership in both.

The congress of the Slovak Communist party also was under way at Bratislava with increasing signs that delegates would support reformist efforts to oust Vasil Bilak, the orthodox first Slovak secretary.

Government sources said there are no immediate plans to emerge from the underground and move back into the central committee building, cleared by Soviet troops Tuesday. Sources said at least two Soviet secret police agents were recognized in the building today.

Posters appeared in many parts of Prague spelling out the "ten commandments" of passive resistance against the Soviet-bloc occupation.

"We have not learned anything, we don't know anything, we don't have anything, we don't give anything, we can't do anything, we don't understand anything, we don't sell anything, we don't help, we don't betray, and—in big letters—we will not forget anything."

Russian troops dropped leaflets from the main post office building, still under Soviet guard, which claimed that two Soviet journalists were murdered by Czechoslovak "terrorists."

LEAFLETS TRAMPLED

The leaflets called on the population to "capture the murderers." Hardly anyone picked up one of the leaflets. Many trampled on them.

Despite youthful protests and widespread resentment, most Czechoslovaks appeared to be

NEWSMAN ROUGHED UP IN FRONT OF CAMERAS

CHICAGO—Viewers on television got plenty of drama, excitement, suspense and action during the Democratic convention activities Tuesday night.

Security guards even forgot about the cameras as they roughed up Columbia Broadcasting System's Dan Rather when he tried to find out the name of a Georgia delegate, who, he said, was being "hauled out".

The incident in which Rather was punched and thrown to the floor, took place in full view of the TV audience.

Settlement Reached By Air Controllers

OTTAWA (CP) — A contract dispute between the government and 1,000 air traffic controllers has been settled, providing for a 15-per-cent wage increase in a two-year contract, it was announced today.

Agreement was announced in a joint statement by the government's treasury board and the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association.

It is subject only to a ratification vote by the union's membership, which is expected to be completed by Friday.

The controllers, who direct all the country's air traffic, will receive an increase of eight per cent retroactive to July 1, 1967. A further seven per cent became effective July 1, 1968, and runs to June 30, 1969, when the contract expires.

The increases will bring maximum annual rates of pay for beginning controllers to $7,304 a year from $6,320. The most senior level will jump to $16,276 from $14,084.

The announcement said the new contract will provide a limit on the number of days an airport controller may work without a break, but did not specify the period.

The memorandum of agreement was signed by John Lyon of Winnipeg, president of the controllers union, and all members of his negotiating team.

'TREATED LIKE CHILDREN'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Indian chief who has three university degrees said the federal government is still treating Indians like children.

Bill Mussell, head of the Skwah Band, near Chilliwack, made the charge at a United Nations high school seminar at the University of B.C.

Mr. Mussel, 29, said his band can't even buy a lawnmower with its own funds without permission of the regional superintendent of Indian affairs.

Convention 'Indifferent' to LBJ Absence

By WARD JUST
The Washington Post

CHICAGO — The Democratic national convention lurched through the second perilous night of its 35th incarnation spared the presence of its paterfamilias, Lyndon B. Johnson.

The news from the Texas white house that the president would celebrate his birthday at home was greeted with an electric display of indifference.

Richard J. Daley, the Chicago field marshal whose pride in his city rivals only his pride in his power, proposed that singer Anita Bryant lead the delegates in a rousing happy birthday to the president. The singing was merry, and one young black delegate from New York was so moved he placed his face in his hands and roared with laughter.

This followed the invocation from the Rev. Billy Graham, the evangelist. The Rev. Graham (who, incidentally, is a close personal friend of Richard M. Nixon) praised the absent president for his "faithful church attendance, remarkable family life." There was no opportunity for applause, since this assessment of Mr. Johnson came in the course of a prayer.

But, more darkly, the evangelist warned against delegates more "interested in being tricky and making merry; than in conducting serious business. In a general comment on the situation in America, the Rev. Graham deplored "the new aura of permissiveness."

Some observers felt that the Rev. Graham had struck just the right note for a convention which in its first night saw two nasty floor fights and the igniting of one of the magnetized (and flammable) floor passes. Personal animus has been raised to the level of an art form. Not even the spectre of Richard Nixon has been able to unite, or even impress, this convention, which is one indication of how far matters have gone.

The city of Chicago is a fortified hamlet, and the convention itself is an armed camp in the middle of what is presumed to be enemy territory, although the mayor lives nearby. The insurgency grew Tuesday night, and pacification proceeded slowly. Tuesday night, for no one knew what reason, the delegates were forbidden to bring newspapers into the hall. "You'll have to hit me in the head to get this newspaper away from me," said one delegate to the blue-suited guards at the entrance; but he gave it up finally without a struggle.

The concerns of the delegates shift, depending on the region and the nature of the delegation. One New Hampshire man pointed out Tuesday night that all the "trouble" was coming from the delegations whose members were chosen in primary electic : New York, California, South Dakota, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, among others. By "trouble," of course, he meant the effort to reject the force-feeding of the regulars, the attempt to bring the Democrats out of the shadow of dissension and into the sunlight of unity.

The floor of the amphitheatre is surprisingly intimate. The aisles are clogged with people like leaves in a drainage ditch, and nothing from the platform can be heard. But after a delegate has been in convention for 24 hours, he knows the issues and does not have to listen to the speeches; he can watch Chet, David and Walter on the box.

A fight of two erupted on the floor, an airplane violated amphitheatre air space (and was questioned by secret service agents when it landed in Meigs Field); the Georgia regulars declared that they were returning to Dixie to work for Nixon, and Mayor Daley glowered at the unruly proceedings from his fourth row seat.

GRAHAM
. . . strikes right note

"The world is watching us, so let's behave like adults," said one of the early speakers. The injunction drew tepid applause from all save the Illinois delegation.

Mayor Daley said there'll be law an' order as long as he's mayor o' Chicago — so when's he goin' t' jail some o' them cops?

Grant Park to connect the lakefront hotel with the lake shore drive, and lined up with their vehicles for at least a mile along broad, fashionable Michigan Avenue, which borders the park.

There were brief intervals of taunting police around the Hilton, although none of the rock-throwing and police car window-smashing that marked the retreat from Lincoln Park.

Mostly, the Hilton demonstrators sang peace and freedom songs, and listened to speakers and folk singers including Peter, Paul and Mary.

VETS ADD SUPPORT

Several Vietnam war veterans came to say they felt the war immoral, as did several convention delegates.

Police earlier fired several shotgun rounds in the air to disperse small but angry crowds from where they had gathered after Lincoln Park, about four miles to the north, was cleared. Monday night, police sealed the Hilton's three main entrances and refused to admit anyone who could not produce a room key, or convince them that he belonged there.

The manoeuvres climaxed a day of several protest marches and rallies, including a decidedly anti-war rally in the Chicago coliseum billed as an "un-birthday party" for President Johnson, who was 60 Tuesday.

When the guardsmen began moving in, about 100 spectators including sympathetic delegates and their wives moved across the street to stand with the demonstrators.

The crowd called on hotel guests whose rooms faced the street to blink their lights if they were sympathetic, and at one point it appeared that three-fourths of the windows facing Michigan Avenue were blinking.

The hotel has 27 floors.

NEW TACTICS

Tuesday night's Lincoln Park confrontation brought no signs of the harsh police tactics of the night before, when 21 news men were clubbed, or had their cameras smashed, or their notes taken away. Many demonstrators also were clubbed Monday night.

Tear gas in huge quantities, both fired from explosive canisters and sprayed from a truck, was used instead.

The night's casualties included one police car with all its windows smashed, several with one or two broken, a liquor store window looted, display windows smashed in an auto showroom, and 38 arrested. They were charged primarily with park curfew violation, disorderly conduct and damage to property.

As the 11 p.m. curfew approached, a small ridge of rolling parkland separated the antagonists. On one side nearly 1,000 of the young protesters seated themselves on the grass beneath a single streetlight that illuminated only the central faces.

About 70 clergymen, each wearing a white armband with a black cross for easy identification, brought in a 10-foot wooden cross and set it down beside the streetlamp. The clergy were to direct people to hospitality and medical aid centres.

Medical personnel with stretchers and bandages waited toward the rear.

Across the ridge, out of sight of most of the demonstrators, about 300 police stood in a double line over a block-long section of the park.

FINAL WARNING

They wore riot helmets and gas masks and announced over loudspeakers that could barely be heard over the ridge:

"This is a final warning. Move out now. . . ."

"Hell no, we won't go!" shouted 100 or so demonstrators standing on the ridge itself, a 200-foot-wide no-man's land. A few threw bottles at the police searchlights that constantly swept the ridge.

After 15 minutes of this skirmishing and three "final" warnings, the police began to move. They laid down a line of tear-gas shells.

"Sieg heil!" the crowd shouted, recalling a Naxi salute.

Except for a brief but abortive second stand at another ridge, everybody left slowly, singing "America the Beautiful" and "We Shall Overcome" between coughs, chokes, and curses hurled at the polic.

Most of the demonstrators parently found their way to the Hilton, as they had been told to do.

"Hit him again!"

heeding their leaders' pleas not to provoke the occupation troops.

Soviet tanks remained in inconspicuous positions while road crews repaired the damage caused by Soviet tanks and cleared sidewalks of debris.

A Czechoslovak government announcement said foreign newspaper men will not be admitted into the country until further notice. There was no mention in the statement, however, of the government's attitude toward the foreign press already in the country before the crisis and those who hurried to Prague when it arose a week ago.

Machine-gun fire was heard early today in Wenceslas Square, centre of the Czechoslovak resistance to the occupation —mainly by Russian troops— but otherwise the situation was quiet.

Citizens were streaming to work and there were no indications of an early response to an appeal by Prague students Tuesday night for a general strike in protests against the Moscow agreement made public only hours earlier.

STORES REOPEN

Stores were reopening and, with luck, getting fresh supplies in, as Prague slowly regained some semblance of the normal appearance of a capital city.

Demonstrators have called on the people to gather in Wenceslas Square and march on Parliament as they did Tuesday night in a moving expression of patriotic feeling and revulsion against the prospect of continued subjection to Kremlin control.

Thousands marched 25 abreast while Soviet troops posted nearby made no move to intervene. The crowd gathered under the windows of Parliament to hear a deputy tell them, "Parliament does not agree to the communique from Moscow."

The Moscow deal allows reformist Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek and his colleagues to stay in office at the price of Soviet troops stationed on Czechoslovak soil and an end to freedom of the press.

WANT THE TRUTH

"We do not want a compromise! We want to know the truth!" the demonstrators shouted.

Some underground radio stations, broadcasting from secret locations, demanded that the accord be rejected.

"We refuse to recognize the agreement," the broadcasts said. "Let us not be humiliated or knuckle under."

The crowd in Wenceslas Square tore down pictures of the reformist leaders who since January had led the country away from 20 years of Stalinist-type rule but now have to reimpose restrictions under the pressure of 350,000 Soviet-bloc occupation troops.

Assurances given by the reformist leaders that they would not abandon their program of liberalization failed to carry much weight among the thousands gathered round transistor radios in the square.

Russian patrols walked down the streets of the square tearing down thousands of posters, proclamations, poems and cartoons telling the Russians "to get out of our country."

But along with these outbursts, the reaction of many others was one of angry resignation.

Armed Soviet soldiers, armored cars and tanks still guarded key places in Prague today but had withdrawn from the bridges across the Vltava River and from around government and Communist party buildings.

WALK UNMOLESTED

For the first time since the occupation began Aug. 20, people were able to walk unmolested through the streets at night although there was no announcement that the 10 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew imposed by the Russians had been lifted.

A group of youths stood guard all night at the statue of St. Wenceslas, which has become a shrine since a 14-year-old boy was shot there on the first day of the occupation. A large poster said: "We want total democracy."

Russian soldiers did not approach. Earlier armored cars turned into side streets to avoid demonstrators who shouted: "We do not want to live on our knees!"

before the national television audiences during the day rather than at a time when most Americans would have been asleep.

But there was no firm evidence that supporters of a softer line on Vietnam can force a change in the proposed policy statement. That fight was lost in the drafting committee.

Anti-war delegates generally were restrained in predicting how they would fare today.

The Democrats Tuesday night indulged in what amounted to an orgy of democracy as vote after vote of the ponderous delegation system was taken on the crowded convention floor. Issues ranged from more disputes about southern bias against Negroes to sitting youthful party faithful in the national council.

APATHY HURTS

The youth movement lost, more from apathy than opposition. The convention approved compromises on the Negro representation questions, in some cases ousting half a delegation.

But the tedious process played a part in the rebellion against tackling Vietnam after such a hectic night.

Wisconsin moved to adjourn until 4 p.m. today. That was rejected by a rattled convention chairman who immediately approved the motion of the angry mayor of Chicago—under fire for overkill on security, for transport and communications strikes and a rash of seemingly-deliberate police beatings of news men—to retire until noon.

Philanthropist Woodward Dies

Percival Archibald Woodward, the millionaire son of the founder of Woodward Stores Ltd. who gave Royal Jubilee Hospital $150,000 for fixing a bloody nose he got as a youth, died Tuesday in Vancouver. He was 78.

Nicknamed Puggy, the straight-talking philanthropist gave millions of dollars to B.C. charties, to UBC and to hospitals in Vancouver and New Westminster.

One of four sons of Charles Woodward born on a Thessalon, Ont., farm, Mr. Woodward concentrated on the family enterprise after it moved west.

He became a merchandising specialist and changed the buying habits of much of western Canada.

Brother William C. Woodward, who also stayed with the business, entered public life and was lieutenant-governor of B.C. from 1941 to 1946.

Educated in Vancouver, Mr. Woodward served as vice-president of the company and saw the chain of stores grow to nine in B.C. and four in Alberta.

WOODWARD FOUNDATION

He retired from active duty with the company in 1958 to devote full time to his charities through the P. A. Woodward Foundation.

During the Second World War he served as administrator of consumer rationing with the Wartime Prices and trade board.

He joined the artillery during the First World War but, as he put it, "they kicked me out" for physical reasons. He was given an honorary commission in the army purchasing service.

The money he gave Royal Jubilee to construct the Woodward School of Nursing Building. For it, he was named First Regent of the hospital.

That was in 1965. Sixty years before he was playing soccer with a Vancouver high school team in Victoria. He left some of the Victoria players on edge.

"We won, but three of the so-and-sos jumped on me. They broke my nose.

"I had to get it fixed at Royal Jubilee Hospital. I've had great affection for the hospital ever since."

Between the wars, Woodwards introduced the "groceteria" to Canada to overcome losses in phone orders and deliveries.

They also introduced what now the trade calls the "loss leader." They began selling food at less than cost.

EXPLAINED SYSTEM

Mr. Woodward, who always referred to his father as "the old man," explained how the system worked:

"I asked the old man why they should sell stuff at a loss. He said it brings people in. I cut out the deliveries and the phone orders."

Business boomed.

He is survived by his wife, Marion Louise. Their son, William Douglas, died in 1935 at the age of 18.

Funeral services will be held Friday from Kerrisdale Presbyterian Church in Vancouver with burial at West Vancouver's Capilano View Cemetery.

Racing Cancelled

Due to lack of entries Thursday's horse racing program at Vancouver's Exhibition Park has been cancelled. Racing is expected to resume Friday.

NIXON LEADING ALL OPPONENTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Richard Nixon led Democrats Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, Eugene McCarthy or President Johnson by identical six-point margins in a Louis Harris U.S. election survey conducted last Saturday.

The survey copyrighted by The Washington Post published Tuesday, represented a sharp upturn of more than 10 points in Nixon's standing with voters since the Republican convention and the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Harris said. It also showed a loss of edge for McCarthy in relation to Humphrey, he said.

There have been no recent gains for third-party candidate George Wallace of Alabama, he said, but there has been a firming up of voter cleavages over the racial issue.

The survey showed as of Aug. 24:

In a Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace race: Nixon 40 per cent, Humphrey 34 per cent, Wallace 17 per cent and not sure, 9 per cent.

In a Nixon-McCarthy-Wallace race—Nixon 41 per cent, McCarthy 35 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 8 per cent.

In a Nixon-Johnson-Wallace race—Nixon 42 per cent, Johnson 36 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 6 per cent.

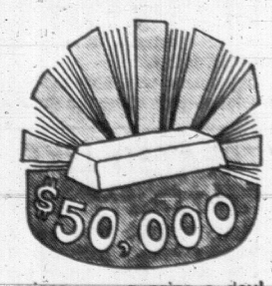

In a July 26-29 survey, Humphrey led Nixon 41 per cent to 36, and McCarthy led Nixon 43 per cent to 35. The Nixon-Johnson question was not asked at that time.

Caouette Sees Creditistes as Base for Renewed Socred Drive

By CARMAN CUMMING

OTTAWA (CP) — Creditiste Leader Real Caouette is laying plans to expand his Quebec-based party to a national scale, starting with addition of provincial representatives at a fall convention.

The 50-year-old leader, all alone as chief federal spokesman of Social Credit philosophy after the Social Credit party's shutout in the June election, discussed his plans in an interview Tuesday night.

He expects followers of Social Credit philosophy from all parts of the country to attend the Oct. 12-13 party convention in Sherbrooke, Que.

The board of directors may be increased to around 30 members from the present 17 to broaden the party's base, he said.

"I feel that every province will have a representative on the board after Oct. 13," he said.

He will make a 15-day tour of the Prairies and Ontario this fall to enlist support. And in the spring he will tour the Maritimes.

By the next election, he predicted, the party will be ready to run candidates in every constituency.

Mr. Caouette brushed aside a suggestion that he is taking over the organization of the national Social Credit party, led by Conservative MP Robert Thompson until his resignation last year.

"There was no organization," he said. "Some of the western candidates were helped by provincial parties but as far as federal organization was concerned, there was none."

Mr. Caouette's Creditistes increased their Commons strength to 14 members from eight in June while the four-member Social Credit party disappeared.

The Creditiste leader said a number of Social Credit organizations and individuals have asked admission to his party, including the Young Social Credit League of Ontario.

Some had offered support even before the election.

These people are "neither Thompson-ites nor Caouette-ists but Social Crediters," he said.

Mr. Caouette also quoted British Columbia's Social Credit Premier, W. A. C. Bennett, as saying after the election that all Social Crediters should recognize Mr. Caouette as national leader since he alone had "succeeded."

Mr. Caouette was deputy leader of the national party when it reached its peak strength of 30 members in the 1962 election. He led a Quebec wing out of the party in 1963 after the total strength had been reduced to 24.

Stress and Distress

THE UNITED STATES AND ITS friends have read with amazement and concern the reports from Chicago, where thousands of troops and police have been deployed to counter violence in connection with the Democratic Party convention. Stories and pictures from the mid-west city might well have emanated from Prague or Saigon.

The seven-foot barbed-wire fences, the sealed manholes and guarded sewers, the complicated security checks and the general tension and fear paint a picture of a sorely troubled nation and a political party in disarray. For behind the barricades and armed guards the tempers of the delegates have been rising, particularly in regard to policy on Vietnam, and the bases for some serious future schisms have no doubt been laid.

Just as the angry divisions of the Democratic Party delegates are representative of the mood of much of the country, so are the violent youth demonstrations and the often savage reprisals of the Chicago police indicative of the torment that plagues the nation. The dilemma of the Democratic delegates is in no way lessened by the consensus of the popular polls that while Vice-President Humphrey appears most likely to win the nomination he is given a poor chance of defeating Republican Mr. Nixon in the final presidential race.

While beyond the convention hall the police have no doubt been subjected to intolerable provocation by thousands of demonstrators, many of whom apparently have converged on the city solely for the purpose of creating disorder, the police reaction suggests an element of hysteria when bystanders and working press reporters are clubbed and manhandled for no apparent reason. The local riots that marred Miami during the Republican convention two weeks ago were racial protests; the current marches and battles in Chicago are ideological and peace demonstrations staged largely by a floating population of so-called hippies and yippies. But while platform speakers and street mobs both profess their dedication to the concept and cause of peace, there is little of it either at home or abroad.

The United States faces problems in the coming election contest which dwarf the difficulties of most elections. A deep and angry emotionalism overlays many of the issues—a token alike of the division within the nation and the sorry doubts and fears that tend to nullify American influence in the world today.

In this period of quandary and frustration, the people appear ready to turn to a more rightist solution — a toning down of some of the recent liberal tendencies in favor of a social and humanitarian regression of unknown extent. This predictably will arouse still more protest and agitation among the colored, the needy, the young. It will require statesmanship of the highest order in a president to master the problems in store for the country. Election is, of course, a high honor, but it takes a heavy toll.

He Bombed Out

PRESIDENT CHARLES DE Gaulle has seldom seemed more loftily out of step with the world beneath him than he did last week when France exploded its first hydrogen bomb. After the test was completed in the South Pacific, General de Gaulle declared it was a "magnificent scientific, technical and industrial success carried out for the independence and security of France by an elite of its children." If he was expecting the world to greet his announcement with hosannas, the silence must have been deafening. In a week when some of the harsh realities of big power politics were made brutally apparent, his timing could not have been worse.

If there was any universal reaction to the French achievement, it was probably a tightening in the pit of the stomach. Confronted by the Czechoslovakian crisis and all its potential perils, few could find cheer except perhaps the aging general himself. There was little indication that his countrymen were overjoyed. Many protested that the vast sums of money spent on developing the bomb would have been better used to cure some of the ills plaguing the nation at home. Instead it went into building a questionable monument to the president, whose lonely vision of grandeur had made it almost an obsession.

So now there are five members of the misnamed nuclear "club"—Russia, the United States, Britain, China and France. Who'll be next? Each new membership in the group adds to the chance of a nuclear holocaust, either by accident or design. And Czechoslovakia has emphasized another truth about nuclear weapons that gives little cause for hope: under the implied threat of nuclear war a nation possessing the bomb can impose its will on another while everyone else is forced to look on helplessly. The fact that nuclear war is unthinkable makes nuclear blackmail all the more attractive to unscrupulous governments.

Schools Without Libraries

REPORTS THAT FIVE ELEmentary schools on the Saanich Peninsula will be without library space in the coming year should arouse the gravest concern. The use of libraries in current teaching methods is fundamental in training students to develop a love of reading and the ability to use book collections for research. These are skills which will be of lifelong service and enjoyment. To deprive school children of library facilities is to cancel out a large part of the normal school function. The pupils of these five schools will be short-changed next term, and so will their parents who are paying heavily for the education of their young. In a poverty-stricken land such a deprivation might be excusable even though deplored. In a province as prosperous as British Columbia it shows a sorry bungling of public responsibilities all along the line.

How Real Must They Be?

IT WILL BE A MATTER OF some interest to those who appreciate the Arthurian legends that archeologists, now digging up South Cadbury Hill, near Glastonbury, have begun a search for a chapel where, according to some stories, King Arthur in the sixth century saw a vision of the Virgin Mary.

The South Cadbury Hill excavations have stirred interest throughout the world, but the whole project and the latest objective, the chapel, have failed to answer the major question: Did Arthur really exist? Not even the diggers have been able to find conclusive evidence on that point.

Perhaps the question is irrelevant. If King Arthur and the Round Table did not exist, if Camelot had no physical dimensions, someone obviously had to invent them. Robbed of their inspiration, one type of English literature would be infinitely the poorer, and chivalry would lose much of its grace. Apart from that, Mark Twain would have been deprived of all the fun he took and gave from a certain Connecticut Yankee's escapades.

FROM UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Nasser Asked to Spell Out Details

ISRAEL has asked UN Mideast mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to seek from the United Arab Republic, in writing, the answers to two vital questions bearing on an Arab-Israeli peace, it has been learned here. The questions are: Is UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser serious about his privately-stated willingness to end the 20-year "state of belligerency" with Israel? If so, what kind of settlement would he be prepared to accept? Will he spell it out in detail?

Frye

Jarring, it is understood, has not yet put the questions to Nasser, but plans to do so on his next visit to Cairo.

UN sources regard the fact of the questions as a "minor breakthrough," opening up for the first time the possibility of a negotiation on the substance of long-standing Arab-Israel issues, including the terms of an Israeli withdrawal from territory captured in the 1967 war.

It means, according to UN analysts, that Western entreaties and Egypt's recent hints of willingness to compromise have lured Israel away from firm insistence on direct negotiations.

The Israeli queries are taken to imply a willingness to deal indirectly through Jarring, at least in preliminary stages.

The UN mediator has been trying since last November to get a meaningful negotiation under way. He has been hung up on the question of whether the dealings would be face-to-face or not. Israel previously has insisted that they be direct. The Arabs have refused.

Nasser first hinted at willingness to make sweeping concessions to Israel in private talks last spring with two unofficial American visitors to Cairo: John J. McCloy, former high commissioner to Germany, and Robert B. Anderson, former secretary of the treasury.

Outline to Jarring

Later the Egyptian president is known to have outlined his modified terms orally to Jarring.

George W. Ball, new United States delegate to the UN, discussed them with Israeli officials last month in Jerusalem and urged that they be explored, if necessary without insistence on face-to-face discussion.

Nasser's newest stand includes these key elements:

1. Willingness, following an Israeli troop withdrawal, to see the Sinai peninsula, including the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba, demilitarized and patrolled, once again, by a UN force, as it was from 1957-1967.

At least a token area of Israel would also be demilitarized and patrolled.

2. Willingness to permit Israeli cargoes, and under certain conditions even Israeli flagships, to pass through the Suez Canal.

3. Willingness to see the more than 1,000,000 Palestine refugees from the 1948 Arab-Israel war recompensed for lost property, in many cases, rather than repatriated to what is now Israel.

4. Willingness to accept Israel as a permanent, de facto entity, rather than seek to drive her into the sea. This would not, however, involve formal diplomatic recognition.

All this, Nasser has said privately, could be set down in a written agreement of some kind and formalized by the UN, though it would not be incorporated in a peace treaty.

Israel has tended to be skeptical of Nasser's private overtures, looking upon them as propaganda designed to portray the U.A.R. in a favorable light before world opinion. In Israel's eyes, such propaganda merely masks war preparations.

Now, however, Jerusalem apparently has begun to acquiesce in pleas from the United States and others that she at least explore the opportunity and find out if it is serious.

Israel's air raid on the Jordanian village of Salt Aug. 4, in reprisal for repeated Arab terrorist incursions, is regarded here as a diversion from the main thrust of Mideast diplomacy.

UN debate in the wake of the incident has been focussed on ventilating passions, calming them, and getting the Jarring peace mission back on the rails.

FROM CHICAGO — By JOSEPH ALSOP

A Real 'White Backlash' This Time

IT is too bad that H. L. Mencken is no longer around to chronicle this rancid rally. Folly and fiddling-while-Rome-burns, comic self-importance and cosmic self-destructiveness are all so much in evidence that the late sage of Baltimore would have had a field day. Yet this Democratic convention bids fair to be different from any of those that Mencken covered, with the sole exception of the long-ago rally in Chicago that nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932. Then, one era in American politics came to an end. Now, the era that Roosevelt inaugurated also seems to be ending.

Alsop

This reporter, who went to work in the summer of FDR's first election year, may perhaps be prejudiced, because the political era that began in 1932 is the only era he has known. To him, at any rate, it seems to have been a good era, when great tests were passed with great boldness by the United States.

It was also an era when the Democratic party was continuously predominant. There were the eight Eisenhower years, to be sure. But in those years, Lyndon B. Johnson was majority leader of the Senate for most of the time. Except in fiscal matters, the ideas of the Truman administration were generally accepted by the Eisenhower policy-makers and whatever else it may have been, the Eisenhower administration was not illiberal.

The stench of an era's threatened end hangs over this convention, precisely because we are now so likely to have the first illiberal American government in the nation's history. This is not because Richard M. Nixon himself is an illiberal or wicked or sinister man, either. He is merely an intensely political man, who is just about certain to respond to the dominant political forces of the time.

It is those forces which are illiberal. On the one hand there are the capital-L Liberals and those even further to the left. Here in Chicago, they are behaving in the most illiberal possible manner, following the precept of rule-or-ruin, doing all in their power to hamstring their own potential allies, listening only to their own shrill voices.

In the nation, as a whole, these people are a tiny minority; but in the Democratic party, they probably have enough leverage to play the role of Samson in the temple, which they seem bent on doing. If elected, Richard Nixon will owe them a great debt; but they will not enjoy that debt's repayment.

On the other hand, there is the mood of the country, which partly results from an angry reaction to the goings-on of the capital-L Liberals and the men of the left — more especially the extremists among the black militants. Year by year, as affluence has increased, this country has been moving further and further to the right. You can see how far, by contrasting 1964 with 1968.

Barry Goldwater, though outwardly attractive as a human being, was obviously doomed to overwhelming defeat from the moment of his nomination. Richard Nixon, an infinitely cleverer if far less warm man, has enough sense to avoid the glaring mistakes that Goldwater made, and he has high hopes of victory.

'Southern' Strategy

But in reality, Nixon is seeking election on the same strategy that Goldwater used — the so-called Southern strategy, and his prime appeal is to the same groups that Goldwater appealed to, which have grown far larger in the interval because of the troubles in the cities.

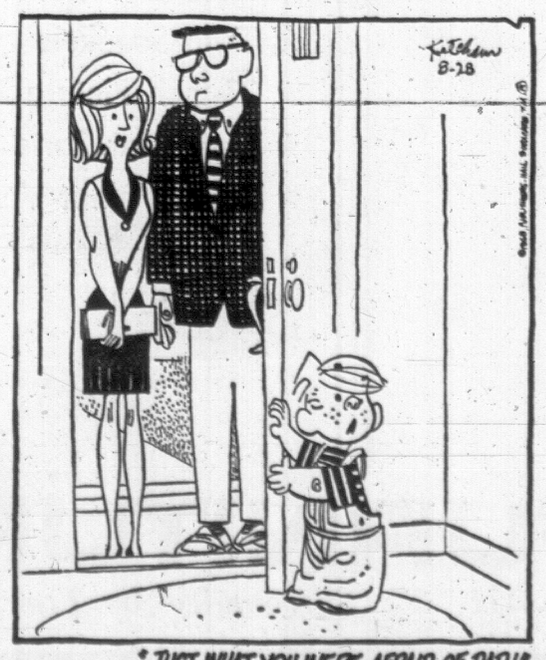

Everyone talked about "white backlash" in 1964, when there was very little. In 1968, we really have "white backlash," as anyone can see who glances at the opinion polls. Whether covertly or in the open, the race problem is due to dominate and to decide the election this year. It will be the first time that has happened since the election of 1860.

The Democrats have only one hope in these circumstances. They can sink their differences about Vietnam. They can name a man ready and willing to drag the race problem, with all its thorniness and difficulty, into the very centre of the electoral debate. They can hope for a good answer, if Americans are bluntly asked: "Are you prejudiced or are you not? And do you or do you not wish to move towards American apartheid?"

For whether Richard Nixon wishes it or no (and to be fair, he does not), any new administration elected by the Southern strategy must raise those questions. And the wrong answers to those questions will mean that a new era has indeed begun, to endure, perhaps, for a very long time.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back —

From the Times, Aug. 28, 1908.

Ladysmith — The action of city council in closing down hotels and saloons on Sundays with the consequent improvement in the conduct of the town, has drawn attention to the billiard saloons and bowling alleys. Aldermen reported complaints had been made that a good deal of gambling went on over the pool tables and that men returning from the mines at midnight stayed around the place until daylight.

A bylaw is being discussed to regulate these places.

With Friends Like These . . .

By STAN McDOWELL
From Ottawa

A 5,000-name petition on the way to Prime Minister Trudeau's office proves that not all the political curiosities in Quebec are on the separatist side. The petition is from a group that calls itself the "United Liberal party of Quebec." They are asking the prime minister to send Jean Marchand, minister of forestry and rural development, to be their leader.

McDowell

They are confident they can supply the followers themselves. The bulk of the party membership comes from an anti-separatist organization called The Vigilants of Canada which was founded last year and quickly ran its strength up to the neighborhood of 60,000 by an unusual method of recruiting.

Vigilants' recruiters simply went from door to door, asking "are you a separatist?" Anyone who said "no" got a membership card — no dues asked.

Since many members even of Rene Levesque's movement, including Mr. Levesque himself, deny that they are "separatists," the Vigilants' approach carried a strong risk of gathering a mixed bag.

The party's political slant comes from a handful of provincial Liberals, a good proportion of whom are English-speaking, who oppose that party's support for Quebec special status. The new party hopes to lure away all the true federalists from the Jean Lesage Liberals, and so to win power and give Quebec a thoroughly federalist provincial government.

Timing Surprising

Their sense of timing is surprising.

When a handful of English-speaking Montealers formed what they called the "Quebec Conservative party" two years ago, before the 1966 provincial election, it was a predictable, if politically futile, reaction from a frightened minority group.

At that time both major provincial parties were strongly nationalistic. Rene Levesque was still a leading Liberal. A declared separatist had been given a major role in drafting the Union Nationale platform. And the splinter parties were all committed to one form or another of Quebec independence.

But the "United Liberal party of Quebec" is making its attempt to drain the federalist members from the established provincial Liberal party at the moment when the federalist wing of that party is on the upswing.

Quebec Liberals lost their strongest nationalists with Rene Levesque in October, 1967. The remaining core of nationalism, centred around former Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie, was further put in the shade by Mr. Trudeau's strong election showing in Quebec and by the decision of more than one half the Liberal members of the Quebec legislature to support him. Among the Trudeau supporters was Pierre Laporte, former minister of cultural affairs, who is Liberal house leader in the legislature and the most likely successor to Jean Lesage.

The strong federalists among Quebec provincial Liberals still pay lip-service to special status. But they also downgrade the importance of constitutional change. And at a time when a party survey is finding most members' prime interest is in economic matters, the radical special-status report of Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, adopted by the party caucus early this year, is once again subject to serious challenge.

Earthbound

Few observers expect the "United Liberal party of Quebec" to get off the ground, in spite of the impressive membership list brought in the salesmanship of The Vigilants of Canada.

But, if it did, its most probable effect would be to destroy the chance, which now appears a definite possibility, that the provincial Liberals' political judgment may carry them into the next election with a strongly federalist platform.

The best has often been the enemy of the good among the advocates of Quebec independence. Rene Levesque is now being attacked by separatist purists for compromising the goal of a separate Quebec to the dictates of practical politics.

The federalist cause now has its own purists, who promise to be no more helpful to their own cause than the uncompromising separatists are to theirs.

Letters

Let's Not Be Lazy

I certainly agree with Premier Bennett regarding the title of the province, British Columbia.

What is wrong with authorities and others today? Is it this "rush, rush, hurry, hurry" which is so prevalent today? Have we not time to write original names of places and do we have to abbreviate titles, etc.? I, for one, am confused sometimes in reading articles where there are four or five letters representing some company or organization. How ridiculous to put Alta. for Alberta, Sask. for Saskatchewan and Man. for Manitoba. Let us not be too lazy to write sensibly.—Mrs. D. D. Crowe, 422 Government.

Who Will Stop Them?

Czechoslovakia? Tito? The Foxy Bear's family quarrels, nothing more. The Third Reich was the last bastion. Russia's Mongol-Asiatic hordes are spoiling to take the rest of Europe. Who can stop them?—Not Naive.

Probing Into the Universe Proving Costly, Confusing

The Economist

"A Universe With A Definite Beginning."

With the proviso that more unsubstantiated rubbish is talked by scientists about the origins of the universe than about almost any other subject, this is still a surprising statement to find in an official government report.

Prove it? There's the rub; all our ideas about the universe consist of a candy web of theories spun around a very small nugget of fact too insubstantial to prove the issue one way or another.

A new generation of telescopes is being ordered round the world, costing, according to their design, anything from £2 million to well over £12 million apiece, but there is no guarantee that what they reveal is going to clinch the issue.

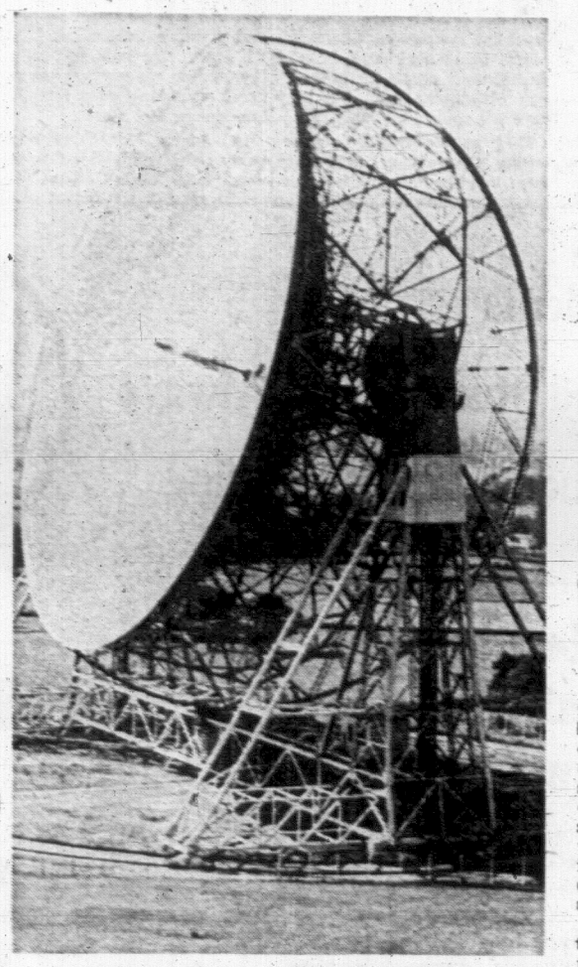

Wildly Disorderly?

There is even a nasty niggling possibility that the universe which comes into their greatly increased focus is going to prove a wildly disorderly place that will oblige astronomers to scrap many of their current ideas and go back if not to square one, then to something very close to it. The official report (Astronomy, Space and Radio Board's Review) allows for that possibility too: "either cosmologists are at present on the right track concerning the origin of the universe or .... if the present approach is wrong it will not be put right by minor adjustment. Our concepts conerning the relation of physics and astronomy will be drastically affected . . ." and so on.

Obeys Same Rules

This is not the sort of issue that can be shrugged off as of academic interest only; the government would hardly be putting £10 million a year into this kind of reasearch if it was. Matter in space seems to have the same structure and obey the same rules as matter on earth. No birds and bees perhaps, but the same kind of elementary chemicals, the same kind of atoms made up of the same sorts of particles. Modern industry today is based on discoveries about the nature of matter that were made 30 years before; the research still goes on but the apparatus is becoming so costly that it can only be built on a international scale and even then, this government has decided Britain can no longer afford to take part in it and has opted out of the project for a £175 million monster research machine in Europe.

But suppose the same sort of data can be discovered by watching the universe with the much cheaper telescopes? This would still keep scientists' knowledge of matter that one essential step ahead of industry's. If this sounds fanciful, think back to the development of atomic power from the abstruse nuclear studies of the 1930s.

Jodrell Bank Radio Telescope

But can the astronomers deliver the goods the way that the physicists did? They are an unruly and quarrelsome lot, whose arguments about how the universe did or did not begin is strongly coloured by religious overtones and prejudices.

Any astronmer who is middle-aged today has already completed one somersault in his academic lifetime, with the discovery that the solar system far from being the centre of the universe, was merely a distant and insignificant part of a galaxy that was itself only one of innumerable similar galaxies, whirling, exploding, bursting and dying all over space.

The bigger telescopes get, the more galaxies they discover; if there is an end to them, we have not found it, yet.

Sheer economics, if nothing else, have obliged astronomers to make their most recent discoveries with radio telescopes, which are several orders of magnitude cheaper than a really big optical telescope would be.

The giant of the optical telescopes remains the 200-inch American one at Mount Palomar which was commissioned just after the last war. To build another that size today would cost around £12 million; the 236-inch telescope the Russians are now constructing can hardly cost any less.

Smaller, Cheaper

Smaller optical telescopes come substantially cheaper: 150-inchers can be built for under £5 million; the British and Australian governments are sharing one, the Americans are building two, and there are others. But these do not solve the problem of seeing farther out into space than Mount Palomar.

radio telescopes, which were first built to hunt for stars that send out radio signals without any detectable light, are the only reasonably cheap answer. Even so, they run to six figures. Sir Bernard Lovell's big dish telescope cost originally nearly £750,000 and he has just been given £400,000 to replace fatigued metals in it and make some improvements.

But his next telescope will cost at least £4½ million at current prices, and understandably enough, has not been authorised. The man most likely to get the government's money is Professor Martin Ryle at Cambridge.

This is partly because his team has an outstanding record — scientifically speaking — for delivering the goods, but also because the Dutch are currently building a very similar telescope which will put the Cambridge team at a disadvantage unless Professor Ryle is allowed to jump ahead of the competition.

There is, on the other hand, no immediate competitor in sight to Professor Lovell's very different design. His chances of further government support would be much enhanced if there were. It may not sound very scientific, but that's how the cookie tends to crumble.

Telescope Split Up

Professor Ryle is a key figure, and not only because he is reputedly one of the best engineers in the country, who developed the concept of splitting up his telescope into component parts that he scatters round the countryside to give him a single, vast instrument with a working diameter now planned for three miles.

He is also at the centre of the controversy about how the universe started. He (and a substantial body of other cosmologists) are reasonably convinced that it had a starting point from which nuclear particles emerged at high speed to group, and on the fringes to solidify, into galaxies and stars that are still flying into the blue yonder.

Certainly, his telescope showed stars getting denser the farther away they were, which is what you would expect to find if the world did begin with a big, central bang. Not quite the way Genesis puts it, but near enough.

Recent research has added sufficient credibility to this theory for official opinion to start coming down, very cautiously, on Professor Ryle's side. There is small risk of his not getting the £2 million that he needs from the government to construct his new, three-mile-wide telescope which will give him a ninefold increase in range over his present one-mile instrument.

This may, of course, prove that his dense distant stars are a purely local phenomenon not repeated farther out in space, which would be a triumph for the other, currently rather less fashionable, school whose most vocal supporter is Professor Fred Hoyle and which believes the universe is in an equilibrium of continuous growth and decay; stars and galaxies dying and others coming into being to take their place.

Agnostics Like It

An endless process, in other words, without beginning or end, which agnostics find much more satisfying, intellectually, than all the talk of explosions and beginnings.

Both theories, however, rest on a very shaky interpretation of what the telescopes are saying. What the telescopes indicate is that there are a lot of objects about in space giving off radiation.

What the astronomers deduce from that radiation is another thing altogether. The fact that much of it is at the red end of the spectrum, they say, means that the star of what-have-you is travelling very fast away from us. This fits in with all sorts of theories from Einstein onwards, but it doesn't always fit in with the facts.

Every now and then, instances occur when the presence of this redness very obviously means something quite different. These instances are cropping up rather too frequently for comfort, and now comes the disconcerting discovery of a young American astronomer that one of four galaxies he has been observing is travelling — as measured by its red shift — many times faster than the book says it has any right to be doing.

Contrary Behavior

Why is it out-distancing the other galaxies in this disorderly fashion? Add to this the increasing difficulty of explaining away some of the growing number of quasi-stars (quasers, pulsars) that are also behaving contrary to known rules, and the foundations of modern cosmology begin to look very shaky.

All this happens way beyond the reach of the space probes, so far away that millions of years have elapsed between the event and the time its signal reaches earth; it is really a form of galactic archaeology.

If the world was coming to an end, we might easily be the last to know it. So £2 million seems quite a cheap investment to find out.

Can a Law Make You Love Thy Neighbor?

By ART STOTT

Several years ago, when this community demonstrated a widespread discrimination against our residents of Chinese origin, we watched a sad little drama in our neighborhood. A man who had purchased a high-priced waterfront lot, presumably on speculation, found it somewhat difficult to unload. Nobody apparently wanted to meet his price.

Stott

To stimulate action, he brought around three or four Chinese market gardeners in their working clothes to inspect the property in the role of prospective purchasers.

The device was effective. A neighbor bought the lot and we felt the sale had been executed speedily because the neighbor sought to preserve the all-white character of the locality. The cost of prejudice, we thought, ran high.

★ ★ ★

The incident sticks in my memory and becomes even more melancholy as the years pass. Because so many of our people of Chinese origin have demonstrated their good citizenship and so unobtrusively been assimilated into our society, it seems almost inconceivable to me that anyone would object to them as neighbors now.

Still, when I feel an inclination to condemn the bigotry of racism, I recall that sale and remind myself that the neighbor who made the purchase was to us a kindly, decent person, probably concerned with maintaining property values.

I am also persuaded that people in my position have an expansive tolerance because they have never been exposed to some of the uncomfortable aspects of racial problems. We're all for minority rights because no minority has every impinged on our enjoyment of living. Who, in this town, objects to the Patagonians, whom we've never seen, let alone met in competition for jobs or housing?

The issue of discrimination has been raised here again recently by a university professor who has reported the embarrassment and difficulty some of his colleagues of another ethnic group experienced in finding accommodation. And the almost automatic suggestion has been advanced that we should have a non-discriminatory housing law. This may be a development of the future.

Such laws have been deemed necessary in certain parts of the United States and elsewhere in the struggle to emancipate minorities from environments which impede their growth and attainment of dignity. The experience of Victoria with its citizens of Chinese origin suggest that evolution is a better solution to the problem than legislation, but evolution takes time.

There is, moreover, a certain disability in legislation as far as landlords are concerned. As I understand the open housing laws, they permit an owner to rent or refuse to rent to a white person, depending on the impression the prospective tenant makes upon him, or the record the applicant for accommodation brings with him. But if, for any of a number of reasons, he rejects an applicant whose skin is a different color, he is branded with discrimination.

The argument can be raised, of course, that a person renting a house would be adequately protected against undesirable tenants no matter what their origin. If an occupant kicked the house apart, let the weeds flourish in the garden or so conducted himself that he was a nuisance to his neighbors, then eviction proceedings might be taken. But if the occupant happened not to be white, Anglo-Saxon Protestant—or a reasonable facsimile thereof—doubts might arise over an owner's eviction decision. If the tenant had been "one of us," though a mite careless in house maintenance and behaviour, would he have been turfed out?

At all events, a law would not be enough. If a tenant is to live a reasonable life, he has to enjoy a willing acceptability in his environment. What kind of existence is it which depends on sufferance enforced by legislation?

★ ★ ★

By good fortune, we have the example of Victorians with Chinese antecedents to indicate to us the preferable way of meeting the racial problem. Our need, perhaps, is less to seek legislation forcing one element of our population to tolerate another than to educate it into a recognition of human worth, regardless of color. A little common sense here could be far better than an entry in the statute books—and would permit an expression of preference by landlords accepting tenants, with the understanding that landlords are also human beings.

Bigotry we have with us, admittedly. But color discrimination is probably one of its lesser expressions in this community because we haven't been exposed to enough color to make it important.

Where Have All the Good Words Gone?

By NANCY MITFORD
(The Listener)

The 'basic' mentality is a real danger to our language. For some reason, Sir Winston Churchill took an interest in basic English and he once asked the late Duke of Devonshire to help him to popularize it.

The Duke said: 'What is "to hell with the Pope" in basic?' They looked in the glossary: 'The Holy Father must go to a hot spot.' The Duke said that was not good enough.

Of course it's not good enough, but basic is spreading like a spot of oil. No word not in current kindergarten use may be introduced into the dialogue of a film. When working on a script I once wrote 'ineluctable'; I was told to take it out at once as nobody would know what it meant. I protested that people are educated now — we know they are — the papers are full of schools, their buildings, their milk, their levels and their leaving age; if the scholars don't know what 'ineluctable' means I said furiously, they can go home and look in a dictionary. Nobody listened to me.

The Bible and Prayer Book used not to be too difficult or too immodest for Scotch shepherds of maiden ladies or workers who left school, if they ever went to one, at the age of ten, but now these great English classics must be watered down and bowdlerised for the educated men and women of today.

If You Don't Swing Don't Ring, Says Hugh

By MAXINE CHESHIRE

CHICAGO — "Big Brother," circa 1984, was really watching the other night as McCarthy supporters paid $100 per person to invade the mansion of Playboy creator Hugh Hefner.

The White House and the Secret Service could learn a lot from Hefner, who has closed-circuit television watching the front door, the back door and the front hall simultaneously.

This multi-million-dollar mansion has two German-born electronic wizards working in the basement to ensure security. The arched palladian windows imported from Italy are bullet-proof.

There are also closed-circuit television cameras focusing from all angles at all times on every area of every room and no guest who nibbles the caviar or sniffs the champagne is unaware that at some point or other Hefner is "watching you."

Tuned-In Bed

Hefner spends most of his time in bed. It is a bed equipped with 300 buttons that can tune him into place in time, space or geography at any moment.

He can even arrange to see the future. He needs only to press a button, electronically, and say that he wants to watch a program on television on Nov. 21, 1968, three months from now, and one of his machines in the basement will put it on a computer tape.

When that date on the calendar comes up that program will be recorded for him to view. He can see it a year from now or 20 years from now if he's still swinging.

Hefner did not appear at this party for more than an hour and it made many guests uneasy that he was watching them and listening to them before he ever came downstairs.

Guards Are Grim

The security guards in this house are sterner and grimmer than anyone who has guarded any president at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. They told guests they couldn't step across the threshold into any room unless the floor was painted white.

That may or may not represent purity. It probably represents the fact that Hefner with one of the 300-buttons on his king-size bed, can make it snow inside in any season, or rain if he feels in a Sadie Thompson mood.

A brass plate above the doorbell, going into his inner sanctum reads in Latin "Si non osallas loli tintinarre," which translated loosely means "If you don't swing, don't ring."

Puckered Lips

Midway through the evening Hefner finally showed up. At his side was a blonde with a very blank expression. She had Marilyn Monroe's mouth and Kim Novak's eyes.

She held a champagne glass in one hand with a black patent leather pocketbook over that arm. She held Hugh Hefner's left hand in her other hand. She puckered her lips and opened her eyes as he moved from one group to another talking to the literati.

She said she was in a movie called "Medium Cool" now being filmed in Chicago and had only met Hefner three days ago when he called up and invited her to use the various apartments in his mansion set aside for bunnies.

She said her name was Sandy Roberts, which was the only thing she said expressively all evening. She had dimpled knees but a very small chest measurement.

She did not really enhance Hefner's image since she kept insisting that he's the nicest, kindest man she ever met.

"You keep hearing all these stories about him" she said, "but he is the most uninsistent man I ever met."

Hefner introduced her to his two hosts of the evening—economist John Kenneth Galbraith and celebrity par-excellence George Plimpton. Both worked for Hefner as free lance writers for Playboy. Both were his house guests in the mansion. Neither brought their wives.

Plimpton, newly married to a cuddly "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" who wears scalloped miniskirts only two inches longer than a bikini bathing suit, said he somehow did not think his wife "fitted in" the surroundings at Hefner's home in Chicago.

The Big Issues

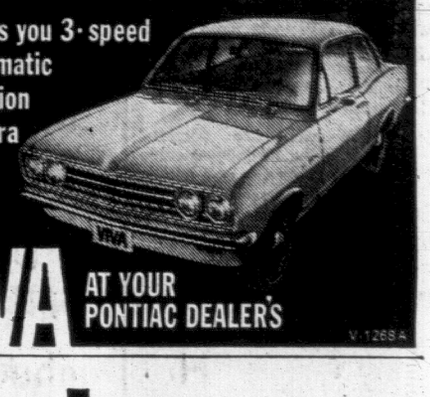

Hefner and his blond companion wanted to talk about very serious issues with Plimpton. Plimpton did concede at one point that the crisis in Czechoslovakia had, in his opinion, "destroyed the peace plank."

Plimpton and Galbraith both of whom are close to six and a half feet tall, were literally the biggest men in the room. This intimidated Hefner who said, "you guys make me feel so small."

The only nonstop jet service to Los Angeles happens to be the best

We don't often toot our own horn, but you be the judge.

The "Western Canadian," nonstop jet service from Vancouver to Los Angeles, offers you a delicious lunch served on fine china, your choice of five famous tea blends from Murchie's, and an executive hostess to make the entire flight smoother for you.

All of this is Coach Service.

As for First Class, you'll have to experience that for yourself.

And of course, there are two more Western jets daily to Los Angeles, offering you a choice of morning or evening departure times.

Humility is admirable.

But the plain truth is that the only nonstop jet service going to Los Angeles happens to be the best service going.

Call us on it.

The service is nonstop, too, throughout Western America.

New Wall, Landscaping Planned To Beautify Kinsmen Park Area

A masonry wall backed by landscaping will grace the Gorge Waterway at Kinsmen Park in Esquimalt.

Council approved a plan Monday night which will see $100,000 spent in the first stage of the facelifting and nearly $90,000 later.

The provincial government, through the Capital Improvement District Commission, will provide the money. The CIDC gave the go-ahead last Friday for the $100,000 on the Esquimalt side of the Gorge and $84,000 for the third stage of work on the Saanich side where the first phase is finished and the second in progress.

Initially, the Esquimalt improvements will consist of building a rock wall outside the existing bank along the low water line. The wall will be topped with concrete and back-filled with granular material.

The continuous wall is considered unnecessary at the east end of Kinsmen Park where natural rock outcrops provide stability for the high bank.

RETAINERS

The report, presented by Ald. Walter Lock, proposed the foot of the bank between natural outcrops be retained by placing either large loose rocks or bagged cement-sand mixture to the high water mark.

The second phase will see topsoil placed over the granular material, underbrush clearing and landscaping. The existing path will be replaced with an eight-foot-wide asphalt path. Litter bins and benches will be installed.

As an additional recommendation, the report suggested planting of trees along the south edge of the park east of Sioux Place to provide a screen between the park and nearby residential area.

In other business, council zoned the panhandle area for single-family residences and lifted the lengthy moratorium on building. Nearly 20 people spoke in favor at a public hearing.

Council zoned the seventh phase of the Rockheights residential development, consisting of eight or nine lots, and a public hearing will be held at 7:15 p.m. Sept. 9.

Bursaries Awarded Indian Students

Three Indian students have been awarded bursaries on entering their first year of study at British Columbia universities.

They are: David Joe, 1316 Monterey Avenue, Victoria; Murray Ellis, Box 38, Ladysmith; and Ivan Tallio, 2031 Creeman Avenue, Vancouver.

Mr. Ellis and Mr. Tallio have been awarded the B.C. Indian and Welfare Memorial bursary for university study.

Mr. Joe was not born in B.C. so was not eligible for this bursary. But a member of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society donated a special bursary.

The cheque will be presented to Mr. Joe at a meeting in the cafeteria of the Douglas Building, Sept. 17 at 8 p.m.

Polish Jews Pessimistic

By MARTIN ZUCKER

WARSAW (AP)—There is a sad Jewish exodus these days from Poland.

It isn't big. There are only 25,000 or 30,000 Jews left in Poland.

Those leaving are doctors, teachers, lawyers, actors, engineers; journalists, mostly professional people. From various estimates, about 800 may have left since June, 1967.

They go disappointed, bitter, feeling there is no future for them in Poland. And these survivors of Hitler's genocide which nearly obliterated Poland's 3,500,000 Jews represent a loss to the state.

The exodus is the result of an anti-Israel campaign which began a year ago after the defeat of the Arab states by Israel and a more-recent "anti-Zionist" campaign launched by the Communist regime after an outbreak of student demonstrations and rioting last March.

In June, 1967, Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka denounced Polish Jews and non-Jewish Poles who welcomed Israel's victory over the Arabs. He said the door was open to Jews wishing to go to Israel.

This year, after the March disturbances, the party launched a campaign of rallies and press diatribes heaping primary blame on Zionists for the trouble.

In a subsequent countrywide purge involving both Jews and non-Jews, considerable publicity was given to the dismissal of Jews. At rallies, slogans demanded that Zionists be purged from the party.

Free School To Be Tried

Supporters of a free school for Victoria are invited to a general meeting at University of Victoria's Student Union Building Thursday at 8 p.m.

They will be asked to join in forming a Victoria Free School Society for a $1 membership fee, said Mrs. Joan Schwartz, former teacher and one of the organizers.

People who are potential students in the liberally-oriented school, their parents and friends would be welcomed, she said, as well as anyone who could donate books or equipment.

The meeting will also consider a draft constitution and elect a board of directors.

Nobody else builds a car under $2000. with all these features.

Aussie Navy Troubled

By Vincent Matthews

MELBOURNE (CP) — The navy is charged with protecting much of Australia's 12,446 miles of coastline, but at its present strength, a Labor opposition member of Parliament charged recently, it could not even apprehend a Chinese sampan fishing on the Barrier Reef.

The MP made the quip during an uproar in Parliament over the case of the talkative admiral. A few days earlier the flag officer commanding the Australian Fleet, Rear-Admiral Gordon Crabb, shocked the government by telling reporters and distinguished guests aboard the missile destroyer Perth that the navy is below strength.

Australia is buying three of the Perth-type destroyers from the United States, but three is not a viable force, the admiral said. The navy needed four, but for financial reasons it had been told it could have only three. There also was a serious shortage of men which could only be made up by a much wider draft.

And, the admiral said, the navy is likely to be landed with the job of fisheries protection service on the northern coastline but would need at least 20 more patrol boats to do the job. It had little chance of getting them.

The admiral's statement came at an indelicate time for the government because the nationalistic pride of Aussies had been roused.

The cause was an 8,000-ton Russian trawler named the Van Gogh which has been raiding the rich prawn grounds in the Gulf of Carpentaria off the north coast of Queensland. Formosan boats have also been fishing off the Great Barrier Reef, but it was the Russian ship that made Australians angry.

AROUSED BY PIRACY

The owner of an Australian trawling fleet got publicity when he sent a telegram to Prime Minister John Gorton complaining that the Russian ship kept steaming straight towards the small Australian boats as they were about to haul a catch of prawns aboard. The boats had to leave their catch while the bigger Russian ship sailed in to "pirate" the lot.

Gorton sent his primary industry minister, Douglas Anthony, to the gulf to investigate. After reporting to the cabinet and talking with the defence minister, Anthony promised that the Royal Australian Air Force would keep up permanent patrols over the gulf and if the Russian ship violated the 12-mile territorial waters limit "action would be taken."

But this didn't satisfy the Labor opposition which called for the government to take control of all the waters in the gulf and "argue it out in the International Court later."

Gulf waters extend for more than 100 miles from the Australian mainland and the government is reluctant to create an international incident by claiming the waters as Australian.

In Parliament, Dr. Rex Patterson, who represents some angry voters in northern Queensland and who made the quip about the Chinese sampan, said the admiral's statement showed the shocking state of Australia's defences. He accused the government of a "pussy-foot" attitude towards claims for all the gulf waters because it is afraid of offending Russia, Formosa and Japan whose fishermen, he said, poach in Australian fishing areas.

PUT ON CARPET

Anthony replied that the attorney-general's department is studying every possibility that could lead to extending Australia's exclusive fishing rights.

Navy Minister Charles Kelly put the admiral on the carpet for embarrassing the government with his criticism of navy strength. Kelly said Crabb had broken the rules and now realized he had made an "unfortunate expression which was just not correct."

But although the admiral might have felt it was in the interests of his career and of the service to apologize and climb down, his words had made their impact. Politicians seized on them to confirm their views that there is disquiet over the navy's inadequacies. And the whole question of Australia's defences came under the spotlight again.

Within the next few weeks, a report ordered by Gorton on Australia's future defence role will be presented to cabinet. Crucial decisions affecting Australia's defences for the next 10 years will follow.

Killed by Fumes

REVELSTOKE (CP) — Lorne Thomas Bass, 19, of Revelstoke, died Monday at a mining camp 2 miles west of Revelstoke. He suffocated from the fumes of a propane heater in his room.

Council Unanimous On Sewer Proposal

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich council was told Tuesday night — amid applause — that it should have got cracking on sewers without going to the ratepayers in a Sept. 28 referendum.

The same point was made by three speakers and on two occasions there was loud hand-clapping for their remarks among the audience of 50 persons hearing an explanation of the sewer consolidation referendum in the municipal council chamber.

Mayor Hugh Curtis disclosed that it was necessary to have a unanimous resolution of council to establish the sewer enterprise without going to the public and the council was not unanimous on this point.

It was, however, unanimous in urging a yes vote of ratepayers to establish the enterprise and extend sewers into the area adjacent to the currently-sewered parts of Saanich over the next five years.

W. C. Hutchings, 4117 Glanford, asked if council does not have the authority to establish the enterprise on its own without going to the people.

Unanimity Needed

Mayor Curtis said yes, but the decision had to be unanimous among council.

"The council felt a moral obligation to go to the electorate, because some costs are up and some are down. It was the feeling of most of us that this should go to the electorate," he said.

(It was later learned that only two of the nine members favored bypassing the ratepayers and establishing the enterprise by council initiative.)

Mr. Hutchings replied that council was shunning its responsibility because one of the main issues in the last municipal election was starting work on sewers.

Ald. Leslie Passmore told the meeting that he had pledged from a public platform that the ratepayers would have a vote on the issue.

At another point, D. W. Latimer, 1741 Ash, said 520 letters of invitation were sent by Saanich to persons who have complained about lack of sewers but only 100 had attended the two public meetings.

"Are we not taking a terrific chance with a vote? We put you people in there . . . if you don't do the thing, you'll find out at the next election. If Saanich is in trouble (without sewer expansion) I'm scared of the apathy. If your council is 100 per cent in agreement you have a unanimous council," he said.

Project Supported

Mayor Curtis reiterated that council is is unanimously in favor of the sewer enterprise but it was not unanimous that council should establish the enterprise itself, without a public vote.

The minister of municipal affairs, Dan Campbell, had told council that a unanimous resolution would be sufficient for the necessary enablig legislation without a public vote but council was not unanimous on this point.

Another resident said if there was an outbreak of typhoid becausw of present conditions, "you won't ask us for a plebiscite for us to be vaccinated. Why does not the majority rule, if its' not unanimous? I agree with the other two speakers. We put you there to do a job. While you are there get on with the job and do it."

Mayor Curtis said the rule that council must be unanimous to bypass ratepayers was a provincial rule, not a municipal one. The Municipal Act restricted what local councils can and cannot do and he suggested the complaints be taken to MLAs.

Another round of applause greeted a fourth speaker who said "let's get out and work on its success."

In response to questions about sewage disposal, Mayor Curtis said regardless of what decisions are made on disposal there must first be a system of collection and this was what the Sept. 28 referendum was about.

"I'm convinced, personally, that the province will insist on treatment (plants) but we still have to collect it," he said amid applause.

Another speaker said the collection referendum should be postponed six months until the air clears on the disposal issue but Mayor Curtis said if Saanich waited six months, or longer, there could still be uncertainty.

Ald Passmore told the questioner that all the regional district, responsible for trunk line and outfall construction, can do is to apply for a permit to dispose sewage.

It was up to the Pollution Control Board of B.C. and the provincial health department to make the final decision on disposal—"they can tell you the answer, we can't," he said.

One Area; One Rate

The sewer enterprise, if approved by 60 per cent of Saanich ratepayers, will see the present six sewer areas and 45 different rates amalgamated into one area with a common charge of $22.14 a year plus $7 a year for maintenance.

To the sewered area will be added the immediately adjacent unsewered area. Ratepayers in this adjacent area will begin paying charges immediately although they will receive sewers gradually as work proceeds in a five-year plan.

The charges represent a saving, initially, to everyone on a sewer. Current sewer charges range from a low of $27 a year (debt plus maintenance) to a high of $137 a year.

Those outside both the sewered and the to-be-sewered areas will not pay anything, although all property owners can vote Sept. 28.

The sewer enterprise will see future capital expenditures including trunk lines and outfalls, and treatment plants if ruled necessary, spread among everyone in the enterprise area. At present the full burden would fall within whichever sewer area is affected.

Rebates Provided

A system of rebates will be established for those who have been paying for their sewers. The rebate will be $8.70 a year and will last as long as payments have been made—in the case of Sewer Area 1, the Gorge and High Quadra, this would be as much as 16 years.

Municipal engineer Neville Life told the meeting that sewers can be extended "reasonably quickly" in the Gordon Head area where there is an outfall and trunk line of sufficient capacity but Pollution Control Board approval will be necessary for additional discharge into the sea.

In the Colquitz area it was more complex because extension of sewers requires reconstruction of the Macaulay Point outfall and building of a trunk line. This is the regional district's priority and an application to the Pollution Control Board will probably be made in three to six months.

But it will be possibly two years before the area is sewered, he said, although he was sure it could be done in five years.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said as more work is undertaken and money borrowed, costs under the enterprise will increase.

An expenditure of $500,000 in the next two years would mean an increase of about $3 a year in the enterprise's common charge of $22.14, less rebates for those on sewers.

Persecution, Prosecution Are Defined

Glen Gold Stewart of Vancouver was acquitted Tuesday by Magistrate J. A. Byers on a charge of abducting his daughter. A similar charge of unlawfully detaining his son was dismissed by Magistrate William Ostler last April.

The magistrate Tuesday upheld a defence motion of autrefois acquit by lawyer Alan Bigelow. The previous charge was dismissed when the magistrate said the Crown's evidence in no way supported the charge.

Mr. Byers added: "Before leaving the case I think it is fair to mention what Mr. Bigelow has mentioned; that the informant having failed in the trial before Magistrate Ostler elected to file this information the very day after the order of acquittal was signed.

"He suggests the proceedings are more in the nature of persecution than prosecution," said Mr. Byers.

Juvenile Gets 18-Month Term

A 15-year-old juvenile who pleaded guilty Saturday to stealing a car was sentenced Tuesday to 18 months in jail.

At the earlier hearing he told the court he took the car for a joy ride because he didn't think the owner would miss it.

The car was parked in the 2600 block Belmont. The offence occurred Aug. 16.

"Courtesy On The Highway Saves Lives"

Hon. Wesley D. Black, Minister of Highways

If every driver on our highways extended the same courtesy to other drivers as he thinks they should extend to him, there would be far fewer accidents and fatalities and highway driving would always be the pleasure it should be.

On the highway, courtesy means obeying the rules – e.g. staying in the right hand lane except when passing, using signal lights when changing lanes, avoiding excessively fast or slow speeds. Drivers towing trailers and other slower moving vehicles should not bunch up, but allow space between vehicles for safe passing.

Highway courtesy begins before the driver leaves home. He makes sure that his car's steering, brakes, tires, lights and engine are in excellent condition and that he, himself, feels rested and alert.

In B.C., we have built our highways to make safe, courteous driving a pleasure. Only you the driver, however, can determine if these highways are used properly and courteously or abused injuriously or even fatally!

CANADA'S only surviving heart patient, Gaetan Paris, 49, is welcomed home Tuesday by his daughter Claudine, 19, who will help care for him during his convalescence. (CP Wirephoto.)

Neighbors Welcome Heart Patient Home

By BARBARA BLACK

MONTREAL (CP) — A cavalcade of 15 cars, complete with police motorcycle escort, followed Gaetan Paris and his new heart home from hospital Tuesday.

Mr. Paris, calm and apparently healthy after 61 days in hospital, sat beside his wife in the family car and smoked a cigarette while reporters frantically bypassed red lights to keep the couple in sight.

Canada's only surviving heart transplant patient was going home to suburban Laval for a roast chicken dinner and a quiet convalescence in the company of his family.

He was met at his modest bungalow by a crowd of neighbors, and appeared on the front steps to wave shyly to reporters milling about on the front lawn.

Dr. Pierre Grondin, head of the surgical team which performed the June 28 operation, had said as he watched Mr. Paris leave the institute that a family atmosphere will be very important for the transplant patient's complete recovery.

Mr. Paris, who appeared hesitant in the face of a barrage of television and radio microphones, brightened somewhat when he was asked what he would like to do first with his new freedom.

"Go fishing," he replied instantly.

WILL REST FIRST

Dr. Grondin added quickly:

"Boating and fishing are all very well, but Mr. Paris is a convalescent, you know. He will have to take it easy for about two months."

Mr. Paris's life at home will be quiet but normal, and free from the strict immunization rules which were imposed on his 61-day term in hospital.

Dr. Grondin said he would return to the institute "about two or three times a week" for treatments.

Mr. Paris, a 49-year-old electrical designer who received the heart of Yvon Bastien, 23, a Montreal motorcycle accident victim, had suffered what doctors called "progressive heart failure" since his third major heart attack in January, which left him unconscious for two weeks.

His was the 22nd heart transplant performed in the world. Now 34 such operations have taken place, of which 14 patients survive.

The same surgical team at the Montreal institute had performed Canada's first transplant May 31, on Albert Murphy, 59, also of suburban Laval, who died 46 hours after the operation.

TALC MINE BOMB SHELTER

ASCUTNEY, Vt. (AP) — A medical supply company has offered residents of five southern Vermont communities the use of a talc mine stocked with provisions for 2,000 persons for a shelter against nuclear attack. Members of the Mount Ascutney Nuclear Shelter Association were to decide whether to accept the offer from Johnson and Johnson Co.

Saanich Area To Petition For Hospital

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark will be handed a 4,000-name petition for a general hospital in the northern end of Saanich Peninsula.

A delegation from the Central and North Saanich areas will present the petition to him Friday afternoon.

The signatures were collected to support a protest in June by the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce opposing a proposal to modify the Agnew, Peckham regional hospital plan by building a 650-bed hospital in Saanich to replace both Resthaven and St. Joseph's Hospitals as acute-care institutions.

Pickets Removed From Mine Site

KELOWNA (CP) — Striking ironworkers removed pickets from the Brenda Mines construction site 14 miles east of Peachland in the Okanagan late Tuesday afternoon.

Work was halted Monday when construction workers refused to cross the line, set up by 50 ironworkers employed by Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd.

Frank Knutson, business agent of the Ironworkers union shopmen's local said the pickets were called off after the union received an assurance from Brenda Mines that no material from the strikebound Dominion Bridge Co. will be used at the mines until a contract agreement is reached.

Meals-on-Wheels Enterprise Due for Expansion by Saanich

A revamped and expanded meals-on-wheels service will start rolling Sept. 9 in Saanich.

Believed to be unique in British Columbia, the service began two years ago with volunteer Saanich fire-fighters driving the municipal civil defence truck on its rounds with 25 meals a day for shut-ins and those who cannot cook a proper meal for themselves.

Now, says Ald. William Noel, chairman of the municipal health and social services committee, Saanich has gone to a commercial company and it will make the deliveries Monday to Friday.

The meals will be prepared in the kitchens of Goodwill Enterprises, served on plates which will be covered with foil and placed in an oven for delivery to homes.

Ald. Noel said a letter of thanks is being sent to the Saanich fire department for its past contribution. Women from the Christian Reform Church will continue to assist the service.

He said Saanich is available to accept more applications for meals-on-wheels and people should contact welfare administrator Mrs. Bunty Marshall or public health nurses. Each application will be considered on the basis of need and location.

"Once the service gets rolling well I would like to see it extended over Greater Victoria," said Ald. Noel.

The revamped service will be bigger and faster than before, he said.

The municipal civil defence truck could convey only 25 meals a day but the new commercial vehicle can take 36 meals and there are three more vehicles to call on.

POLICE SEIZE $16,000 IN COINS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized $16,000 in Canadian silver coins at the Pacific Highway border crossing Monday.

The money was in 16 canvas bags under the back seat of a car occupied by two men heading for the United States, police said.

They said the men, one from Burnaby and the other from New Westminster, had been under surveillance, and were given a chance to declare goods at the border point before they crossed.

Police said the men were not arrested and no charges have been laid pending instructions from Ottawa.

Economy Not Up to Par

By JAMES NELSON
(First of a Series)

OTTAWA (CP) — The Economic Council of Canada outlined a series of goals 3½ years ago which, if met, would bring Canada up to the full achievement of its potential economic performance by 1970.

How well has the country performed so far?

Production, until recently, has run very close to the council's projections, but unemployment and prices have run far higher than the council's goals.

The council was established by an act of Parliament, passed in the summer of 1963, which commissioned it to "advise and recommend . . . how Canada can achieve the highest possible levels of employment and efficient production in order that the country may enjoy a high and consistent rate of economic growth, and that all Canadians may share in rising living standards . . ."

The council issued its first annual review of the economy in January, 1965, enunciating five main objectives for Canada:

—Full employment.

—A high rate of economic growth.

—Reasonable stability of prices.

—A viable balance of payments.

—An equitable distribution of rising incomes.

The country has been wide of the council's full-employment objective, with 5½ per cent of the labor force out of work this summer. And consumer prices have risen more rapidly than the council hoped in every year since its first report was issued.

But there has been a high rate of economic growth, Canada has been able to live with its balance-of-payments difficulties and efforts are being made to see that the country's rising incomes are more-equitably distributed.

The council's first review quickly became a sell-out text book for government departments, private businessmen and university lecturers in short courses on basic economics.

It was prepared under the direction of the council's first chairman, John J. Deutsch, now principal of Queen's University, and had the endorsement of a 28-member council composed of representatives of government, business, labor, agriculture and consumers. It was regarded as remarkable that such a consensus could be had from such a diverse group.

In essence, what the council found was that in 1963 Canada's economic performance was lagging, and it would require strenuous effort to bring it up to the full level of its capability by 1970.

As one example of the slackness in the economy then, the council said that if the country had been running at the peak of its potential, 1963 tax rates would have produced 18 per cent more government revenue than they did.

The 205-page report set a series of goals or targets for the balance of this decade. They were not forecasts or prophecies, but "measures of desirable performance by the economy—that is, concrete objectives of policy."

"Few, if any, of our economic and social goals can be expected to be realized automatically," the report said.

But failure to attain the goals "would bring heavy costs in terms of unemployment and slow gains in living standards, or in terms of inflation and economic distortion."

"Success, on the other hand, would bring great benefits. The increase in total output to 1970 would be almost double the rate of the last seven years. The improvement in average personal incomes would be even larger."

While the five main objectives could only be reached by balancing conflicting tendencies delicately, there was one over-all objective set by the council—to boost the country's real output by 45 per cent between 1963 and 1970.

This meant an annual rate of growth of 5.5 per cent in real terms, apart from any price rises that were bound to occur. The objective was to hold price increases to between one and two per cent a year, get 97 per cent of the labor force employed, and keep Canada competitive in world markets.

More recently, the council —particularly in its fourth annual review, released last year—has gone on to set goals for the first part of the 1970s and into the 1980s. It is calling for a 4¾-per-cent annual growth rate in 1970-75.

In 1963, the total value of all goods and services produced in Canada was $43.424 billion —the gross national product. This year, the economy is ticking over at an annual rate of $64.8 billion, according to its first-quarter performance.

●

This is a gain of nearly 50 per cent in five years, but it includes a large amount of price inflation. In terms of the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar in 1963, this year's gross national product is running at about $56.5 billion.

The council's goal for Canada was to bring the GNP to $62.5 billion in 1970 in terms of of 1963 dollars. Actually, until this year, Canada has kept slightly ahead of the 5½-per-cent-a-year rate of increase the council cited as a target.

This year's estimate, of course, is subject to the economy's performance in the peak summer season's activity and the fall and early winter months. But GNP figures for the year won't be complete until early next summer.

No one expects a uniform rate of growth from one year to the next. The council itself said of the goal:

"It appears high in relation to the growth performances and objectives of many other industrially advanced countries. But it is not high in relation to Canada's prospective labor-force growth, which is well above previous experience.

"Any lower potential output than that which we have suggested for 1970 would imply either a lower employment potential, or a lower productivity potential, or both."

Arctic Development Said Possible Now

WHITEHORSE (CP) — The recent major oil discovery in the Prudhoe Bay area of Alaska has given the final proof that Arctic oil exploration and development now can probably be carried out on a practical basis, the president of a Canadian firm of geological and engineering consultants said today.

J. C. Sproule of Calgary, in a paper read to the 19th Alaskan Science Conference, said the principal bottlenecks to further development of currently known Arctic resources or to discovery of others are the problems of living, working, access and transportation conditions.

The matter of ultimate development of oil and other resources of the far north, he said, is one that most will agree upon, except as to the timing.

Even though improved knowledge of the geology and natural resources and terrain and access problems of the north country, including the Arctic islands, has been known and discussed widely for some years, there are still those who say it is too early to invade the north on a serious basis.

'TOO LATE'

"It is my opinion, however," Mr. Sproule said, "that we are closer to being too late than too early."

"Unless we make the best possible use of our country by developing it to the fullest extent we can expect trouble from those who may look upon it with envious eyes."

The oil industry, however, must have an immediate economic basis for moving into the north country, and on that basis Mr. Sproule is convinced the move can be justified.

Taking into consideration modern science, coupled with the incentive provided by more recent knowledge of the potential fruits of natural resources reserves, Mr. Sproule said development of northern Canada should be a relatively simple problem; relatively simple at least by comparison with the problems of space travel, intercontinental and global visual and voice communication and other more difficult problems that have been and still are being overcome at a rapid rate.

Glass Unit Planned

Consumers Glass Co. Ltd. of Toronto said today it will build a $10 million glass container manufacturing plant in the Okanagan Valley near Vernon, B.C.

The 250,000-square-foot plant is scheduled to be in operation by the fall of 1969, employing more than 300 persons with an annual payroll exceeding $2,000,000.

The plant will be equipped to manufacture glass containers valued at more than $9 million a year.

The company also has tentative plans for new warehouses in Vancouver and Alberta.

The new plant would qualify for government subsidies under the federal area development incentive program, which has led to a number of new manufacturing operations in the Okanagan.

The only other Canadian glass firm, Dominion Glass Ltd., has plants at Burnaby, B.C., and Red Cliff, Alta.

'PIL' BATTLE FOR BREWERS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pil spells a battle between two breweries in exchequer court in October.

Carling Breweries (B.C.) Ltd. seeks an injunction to prevent Tartan Breweries of Prince George from using the word for Tartan products "in a manner calculated to cause confusion."

Carling says it adopted the trade mark "Pil" in 1963 for its Pilsener beer. Tartan denies any infringement and says Carling has neither claimed to be, nor is, registered owner of the trade mark.

Tartan argues that the word Pil is descriptive of the character of the goods and Carling is not entitled to exclusive use of the word as a trademark or otherwise.

Carling says the public associates the word with a Carling product and Tartan's production of a beer in cans in 1966, labelled "Pil'Can" is confusing.

Canadian Homestead

Canadian Homestead Oils Ltd. of Calgary reported net earnings of $565,854 for the year ended May 31, 1968, an increase of $203,966 from the previous year.

The earnings, representing 15 cents a common share, were on a total income of $2,107,515, compared with $1,734,998 for the year ended May 31, 1967.

Consumers' Gas

Directors of the Consumers' Gas Co. has declared an 18-cent quarterly dividend on the company's common stock. The dividend is payable Oct. 1, to shareholders of record Sept. 10.

Consumers' Gas has about 25,300 shareholders of which 97.6 per cent are in Canada.

Loss Decreases

Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd. had a net loss of $2,877,500 in the first six months of this year, compared with $4,122,489 in the similar 1967 period.

The company said in an interim financial report revenue from mine production rose to $13,632,942 from $12,842,925, while normal operating expenses increased to $11,149,181 from $9,128,665.

This resulted in a net profit from operations of $2,474,761 in the first half of this year, compared with $3,714,260 in the similar 1967 period.

The company, however, deducted $4,986,405 this year as net cost of smelter operations during a startup and redesign period, resulting in the net loss. The deduction in 1967 was $7,266,749.

ONCE UPON A TIME

There was a new car dealership. It didn't make a lot of money but it certainly made a lot of friends. It was a little dealership that had to face some very big problems. First, the City expropriated the space the little dealership had used as a used car lot. Skeptics said: "That's the end of them, you can't sell used cars without a display area!" But the little dealership had built up a fine reputation for genuinely reconditioned and fully guaranteed used cars and people came looking for them. It became the only dealership that had to feed parking meters and move its used cars every three hours. Next, their landlord needed more space and so the little dealership had to give up its new car showroom. Skeptics are now pointing to the dealership and saying: "You can't sell new cars without a proper showroom — they're finished!" Yet within 2 hours of moving out of the showroom the little dealership sold a fine new car! The little dealership is unique in another way too — there are no longer any signs on the building to indicate what make of car it services and sells. The only way you can tell it is a Mercedes-Benz dealership is by the steady stream of smiling, satisfied customers bringing their cars for regular servicing. The little dealership, known as Three Point Motors, will stay at 760 Johnson — courtesy of their landlord — until its own, fine new, centrally located facilities are ready. The little dealership apologizes for being so difficult to find and promises those who seek it out that they will be rewarded for their trouble.

Injection Offers New Hope

By KARIN MOSER

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Cecil Harris, a hemotologist at Montreal's St. Mary's Hospital, says there are more than 2,000 cases of hemophilia (blood disorder) in Canada and if "you multiply that number by the amount of times each patient must come to a hospital for treatment, the figure is staggering."

In an interview Monday, Dr. Harris said he has one patient who has been admitted to hospital for treatment on 105 separate occasions. "That's a lot of treatment and chances are he'll have to come in many more times."

Dr. Harris' wife said:

"Many people don't realize how difficult it is for a hemophiliac to gain employment."

Mrs. Harris is actively engaged in duties surrounding the fifth congress of the World Federation of Hemophilia which began here Aug. 22 and ends Thursday.

"Most employers hesitate to hire a hemophiliac," said Mrs. Harris, "although now, with the cryoprecipitate injections available, they can in many instances lead almost normal lives."

ALLOWS OPERATIONS

Cryoprecipitate is a concentrated form of plasma, discovered by Dr. Judith Pool of Palo Alto, Calif., which, because of its coagulating principle, enables doctors to perform surgery on hemophiliacs. Patients can also take the injections as needed on a prophylactic basis to prevent internal and often spontaneous bleeding and to reduce the severity of externally-inflicted wounds.

Hemophilia is a congenital disease transmitted by a female carrier usually to a male. The patient lacks one vital protein, often referred to as Factor VIII or Factor IX, that is normally needed for coagulation of the blood.

Cryoprecipitate contains the missing factor and is found in normal blood donors although in relatively small proportions.

Dr. Robert Gourdeau, of the Montreal's Children's Hospital said a non-emergency operation was performed here recently on a 16-year-old hemophiliac boy using cryoprecipitate and had been extremely successful. Before Dr. Pool's discovery, elective surgery would never have been attempted as large volume of blood would have to be transfused to the patient and the strain on the heart resulting from "the sudden flooding of the body" was often considered dangerous.

More than 300 people, many of them belonging to the medical profession, are attending the week-long congress.

Drug Stores Get Warning On Aspirin

OTTAWA (CP) — New federal drug regulations are being introduced to require manufacturers to warn parents of the danger to children of overdoses of acetylsalicylic acid, commonly known as A.S.A. or aspirin.

The food and drug directorate of the national health department has mailed notices of the change to all drug manufacturers. A spokesman said the change likely is to become law later this year.

Drug manufacturers are being given until Sept. 20 to comment on the proposal, which results from a study of acetylsalicylic acid poisoning among children.

DRUGGIST NOTIFIED

A spokesman said such poisoning causes a quarter of the deaths of children in Canada from all forms of poisoning.

Acetylsalicylic acid normally is packaged in tablets of five grains each for adults and 1¼ grains each for children.

The proposed regulations will require manufacturers to label each package with special warnings when a package contains a total of more than 30 grains, 24 of the 1¼-grain tablets of the children's size. The warning must be to the effect that there is enough drug in the package to poison a child and that the drug should always be stored in a safe place out of the reach of chidren.

The warning will have to be preceded by "an acceptable symbol to emphasize such caution or warning"—such as a skull.

The notice to manufacturers also said:

"In the case of a drug containing acetylsalicylic acid and formulated or recommended for children, each package will contain not more than 24 tablets, and each tablet contain not more than 1¼ grains of acetylsalicylic acid, the label of such drug will be required to carry a warning to the effect that the drug should be kept out of the reach of children, and such warning be preceded by a symbol."

A doctor on the drug directorate said a dozen adult-size tablets would contain 60 grains, more than enough to kill a child.

Airplane Washing Pays Off

By ELINOR READING

CALGARY (CP) — Anyone want an aircraft washed?

Mopping off planes at $10 each was the summer project of nine Calgary teen-agers with their heads in the clouds.

They are Girl Guide Air Rangers who spent last year in a world of weather maps, flight regulations and Link trainers.

In eight months they qualified in Ranger courses that ordinarily take two years to complete.

Key to their success is pert and practical Dorothy Smylie, who took over leadership of the flight, or guide company, last fall after it had struggled for two years without getting airborne.

With a three-year-old daughter to tend, Mrs. Smylie didn't want to spend time to conduct a program unless she was sure of the girls' interest in flying.

She applied a simple test—take the girls to a local flying club and "let them wander around."

"I could see they were interested in aircraft," she said.

USED LINK TRAINER

A licensed pilot, Mrs. Smylie directed the Rangers in a course that included such subjects as airways systems in Canada, department of transport air regulations and airport traffic control.

They learned how to use the instruments, controls and communication equipment in a Link trainer, which simulates an aircraft's movements. Then each was guided through a supposed flight plan and airport approach, and her responses charted.

"As an Air Ranger flight, we don't necessarily concentrate on just teaching flying," Mrs. Smylie said.

The girls assisted at a blood donor clinic weekly during the winter.

Roundup of the year's work was a two-day survival camp in the foothills west of Calgary, where the girls were left alone with improvised shelters and some non-perishable food.

They spent the weekend preparing to be "rescued"—tested from the air on their use of two-way radio and ground-to-air distress signals.

Mrs. Smylie had no qualms about leaving the Rangers on their own responsibility for reaching a nearby telephone or adult in case of any emergency. She started her own flying lessons at 17; the guides range in age from 15 to 18.

YOUNG PILOT HELPS

"You can get your pilot's licence at 17½," she said. "So what's to stop two 17½-year-old girls from going out flying and having to crash-land? They're going to have to know how to survive."

Her assistant, Rosella Bjornson, is an education student at the University of Calgary and, at 20, the youngest woman in Alberta with a commercial pilot's licence.

So it's no wonder that two of the Rangers have decided to work toward their own licences. And already there are new recruits for next year's course.

"You have to leave them alone," Mrs. Smylie said. "You're not going to make them grow up if you're right there dominating over them."

One of Two Survives Air Crash

QUEBEC (CP) — The wreckage of a single-engine Piper Cherokee aircraft and the body of its navigator were found Monday on the side of a mountain 28 miles northeast of Quebec.

Two Canadian Forces helicopter crews found the body of Dick Locke, 30, of Moncton, N.B., in the crumpled four-seater plane which hit the mountainside in thick fog Saturday near the municipality of Chateau Richer.

The pilot, Alfred Audet, 20, of Bathurst, N.B., walked away from the crash. He arrived at a farmhouse Sunday night, covered in blood to report that the plane had crashed and that Locke was unconscious in the wreckage.

Audet said he spent Saturday night at an old logging camp for fear of getting lost, and set out again early Sunday to find help.

The farmer advised provincial police and an aerial search got under way at 7 a.m. The wrecked plane, owned by the Moncton Flying Club, was spotted at about 10:15.

The aircraft, bound for Moncton, had left Hamilton, Ont., at noon Saturday. It crashed after Audet and Locke had stopped at Quebec's Ancienne Lorette airport to refuel.

Audet told the Ancienne Lorette control tower shortly after takeoff that he was enclosed by thick fog at 2,000 feet.

The tower told him to climb to 3,000, but the crash occurred moments after this message was transmitted.

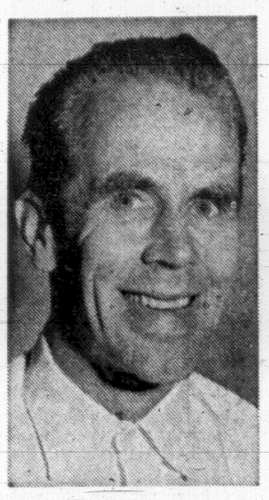

CHESS OR TRACK

Please Name Ollie's Game

By STEVE HUME

Ollie Sarakannas claims his game is chess, and points to an Island championship and three Victoria titles to support what he says.

But don't expect Victoria track and field athletes to agree to Ollie's observations without a few preliminary objections. They think his game is really running—the long distance and cross-country variety—and they have a few points of their own to back up the argument.

OLIE SARAKANNAS

As coach of the Optimist Spartans Track Club, the former Finnish track star has spent the last four years turning out more than his fair share of hot-shot long distance talent for Victoria meets.

Among the athletes coached by the 40-year-old Finn are John Cliff, former Canadian cross-country champion and B.C. marathon king; high school, college and club star John Valiant; University of Victoria stalwart Charlie Thorne, and Norm Patenaude, who currently helps out with the Spartans' coaching.

Valiant was the runner who picked off the B.C. steeplechase crown in his first try at the event, and that was after running a 4:02.7-mile, a 14:23 5,000-metres, and a 29:50 10,000-metres — all in the same week! His 3,000-metre steeplechase time was 8:57, a good clocking over the distance steeplechase without the hurdles and water jumps.

Athletes who come to the Spartans looking for a coach with top-flight experience have picked the right club.

At the age of 20, with only one year of competitive running under his belt, Sarakannas won the junior championship for orientation running in Finland's southern regional. A year later he moved up to the senior men's open classification and came through with a strong second place finish in the event.

Orientation running is a form of cross country competition developed in Scandivavia, Olle says, and it is somewhat similar to car rallying.

Armed with compasses and maps, the cross country runner sets off through forest toward a finish line eight to 10 miles away. The athlete must navigate with his instruments so that he passes a series of five checkpoints on the way.

"It's the ideal sport for Canada," Ollie says, "there are lots of wooded areas that aren't too wild and rugged."

Like an Auto Rally, But on Feet

"Atheletes usually find it one of the most pleasant sports, and it's one of the more excellent ways of getting runners into shape. It adds a bit of intellectual analysis to the basically mechanical nature of long distance running, and consequently it's more interesting," he says.

"If we could get maps and compasses and what-not for the club runners, it would be one of the first programs I'd initiate for off-season winter training."

Ollie came to Canada from Finland in 1951, but returned in 1954 and spent five years coaching long distance and cross country before heading back to Victoria where he joined the YMCA's coaching staff.

He took over as head coach of the Spartans in 1964, and is currently rated as a senior coach, one of only two on the Island, by the B.C. arm of the Canadian Track and Field Association.

Long Grinds Are His Pet Ones

And his coaching ability isn't limited to long distance and cross country events, although that is his strong point.

In the sprinting department he's coached Terry Ryan, the 10.7 100-metre man who tried out for the B.C. Lions football team this season.

And when it comes to field events, he's no slouch either. Among the field athletes he's coached are Cliff Ridley, a second place finisher in the long and triple jump at the B.C. championships in recent years, and Bill McCormick, the high jumper who set a Canadian juvenile mark of 6 feet 3 inches.

Presently, he has under his wing Lindsay Jack, the all-round girl athlete that won the Canadian midget girl's pentathlon championship earlier this month.

But cross country and the long grinds are what Ollie really likes, and he says he's looking forward to this winter's competition more than usual.

Returning to his team for guidance in how to make a comeback after a few years off, are Valiant and Dave Rasmussen, an outstanding half-miler in Victoria four years ago.

John Cliff is still with the club and ran 13:37 in a three-mile run earlier this summer. With Cliff to lead and the support of Valiant and Rasmussen, Ollie is looking forward to a successful season on the cross-country circuit.

Armstrong Stresses Esks' Kicking Needs

EDMONTON (CP) — How important is punting in professional football.

Neill Armstrong, head coach of the Western Conference Edmonton Eskimos, said Tuesday:

"It can mean the difference of winning or losing a game in the Canadian Football League. . . . If a coach expects to have a championship team he needs a good punter."

Armstrong's Eskimos many need an improved brand of punting tonight when they play host to Calgary Stampeders in a key WFC contest for both clubs.

Tonight's Calgary-Edmonton game will be telecast by the CTV network, starting at 8.

A Calgary win would move the Stampeders into sole possession of first place, while an Edmonton victory would give the Eskimos a share of the lead in the five-team conference.

Saskatchewan leads the conference with seven points, one more than Calgary and two ahead of Edmonton. British Columbia has four points and Winnipeg two.

HAVE SEVERAL IFs

For tonight's game, Armstrong expects to have injured Mike Law and Ron Forwick in uniform for a contingent of 32 players.

Law has missed several games with a separated shoulder and Forwick sat out last week's 12-4 setback on home grounds to British Columbia.

The Stampeders, also surprised 19-7 by Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference in a CFL clash last Wednesday in Calgary, have several "ifs" for tonight's game.

The Stampeders, 28-3 victors over the Eskimos in a July 7 exhibition game, have Ted Woods, Gerry Shaw and punter Jim Furlong as doubtful starters. Woods and Shaw are recovering from knee inuries and Furlong suffered bruises against the Argonauts.

Meanwhile, Armstrong said the punting situation in Canada is better than most fans would like to believe.

Armstrong said punting means so much in Canada because of the three downs, compared to four in the United States.

"If a good punter keeps the opposition into its own end of the field with excellent kicks, it certainly helps the defensive squad."

HEADING into coaching arenas seems to be the thing for former players with Vancouver Canucks of Western Hockey League. Larry Popein (above) has been named playing-coach of Omaha Knights in Central League while Ron Hutchinson has accepted similar post with Cranbrook Royals of Western International League.

Trapp Scores Hot 67

FREDERICTON, N.B. (CP) —Vaughan Trapp of Victoria, who slept in his car because he couldn't get a hotel room Monday night, blazed a three-under-par 67 here Tuesday to grab a one-shot lead after the opening round of the $1,500 Fredericton open golf tournament.

Trapp, 24, rattled in six birdie putts to grab his slim lead in the 36-hole event over Joel Goldstrand of Worthington, Minn. Goldstrand put together two nines of 34 for a 68.

Marty Winslow fired a 69 over his home layout to tie amateur Dave Irving of Bridgewater, N.S., for third place.

Four professionals, including defending champion Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., were bunched at 70. The others were Bob Cox Jr. of Richmond, B.C., Jim Maxwell of Moncton and Lawrence (Butch) O'Hearn of Dartmouth, N.S.

Bill Blanchfield, of Calais, Me., Cecil Dowling of Charlottetown, Leon DeCaire of Toronto and Bruce Dobie of Worcester, Mass., carded 71s.

Trapp got off to a shaky start with erratic drives on the first two holes but took advantage of a hot putter to score his 67. He used 15 putts on the front line and came home in 13.

Goldstrand, completing his third year on the U.S. pro tour, canned four birdie putts and hit 13 greens in regulation figures.

Trapp qualified Monday for the Canadian pro tour championship at Woodbridge, Ont., Sept. 13-15 which offers $15,000 in prize money, by finishing in a seventh-place tie in the Atlantic Open at Moncton.

ITS OFFNCIAL

Meanwhile, in Toronto, the executive director of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association announced that the 12 berths have been filled for the $15,000 Canadian tour championship at Woodbridge, Ont., Sept. 13-15.

The final five spots in the 12-man field officially go to the top point qualifiers of the CGPA season. They are Cox (80.08), Stan Homenuik of Dauphin, Man. (61), Trapp (51.5), John Henrick of Montreal (51) and Len Harvey of Regina (47.5).

These five join the winners of seven tour events that produced automatic qualifications — Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, Alvie Thompson of Toronto, Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver, Trevor Bateman of LaSalle, Que., Bill Wakeham of Victoria and Bob Breen of Woodbridge.

Named as alternates were Norm Doyle of Richelieu Valley, Que. (43) and Gary Bowerman of Richmond Hill, Ont. (42.7).

Skillings Tops Sectional Event

WENATCHEE, Wash. — Roger Skillings of Victoria, seeded second, defeated top-seeded Randy King of Portland, Ore., 7-5, 6-2, Monday to win the under-18 division of the Pacific Northwest sectional tennis championship.

Players from Washington, Oregon and British Columbia were eligible to compete in the tournament.

Skillings and Ted Kaplan of Vancouver reached the quarter-finals of the doubles competition before rain forced cancellation of the rest of the matches.

Pinch-Hitting Play Pulls Birds Closer

Detroit Lead Cut to Four Games As Orioles Pull It Out in Ninth

By The Associated Press

Merv Rettenmund distinguished himself Tuesday night with a game-winning home run while pinch-hitting for a pinch hitter.

The rookie outfielder, recently recalled from the minor leagues, slammed his first major league homer with one on and one out and lifted Baltimore Orioles to a 5-3 victory over Oakland Athletics in the opener of a twi-light doubleheader.

When the Orioles won the nightcap 7-2 and Detroit Tigers lost to Chicago White Sox 2-1, Baltimore found itself only four games behind the American League leading Tigers.

The Orioles haven't been that close to the lead since June 10 when Detroit led Cleveland Indians by only three games.

The Tigers gave the White Sox the winning run in the ninth inning on second baseman Tom Matchick's throwing error.

Off in the distance Boston Red Sox stomped Cleveland Indians 7-1 and New York Yankees stopped California Angels 2-0 before losing 2-0 in afternoon contests. At night, Minnesota Twins blasted Washington Senators 7-1 after losing 2-0 in a twi-lighter.

In the National League, the lowly New York Mets reached up to blank the front-running St. Louis Cardinals for the second straight game, 2-0. In other games, San Francisco Giants battered Chicago Cubs 8-4; Cincinnati Reds blasted Philadelphia Phillies 10-0; Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 11 innings, and Houston Astros beat Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2.

Platooning Game Pulled It Out

Curt Blefary had given the Orioles a 3-0 lead with his 11th homer in the fourth inning, but the Orioles found themselves deadlocked 3-3 after Reggie Jackson, Rick Monday and Sal Bando unloaded solo homers in the seventh for the Athletics.

Blefary singled with one out in the ninth off losing right-hander Jack Aker, 3-3, and when left-handed Elrod Hendricks was sent up to pinch hit for Larry Haney Oakland switched to left-hander Warren Bogle.

Continuing the game of platooning, Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver called on Rettenmund.

The 25-year-old right-handed hitter, making his ninth appearance at the plate this season, responded by belting the first pitch over the left field fence. He now has a single, two doubles and a homer for a .444 batting average.

Wally Bunker, another recall from the minors this year, took care of the nightcap with a six-hitter in his first start since Aug. 7. He is 2-0.

Blefary and Don Buford, No. 13, supplied the home run power in the nightcap, both connecting off Aker in the fifth inning, and Dave Johnson stole home during a three-run fourth inning rally as the Orioles won their 17th game in 24 outings.

Rookies Check Yanks on One Hit

Buddy Bradford, who opened the ninth with a walk and was sacrificed to second, scored the winning run for Chicago when Matchick knocked down Luis Aparicio's hit behind second and threw low to first.

The teams had traded fifth inning runs as Norm Cash blasted his 20th homer for the Tigers and Tommy Davis stroked a run-scoring single for the Sox.

Wilbur Wood, 10-9, who worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the ninth, got the victory.

Bruce Look's three-run double gave Minnesota its first runs in 26 innings in the nightcap behind Jim Roland's first complete game since 1963, a five-hitter.

But the Senators grabbed the opener when Mike Epstein's leadoff single in the eighth ruined Dean Chance's bid for a no-hitter, and Bernie Allen followed with his fifth homer. Camilo Pascual, 12-8, allowed only four hits for the triumph.

Rookies Bill Harrelson, 5 2-3 innings, and Andy Messersmith stopped the Yankees on one hit —Joe Pepitone's bloop hit in the sixth—in California's victory after Stan Bahnsen, seven innings, and Steve Hamilton combined on a six-hitter for New York in the opener.

The result left the Yankees with a 5-2-1 record for four doubleheaders in five days.

Ray Culp, 10-5, turned in a four-hitter for Boston's triumph, and Reggie Smith squeezed home one run and Floyd Robinson singled in two in a four-run third inning.

Chicago Cubs will have to admit the resemblance between Bobby Bonds and Willie Mays is frightening.

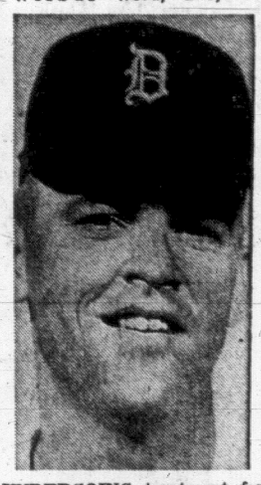

Bonds, San Francisco's promising rookie outfielder, cracked a pair of homers and knocked in six runs Tuesday night as the surging Giants whipped the Cubs.

The 22-year-old speedester, recently singled out by teammate Mays as "the guy who could take my place," accounted for five runs with his fourth and fifth homers after delivering one with a bases-loaded ground out.

Bonds' slugging helped the second place Giants, who have won 14 of their last 17 starts, pick up a game on St. Louis.

Dick Selma scattered six hits to break a personal five-game losing streak and Tommie Agee drove in three runs with a homer and single as the Mets shut out the Cards.

Agee's fifth homer, a leadoff shot in the third inning, gave Selma all the support he needed and pinned the loss on Larry Jaster, 8-11, who has dropped six in a row.

UNDERGOING treatment for a strained right shoulder is 25-game winner Denny McLain of Detroit Tigers. American League club's psysician said the condition was not unusual for McLain, who has overdeveloped muscles in his right arm.

Shoulder Troubles Drysdale

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers' team physician said Tuesday pitcher Don Drysdale could be out of action with a shoulder injury for the remainder of the National League baseball season.

Dr. Robert Woods said Drysdale suffered an inflammation of the muscle at the top of his right shoulder two weeks ago and re-injured it last Saturday.

"Don still has some trouble with the injury and I must admit that there is a medical possibility he could miss the rest of the season," he said.

The Dodgers, in 10th place in the National League, could place Drysdale on the injured list and call up another player.

ELIZABETH LABINE DIES

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Elizabeth Labine, 34, wife of former National Hockey League right winger Leo Labine, died Monday in hospital after a lengthy illness. They were married in 1956.

Midget Squad Claims Title

Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association has claimed another provincial championship.

Latest team to bring a B.C. title to Victoria is the midget "A" McDonald's Bakery squad. They recently won the crown at Memorial Arena by downing Coquitlam.

Team members include Larry Walsh, Kim Bowles, Jim Sprinkling, Mike Walsh, Jim McCreesh, John Hamilton, Paul Scott, Brian Gibson, Glen Newman, Rick Baker, Frank East, Jim Lynch, Norm Baker, Don Ferguson and Roger Hill.

Barry Forbes and Bill Munroe of Victoria Shamrocks shared coaching while John Matte is the team manager.

Mainlanders Foil Peewee Champs

Empress Paint romped undefeated in regular district play as well as in the Vancouver Island peewee lacrosse playoffs only to be downed by New Westminster in the provicial final in Burnaby.

But they removed some of the sting of defeat by downing East Hastings, 21-2, in the consolation round.

Benefit Game Set

A Stuffy McGinnis Senior Men's Softball League all-star team takes on Luckies of the Senior Men's League in an exhibition game at Heywood Park tonight at 6:30 with proceeds going to the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Fund.

BOXLA'S PLAYOFF PLAN WON'T AID SHAMROCKS

Miracles have been known to occur, and Victoria Shamrocks still have an outside chance to tie New Westminster Salmonbellies for the last playoff spot in the Western Division of the National Lacrosse Association.

Much stems on the outcome of tonight's game at 8:30 in Memorial Arena when Shamrocks face Salmonbellies for the third straight game.

NLA president Terry Kelly announced Tuesday from Toronto that three teams from both the eastern and western divisions will compete in the playoffs.

Second and third-place teams in each division will meet to determine which plays the first-place team for the divisional championship.

The two division winners will then meet in the national final.

All series will be best-of-seven affairs with any ties at the end of regular season play decided by a sudden-death playoff.

Eight Crack Century Mark

Eight players, including Victoria's Ranjit Dillon, have passed the century mark in the individual National Lacrosse Association scoring parade.

It's unlikely, however, that six will catch the "other two."

Peterborough's John Davis, although faltering slightly last week, is the overall leader with 75 goals and 88 points for a whopping 163 points.

RANJIT DILLON
. . . over century mark

Second overall and tops in the Western Division is Portland's Mike Gates. He has 121 points, six more than New Westminster's charging Paul Parnell and 12 more than Dillon.

Carls Step Ahead, Tripping Detroit

DETROIT (CP) — Vancouver Carlings defeated Detroit Olympics 17-13 Tuesday night in an interlocking National Lacrosse Association game to gain sole possession of first place in the Western Division.

The victory, watched by 4,078, gave Vancouver 42 points, two more than Portland Adanacs.

Gord Frederickson and Gary Stevens scored three goals each for Vancouver while Ed Nelson, Bill Barbour, Dennis Nagy and Bob Salt added two each. Single goals went to Bill Robinson, Sid Warick and Bill Chisholm.

Tom Conlin paced Detroit, wich leads the eastern division by six points over second-place Peterborough Lakers, with four goals. Glen Lotton added two while Neil Armstrong, Elmer Tran, Bob Brown, Jerry McKenna, Gaylord Powless, Jim Henderson and Bill Squires scored one each.

Vancouver jumped into a 9-5 lead in the first period and led 17-13 at the end of the second.

The win was the first in two games in the east this week for Vancouver, which lost 12-11 in sudden-death overtime at Peterborough Sunday. The western division leaders play in Toronto tonight, and in Montreal Thursday.

Larks Throw Metro Gerela Against Cats

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes will have a couple of new faces in their lineup tonight when they play host to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in ar Eastern Football Conference game.

The Alouettes have signed field goal kicker Metro Gerela and speedy back Dennis Duncan. They cut flanker Mike Martin to make room for the two newcomers in the club's latest developments.

Gerela is the brother of Ted Gerela of British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference. If he is half as good as his brother, the Als have then found suitable placement insurance for defensive end John Baker, who has been handling the placement duties.

Gerela was cut last month after a tryout with Green Bay Packers of the National League and was later released by Calgary Stampeders.

GREAT FEELING . . . . . . TO BE IN OPEN

'Mountain Is Off My Back . . .'

NEW YORK (AP) — After months of touring, Billie Jean King still loves being a tennis pro. And chasing dollars has nothing to do with her burning desire to win, she says.

"It's great, just great being a pro," said the 24-year-old as she prepared for the first United States open tennis championships at Fort Hills Aug. 29-Sept. 8.

"It was like a mountain had been lifted off my back when I signed to become a pro last April," said the effervescent Californian. "The hypocrisy was over. We were out in the open, the way it should have been."

Billie Jean, winner of the Wimbledon and U.S. singles and doubles, with Rosemary Casals, in 1967, and winner of two titles at Wimbledon's first open championship last July 6, is favored to make it a sweep again at Forest Hills.

She is paired with Miss Casals of San Francisco in the doubles again and will be shooting for the $6,000 first prize in the women's singles and half of the $1,750 earmarked for the winning doubles team.

Pro Rod Laver of Australia, the Wimbledon king, is the favorite to bag the $14,000 first prize in the men's singles.

Billie Jean turned pro for a guarantee of $60,000 for the year. Her winnings—$13,640 so far—go back to promoter George MacCall until the guarantee is met. Anything after that she keeps.

REDS' SECRET POLICE HUNTING 'IRON MAJOR'

EMIL ZATOPEK

LONDON (AP) — British atheletes are planning a demonstration in support of Emil Zatopek, Cxechoslovakia's long distance runner who is being sought by Russian secret police in Prague.

Track and field judge Don Brown said Tuesday the athletes will raise a petition on "The Iron Major's" behalf at the British games at London's White City stadium next Saturday and Monday.

"Then they will march from White City to the Russian embassy and present the petition," Brown said.

Brown said the Czech embassy in London had confirmed that the Russians now are hunting Zatopek. The Czech free radio has broadcast warnings telling him not to return home.

The great runner, now a major in the Czech army, won three gold medals in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki—the 5,000 and 10,000 meters and the marathon.

Riots, Controversies Plague Olympic Hosts

MEXICO CITY (AP) — World and local controversies swirled in the air of the Olympic headquarters Tuesday while planners of the 1968 games waited with quiet desperation and no comment.

"We're hoping everything will calm down before Oct. 12," said one Olympic official privately and bravely. "There is no place for politics in the Olympics."

He referred to a running feud between Mexico City's students and the administration of President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz plus the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Thousands of students have scheduled demonstrations and picketing to demand a dialogue with the administration. They have a five-point program which includes the dissolution of the riot police corps, resignation of the police chief and release of students jailed since the July 26 riots.

PROTESTED IN 1956

Student leaders have hinted broadly they have put out a feeler for collaboration with U.S. Negroes who may also protest, although their causes are not connected.

The Czech crisis could have more severe consequences.

Norway's Olympic committee already has voted to break sports relations with the Soviets and their satellites in protest over the invasion.

"The Dutch refused to come to Melbourne in 1956 in protest to the Soviet invasion of Hungary but we think they regret it now," says one Olympic source.

STILL IN DEBATE

Soviet officials may well be weighing their Olympic attendance since Mexican demonstrators attacked offices of the Mexican Communist party, smashed some windows. They may also recall blood flowed in Melbourne during a water polo match between Russians and Hungarians.

Still in debate is whether the breakaway government of Rhodesia will be allowed to attend. Mexico takes the position that the United Nations has asked member nations to reject Rhodesian passports.

The International Olympic Committee has been relatively silent on the Rhodesian question

Soviet Sending 401 to Olympics

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union will send 401 athletes to the Mexico City Olympic games, the Soviet Olympic committee announced Tuesday.

Soviet athletes will compete in basketball, boxing, wrestling, cycling, volleyball, water polo, gymnastics, equastrian, track and field, rowing, kayak and canoe, yachting, swimming and diving, modern pentathlon, shooting, weightlifting and fencing.

ATTITUDE OF ATHLETES MAY MASTER ALTITUDE

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — Adjustment to altitude is not so tough, says a trainer of U.S. Olympic Games candidates at the Echo Summit research centre high in the Sierra Nevada.

"We're pushing attitude rather than altitude," reports trainer Paul Schechter of Occidental College, Los Angeles.

"You have to think poitive — the adjustment is not that tough," he maintains. "We scored 14 gold medals in Tokyo. I think we'll do just as well in Mexico City, if not better."

The altitude to which more than 200 track and field stars are adjusting here is 7,377 feet — 28 feet higher than the Olympics Stadium in Mexico City.

Qualified Echo Summit observers believe the well-trained athlete can equal his sea-level times in events requiring up to about two minutes of maximum effort. Beyond that, the oxygen shortage begins to tell.

O.C. SOCCER

Gunners on Top

LONDON (CP) — Arsenal beat defending champions Manchester City 4-1 Tuesday night to move to the top of the English League soccer standings.

David Jenkins scored two of Arsenal's goals. One came in the first half, paired with another Arsenal goal by Jon Sammels.

Manchester City's Colin Bell managed to get his team's only goal after the interval, but Jenkins and John Radford came back with the third and fourth for Arsenal.

Arsenal is undefeated in its first six games this season. Tuesday's win was their fourth. The Gunners have tied two.

Manchester City has won only one of their six games. Two were drawn and three lost.

Tuesday's results:

Ref's Verdict Helps Barrett

Paddy Barrett won the main event of a professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena Tuesday night when Abdulla the Butcher was disqualified by the referee.

In other action, Eric Froelich downed Tiger Singh; Bruce Kirk overcame Jack Bence, and Armand Hussain beat Jack Garfano.

Dickie, McMillan Lose First Start

TORONTO (CP) — Bruce Matheson of Vancouver won his fifth consecutive game in the singles division of the Canadian lawn bowling championships Tuesday.

Matseson defeated Ed Brown of Manitoba 21-11 in the fourth round and John Henderson of Quebec 21-11 in the fifth round.

In doubles action, Bruce Miller and Gerry Hyde of Ontario won their fourth and fifth-round games beating John McNeil and Richard Campbell of Nova Scotia, 26-13, and Gordon Robinson and Ron LaPlante of Saskatchewan, 31-6.

Miller and Hyde had been beaten 25-14 by Harry Justafson and Ernie Munro, both of Calgary, in Monday's opening action.

Justafson and Munro still are undefeated after taking out Glenn Flook and Jim Forbes, both of Montreal, 17-13, and Victoria's pairing of John McMillan and Andrew Dickie, 23-11.

Nova Scotia won both games in the fours competition. Sidney Currie, Gerald Garroway, Frederick Hollett and Donald Purcell defeated Laurie Bullard, Dennis Watt, Earle Cook and Colin Sterling of Alberta 23-15 in the fourth round.

Oakland Extends Unbeaten Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto and Chicago marksmen had an unusually successful night in a North American Soccer League game Tuesday.

Iris DeBrito booted in four goals to lead Toronto to an 8-4 victory over the Mustangs. The 12 goals was the highest two-team production in the league this season, and DeBrito's four markers matched the league's individual scoring record.

In the only other game, Elija Mitic scored all three goals for Oakland as the Clippers extended their winning streak to nine with a 3-0 triumph over Los Angeles Wolves. The nine-game victory string is the longest in the league this season.

Toronto had only a 2-1 lead before a hometown crowd of 2,218 before it launched a second-half outburst. Other Falcon goals were by John Lima, with two, and Victor Jurisevic and Oscar Lopes, one each.

John Kowalik scored twice for Chicago, and Adolph Bachmeier and Peter Sulincevski each scored one.

A crowd of 3,104 in Oakland saw the Clippers boost their Pacific Division lead to 13 points over San Diego. Oakland, however, has only one more game remaining while San Diego has three left.

Goalie Mirko Stojanovic of the Clippers posted his 11th shutout of the campaign, tops in the league.

English Salvage Final Test Match

LONDON (AP) — England defeated Australia by 226 runs with six minutes to spare in a thrilling finish to the final cricket test match Tuesday.

At Kennington Oval, England took the last five wickets in 30 minutes—after a thunderstorm had washed out play for 2½ hours in the afternoon. Australia were all out for 125.

England and Australia thus tied the series with one victory each and three games drawn. Australia retained the Ashes, symbol of cricket supremacy between the two countries.

Derek Underwood, England's left-arm bowler, finished off the match by getting John Inverarity leg before wicket. That gave Underwood seven wickets for 50.

Inverarity was Australia's hero in defeat. Going in first Monday night, he was last man out and scored 56 in 4¼ hours.

Australia, needing 352 runs to win, started the day on 13 for 2 and slid to 86 for 5 before rain started falling just before the lunch interval.

It looked as if rain would rob England of a chance of victory —as it has done in two previous matches in the series.

Humphrey's Control Shows, Despite the Open Fighting

By SAUL PETT

CHICAGO (AP) — With all its floor fights and intense debate, how open is this roaring Democratic national convention?

The public argument might suggest it is wide open, especially as contrasted with the decorous parley in Miami Beach two weeks ago which handed Richard Nixon the Republican presidential nomination.

But votes taken in the first two days of the Democratic convention, despite all the hot oratory, clearly show Vice-President Hubert Humphrey consistently in the driver's seat, riding an unusual coalition of bedfellows —conservative delegations from the South along with many of the big, presumably liberal delegations from the industrial North and Midwest.

Humphrey agents have been all over the hall, according to his opponents. In addition to pressure applied directly by the vice-president, his opponents insist the platform committee's majority recommendation on the Vietnam plank was dictated by the Johnson administration.

Their view is that the president left his vice-president free to call the shots on the domestic issues but moved in himself, positively, on the foreign affairs planks.

BIGGEST TEST TODAY

The glue holding Humphrey delegates in line will get its severest pre-nomination test today when the Vietnam plank goes to the floor for a vote.

If Humphrey survives the all-out assault planned by the doves, he should have clear sailing then to his nomination.

The "if" here remains a big one because it was on the issue of Vietnam that Eugene McCarthy was consistently underestimated by the experts from New Hampshire to Oregon.

Nonetheless, on the issues that have already reached the floor the vice-president has shown steady control.

Two votes—on the question of seating contested delegations from Georgia and Alabama found states such as Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois falling into line on the same side on ostensibly a matter of civil rights as South Carolina, Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas.

Even delegations from Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Hawaii and the Panama Canal Zone voted with the Dixie delegates to defeat the challengers.

"When you get delegations like these to vote against the seating of black delegates, you know the convention is being controlled," said John Kenneth Galbraith, who is working for McCarthy. "This one is under the management of Hubert Humphrey and Larry O'Brien."

But in both votes, there was another consideration involved. Both challenging delegations were thick with McCarthy supporters. Seating them would not only have replaced Humphrey votes with McCarthy votes but also might have precipitated defections from the vice-president in other states.

Put another way, Humphrey forces in the North scratched the South's back. The South, it is assumed, could be expected to return the favor nomination tonight.

Transplanting of Spleen Aids Hemophiliac Patient

By KARIN MOSER

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Schnabel, chairman of the World Federation of Hemophilia, says a successful human spleen transplant was carried out on a hemophiliac patient at the University of Colorado Medical School in Denver last May.

"The operation was performed by Dr. Thomas E. Starzl," said Mr. Schnabel in an interview Tuesday.

"A healthy spleen was taken by Dr. John C. Norman, assistant professor of surgery at Harvard Medical School in Boston, Mass., from the father of a 19-year-old hemophiliac boy and transplanted into the patient."

He did not identify the father and son.

For four days, says Mr. Schnabel, the spleen transplant brought the blood coagulation defect, characteristic of the disease, to an "almost correct level."

The spleen then ruptured and had to be removed.

The operation was performed after extensive research carried out at the medical school and Dr. Norman, whose research team at Harvard has just received a $500,000 grant from the Hartford Foundation and who has performed several successful spleen transplants on beagle dogs, was in Montreal for the fifth congress of the World Federation of Hemophilia which began here last Thursday and ends tomorrow.

He presented a paper dealing with experimental transplantation of the spleen.

The cardiac surgeon was quick to point out that the spleen is a relatively non-essential organ located near the abdominal cavity and is of no vital use to an individual.

Also with Dr. Norman was Dr. Fred Lotz who is part of a research team at the University of Guelph in Ontario, that corroborates the theory of the Harvard medical team.

Dr. Lotz, along with Dr. H. C. Downie, Dr. R. M. Liptrap and Dr. D. Geissinger, all from Guelph, Ont., have performed 14 spleen transplants on beagle dogs.

"The dogs must be related though," he says. "In other words, they should be father and son, or cousins."

When asked if the doctors were in fact saying that a spleen transplant might cure hemophilia, both doctors said no.

"However," added Dr. Norman, "we firmly believe that a spleen transplant will ameliorate hemophilia."

BISMARK SINKING DUE TO MISTAKE

A mistake by a British pilot resulted in the blow which crippled the German battleship Bismark in 1941, a man who was on the scene said Tuesday.

Commander G. H. Davidson, who commanded a destroyer during the five-day chase of the Bismark in the North Atlantic, gave a detailed account of the epic struggle to 60 members of the Kiwanis Club.

Commander Davidson said that on May 26, 1941, the 45,000-ton Bismark, most powerful ship in the world at the time, had out-run the more than 20 warships lying in wait for it and was only about 500 miles from the German-held port of Brest in France.

Had the Bismark escaped, it could have wreaked total havoc among Allied convoys in the Atlantic, as no Allied battleships could match its 28-knot top speed.

TORPEDO ATTACK

"On the afternoon of the 26th the Admiralty ordered a torpedo attack by planes from the aircraft carrier Are Royal, as a last attempt to slow up the Bismark and allow the British battleships Rodney and King George V to catch it," said Cmdr. Davidson.

"Just at dusk, in extremely poor weather, the planes sighted the Bismark and decided to attack from all sides simultaneously, to lessen the concentration of fire on individual planes.

"All the planes attacked and missed, except for one which had been out of position. He came in late and from behind, normally a fatal mistake, but he succeeded in damaging the Bismarck's rudder so that it could only steer in circles."

The Rodney and King George V, very short of fuel, caught up to the Bismark at 10:40 a.m. the next day and with help of torpedoes sank it.

Cmdr. Davidson had described how the Bismark and cruiser Prinz Eugen had left port at Bergen, Norway, under cover of fog May 22 and slipped through the ice between Iceland and Greenland into the North Atlantic.

At that point the German ships engaged the British battleships Prince of Wales and Hood, the tail-end of a long line of ships across the North Sea attempting to intercept the Bismark.

The Hood was sunk with a loss of all but two of its crew, and the Prince of Wales badly damaged. The Bismark then had a clear run to Brest, were it not for the planes, said Cmdr. Davidson.

Commander Davidson, who now owns Oak Bay Yachts, returned from the Navy in 1965.

15-Year-Old Wins Derby

TOFINO — A 15-year-old boy won first prize in a weekend salmon derby held in conjunction with Clayoquot Day on Stubbs Island.

Danny Singleton, took top honors in the event with an 11-pound fish for which he received $100 and a trophy.

Danny attends University School in Victoria. Some years ago he won the B.C. judo championship in his weight group.

Second prize of $50 went to James Bradshaw of Tofino Motors, whose catch weighed 9½ pounds. Thirteen-year-old Roddy MacKenzie of MacKenzie Beach took the $25 third prize with an 8½-pound fish.

A special prize for the largest fish other than salmon went to 13-year-old Douglas Sloman whose catch weighed 15 pounds.

There were 12 entries in the Tofino Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event, and some competitors were out with the dawn Saturday. The fish were weighed at noon.

Georgia Governor Quits Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — Governor Lester Maddox of Georgia quit his brief bid for the Democratic presidential nomination today and said he would campaign against the Democratic party's nominee in the fall.

Maddox left open the possibility that he would support third-party candidate George C. Wallace in the November election. He said he had talked to Wallace by telephone Tuesday night.

Maddox, who closed his Atlanta restaurant rather than serve Negroes, told a news conference his conscience would not allow him to aid "any liberal candidate, any liberal party, particularly the Democratic Socialist party. . . ."

"In obedience to God and loyalty to my country I denounce them," he said as he stood beneath seven American flags in the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Maddox, who announced his candidacy for the presidency 10 days ago, said he was returning to Georgia. Going with him, he said, were many members of the Georgia delegation.

His decision to quit followed closely the Democratic national convention's action seating a fully integrated delegate slate rivalling the regular Georgia slate.

Rebuilt Village Recaptures Loyalist Era

By ELIZABETH FORBES

MORRISBURG, Ont. — Anyone who has a drop of United Empire Loyalist blood in their past, should plan to see Upper Canada Village.

Forbes

It's presented as the story of pioneer Ontario. But in all its aspects and much of its background it brings to life the lives of loyal settlers wishing to remain true to the British flag — who crossed the United States border (starting in 1784) and fled to the British colony to the north.

Many of these people settled in what was later to be townships along the St. Lawrence River, from the Bay of Quinte to Glengarry, close to the Quebec border. Many had abandoned gracious homes and comfortable surroundings to maintain their loyalty.

The hardships they endured and the fight they made to return to a way of living they remembered is preserved for all time in Upper Canada Village.

Their story is told most vividly in a complex of three homesteads placed close together along a dirt road in the centre of the village.

You see a settler's shanty or single room shelter. The kind erected by families when they first came to Upper Canada. By the 1860's it was used as a sheep pen or for the pigs.

The family moved then to a more substantial log house of several rooms and a summer kitchen. Finally it too was abandoned and again there was a move. This time to a fine stone house of many rooms. When this happened, the log place was turned over to the hired man.

STONE HOUSE

A stone house preserved in the complex was built in 1846 and restored to the period of the 1860s. It is surrounded by green lawns, flower border, potato and vegetable fields and fruit trees. Furnishings are rich and gracious. There are carriages in the barn and horse stalls in the stable.

Visual proof that pioneer families were able eventually to revive a way of life they had abandoned almost a century before.

Upper Canada Village was born in 1957 when the St. Lawrence Seaway and its power projects were beginning to take shape. In the course of the development it was found that eight villages along the river must be flooded.

These villages all had Loyalist beginnings. On the winding streets were buildings and homes rich in history.

There was a great outcry at the thought of losing so much of value.

The Ontario government listened to the cry and through its efforts it was decided to preserve and relocate the most historic buildings before the flooding. And to creat a museum village which would present Ontario's past.

So it was that Upper Canada Village came to life on the banks of the St. Lawrence, east of Morrisburg . . . on farmland that once belonged to Loyalists Loukes and Hickey, one time members of the King's Royal Regiment of New York. culturists all had a part in the project.

Historians, architects, furnishing specialists and horticulturists all had a part in the project.

Many of the buildings were moved intact from old sites to the new. Furnishings and farm implements were saved.

Everything is authentic or authentically reproduced. Houses present exact tastes of their pioneer owners. Family treasures and heirlooms have been placed in proper settings. Room colors, wallpapers and fabrics are those that were in use a century ago.

OLD SAWMILL

In an old-time sawmill you see a muley saw (vertical blade) in action. In the wood frame and brick bakehouse behind Willard's Hotel, a baker kneads dough into bread. In the schoolmaster's house you see the room where a handful of children learned their A.B.C.'s. Down on the shore there is an old-time lock and canal, a block house, bateau shed and guard house.

There are taverns, churches and gracious homes. Plank, corduroy and dirt roads. Snake, rail, log and root fences. Sweet Williams, hollyhocks, love-in-a-mist, love-lies bleeding and Prince's feathers in the gardens.

During the war of 1812, the upper St. Lawrence valley, near the site of the village, was scene of the decisive battle of Crysler's Farm, between British and Amwrican forces.

Today, a spectacular monument high on a landscaped hill west of the village, marks this spot.

Close by is a garden of remembrance, surrounded by a red brick wall. In this wall tombstones from cemeteries in the six flooded villages, have been preserved. Birth dates inscribed on these stones go back, in many instances, nearly 300 years.

CHINA AID NOTED IN BORDER REVOLT

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian government officials are worried by a Chinese-aided guerrilla rebellion being waged in the remote northeastrn hills of Nagaland by tribesmen seeking to set up a separate state.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 Nagas have infiltrated through the jungles of northern Burma to China's Yunnan province for guerrilla training and arms for their independence campaign.

Chinese Air Force Said Overrated

NEW YORK (Reuters)—A world authority on military air power believes China's air force despite its size is obsolete and unlikely to catch up with American and Soviet technology in the foreseeable future.

Richard M. Bueschel, Far Eastern editor of Air Heritage magazine, in his new book Communist Chinese Air Power, published by Praeger, calls Chinese air strength a "hodgepodge"—even though it ranks third-largest in the world.

He bases his survey on reports and records of China-watchers in Formosa and Hong Kong, Communist publications and intelligence reports in the United States and Britain.

Bueschel estimates the combined Chinese air and naval air strength at 115,000 men and 3,000 aircraft—a mixture of models mostly from Russia, home-made copies of U.S. and Japanese aircraft acquired through "accidents of history."

He says the mixture and age of planes produces continuous problems of air training, supply and operation. China, he says, faces an "enormous need" for new equipment.

Bueschel says the Red Guard upheaval disrupted a five-year air modernization plan, and that it will take China several years to retrain and re-equip the air forces.

He says it is entirely possible that by the time the Chinese catch up with their adversaries the whole concept of air power, as well as corresponding aircraft forms and uses, will have greatly changed.

GEM FORTUNE STOLEN FROM BRITISH PLANE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—More than $250,000 worth of diamonds were reported missing Tuesday from a British plane en route from London to Hong Kong. Police said a small opening was found in the packet containing the diamonds, all of which had disappeared. The gems were on their way to a bank in Hong Kong. The plane's previous stop was Frankfurt, Germany.

Musical Record Of B.C. Excites Travel Bureau

B.C. government officials are excited because Nelson Riddle, a Hollywood music man, is touring parts of the province seeking inspiration for an orchestral composition he plans to create for a private B.C. recording company.

Premier Bennett had lunch with him Tuesday, Travel Industry Minister Kenneth Kiernan posed for photos with him and deputy travel industry minister Ronald Worley squired him around town.

Tagging along was Ralph Harding, of RADA Records of Vancouver, which has retained the bandleader, composer and arranger to create a score which his band will play in making a record for the company to be released as a musical reflection of the province.

RADA hopes the provincial government will buy some of the records and help promote it but Mr. Worley said no committments have been made and his department is only "giving encouragement" through its red-carpet treatment to the recording celebrity.

Mr. Riddle said he will not be writing lyrics for his composition but was considering incorporating a reading of some Indian legends over the background music.

Famous Film Figure Dies

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Robert Z. Leonard, 78, who came to Hollywood as a $7.50 a week actor in 1907 and later produced and directed hundreds of movies, died Tuesday of an aneurysm, failure of a blood vessel.

Films he directed included Strange Interlude, The Great Ziegfeld, Maytime, Pride and Prejudice, the French Doll, The Clown and Her 12 Men. The last one he directed and produced was Beautiful but Dangerous in 1958.

Leonard directed the notable stars of several eras, from Greta Garbo to Gina Lolobrigida, and he married one of them, Mae Murray. The silent film star divorced him in 1925 after seven years of marriage.

He married Gertrude Olstead, an actress, in 1926. She is his only close survivor. They had no children.

Long Voyage Ends

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — A three-month voyage retracing the path of the Lewis and Clark expedition ended Tuesday when Ray Burkett, 72, of Detroit, Mich., arrived in Astoria, Ore., at the mouth of the Columbia River.

Burkett began his trip in the Wabash River in Indiana where his 12-foot row boat sank once.

Any and All Orders Filled By Makers of Puppets

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The ancient art of puppetry—thought by some to have originated thousands of years ago with the Chinese—has been good to two brothers of Greek ancestry.

Sid and Marty Krofft operate what they call "the world's first and only show business factory."

"We are absolutly unique," said Sid, 40, who's shaggy-haired, mod-clad and vaguely resembles Victor Mature, as he led the way about their sprawling plant.

"You as a producer walk in. We take your project and develop it entirely—costumes, props, scenery, special effects, animation, music, everything."

Krofft Enterprises Inc. employs more than 100 artisans, entertains about 36,000 people a day at shows in Georgia and Texas and will gross this year about $1,000,000. Their main customers are amusement parks, tourist attractions, advertisers and television sponsors.

ACCEPT SMALL ORDERS

Small orders are accepted, too. A side-show fat man wants "bright, flashy shirts and loose, baggy pants" to accommodate his 700 pounds and 85-inch waist. The Kroffts sent him an estimate.

"A man walked in the other day with 10 picture frames he wanted painted," said Marty, a native of Montreal who's 30 and slightly less shaggy and swarthy than Sid. "We sprayed them for him free."

Mostly, however, the Kroffts think big. Sketches show how one developer will turn the top three decks of the liner Queen Mary into a sort of glamorous Disneyland at nearby Long Beach. A cigar-chewing Paul Bunyan gets mechanical innards that will swing his axe at terrified customers on an amusement park's thrill ride.

The brothers started as fifth-generation puppeteers. Sid was born in Athens, where in the 1700s, there great-great-grandfather Peter opened a theatre that launched the Kroffts as masters of the marionette throughout Europe for 200 years.

By 1960 the brothers were doing a supporting act in Las Vegas, where bare-breasted French revues had become popular. Sid told his brother: "Let's do a puppet show like the follies."

They borrowed $25,000 to create and costume three-foot high showgirl puppets for a program they called Les Poupees de Paris (The Dolls of Paris).

The adults-only show played to 40,000 in five months in a small San Fernando Valley theatre. It moved to the Seattle world's fair, where Time magazine called it "the smash hit"; to PJ's, a Hollywood nightclub, for four years, and to the New York world's fair. Road companies took it to various cities, and an "original cast album" has grossed about $12,000,000.

COWICHAN FOREST MUSEUM—"The biggest little train ride in North America." That is our firm claim, for where else can you board a real steam train on a narrow gauge track and travel through woods and over water past a unique display of old logging equipment once used to harvest the resources of our great forests? On foot you can wander along tree-lined paths where notices describe the mysteries of woodland growth. There is enjoyment here for young and old alike. Set on beautifully timbered lakeside grounds, this museum offers marvellous material for your picture-album. Located on Highway No. 1, one mile worth of Duncan. Open 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

ROYAL LONDON WAX MUSEUM—in the Crystal Garden Swimming Pool building directly across from the rear of the Empress Hotel, a must in Victoria. See over 100 Josephine Tussaud wax figures, direct from London, England. Life size, "They Seem Alive!" Also 37 scenes beautifully and artistically displayed, featuring: Kings, Queens, Presidents, Prime Ministers and many other outstanding world figures. The enchanted fairyland presents a new scene of Snow White and the Dwarfs Grumpy and Sneezy. Also many thrilling and exciting figures can be seen in the chamber of horrors. Open daily 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. including Sundays. 388-4461.

MARITIME MUSEUM - BASTION SQUARE—The finest on the West Coast. Mum, dad and the kids will all thrill to the magnificent treasures of the sea. Mum—have you seen embroidery done by sailors? Dad—fond of sailing? Take a look at Captain Voss' dugout canoe. He sailed it from here to England nearly 70 years ago. And kids—there are ship models galore, a radar set, bells to ring, old weapons. A host of exciting links with the past. Daily 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. And Dad—parking lot tickets will be validated.

FISHING FOR EVERYONE—Oak Bay Marina, 386-3445. Rental boats, modern fleet, new motors, rental rods. Bar Association To Review Laws

Recording telephone conversations is illegal. But an attachment for this purpose, made in Japan, has been circulated in Canada.

This will be a leading topic of discussion at the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association, John Cowan, president of the Victoria Bar Association, said today.

Any telephone attachment which doesn't give a signal before recording a telephone conversation is illegal," Mr. Cowan said, "because it is a breach of contract with the telephone company.

A resolution asking the federal government to make all electronic eavesdropping a criminal offence, except where it is used by law-enforecement agencies under judicial control, will be debated.

ATTEND MEETING

Mr. Cowan and a number of Victoria lawyers will attend the annual meeting to the held at Hotel Vancouver from Sunday to Friday.

More than 2,000 lawyers from all across Canada are expected. And Prime Minister Trudeau will address them at a lunch-meeting Tuesday.

Another major topic to be discussed is Canada's new Divorce Act.

The new act will be examined from the viewpoint of the lawyer and the court in promoting reconciliation of husband and wife.

Changes in the law of custody and maintenance of children, as it realtes to legal pracitce will also be reviewed.

Mr. Cowan said human rights will be discussed by the Bar Association5s civil liberties and criminal justice sections.

BILL OF RIGHTS

"They have scheduled a panel discussion on whether a Canadian Bill of Rights, entrenched in the constitution of the country, is required."

Pollution of air, water, urban surroundings and resources will be discussed by the air, maritime, municipal and natural resources and energy sections.

Obscenity and the law will be examined by the civil liberties section.

Participating in three symposiums on the new divorce act will be Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court and Sir Leslie Eearman of England's high court of justice.

The bar of France will be represented by Maitre Michel Villard of Paris, and the American Bar Association by Earl F. Morris.

They will address the association at various meetings.

A full-scale recreation program has been arranged for the laywers and their wives.

HARE

University Extension Lecturers Announced

Newly-installed president of the University of B.C., Dr. Kenneth Hare, will be one of the guest lecturers at the University of Victoria's expanded night school program this year.

Dr. Hare will begin the annual University Extension Series Sept. 30 with a discussion of The University Today.

The night program this year will offer diploma-credit course in many professional fields as well as general interest courses. Cost of the courses range from $10 to $20.

Canon Hilary Butler of Christ Church Cathedral will survey the work of the recent World Council of Churches and Second Vatican Council in a 12-part series entitled Toward Human Unity.

Historian James K. Nesbitt will repeat his lecture series on Victoria and British Columbia history.

The fine arts department will mark the 300th anniversary of the birth of French composer Francois Couperin with an eight-part series of lectures and performances.

Except in some diploma courses, no educational prerequisite is necessary.

A 24-page catalogue may be obtained from Uvix's evening division at 477-6911, local 395.

Shopping Centre Still Considered

The developer of a shopping centre site in the North Shelbourne area said today he may proceed on a 5.5-acre property following council's rejection of a proposal to enlarge this to 10.5 acres.

Jack Aceman of Vancouver, who has developed and owns a number of shopping centres in B.C., said at the moment he doesn't know what he will do.

But, he added, "we may proceed" with construction on the 5.5-acre site zoned for shopping centre use by council in April, 1967. He expected to know in a week or 10 days.

The shopping centre zoning is bounded by Ruby, Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Road.

ORIGINAL PLAN

The original plan called for a shopping centre with a leasable area of 62,500 square feet, including a Canada Safeway store of 27,000 square feet, at a cost of $1.5 million.

A companion to this scheme was for apartments, where children would be welcome, consisting of 93 two-bedroom suites and 36-one-bedroom suites at a cost of $1 million.

But because of strong resident opposition, Mr. Aceman withdrew the apartment plan.

The apartment application was resubmitted earlier this year but council, in effect, rejected it March 4 when a motion to hold a public hearing was lost.

Mr. Aceman said the apartment proposal will not be submitted again because of the strong objections to it in the past.

The proposal rejected by council Monday night would have seen the existing zoning enlarged to provide a 10.5-acre shopping cente with a leasable area of 125,000 square feet, including a a Canada Safeway with 23,000 square feet and a K-Mart department store of 84,000 square feet, at a cost of just over $2 million.

MAIL SERVICE HAS HOLIDAY

There will be no regular mail servies on the Labor Day holiday Monday. The post office box lobby will be open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and special delivery, receipt and despatching of mail will be on normal holiday schedule. Street letter box collections will be made in the evening only.

All provincial government offices will also be closed but the Provincial Museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined for careless driving Tuesday were:

William Randall, 204 Superior, accident on Douglas Street July 9, $35; Eric Longland, 4051 Granville, accident at Holland and Hastings July 8, $40.

NDP to Conduct University Probe

The provincial caucus of the New Democratic Party has set up a three-member fact-finding committee to investigate unrest on the campus in B.C.'s four universities to see if changes in legislation should be proposed.

MLAs Eileen Dailly, Thomas Berger and Norman Levi will hold informal meetings with students, faculty and administrations at the Universities of B.C., Victoria, Notre Dame and Simon Fraser, it was announced Tuesday.

The announcement said the province has a great stake in the universities because the Legislature's statutes decide how they are governed and public funds provide a major share of their revenue.

The committee also plans to arrange a public forum this fall in its search for ideas which could be used in proposing amendments to the Universities Act and the grants commission establishment.

"Let us make it clear that we do not regard unrest at our universities as a bad sign," the NDP announcement said.

"The university is a place where there is bound to be controversy. But controversy for its own sake and demonstrations for their own sake are a waste of time."

How to Talk To Your Children

Why do so many parents have difficulty in handling their children? Part of the trouble is how little each listens to the other, points out an instructive article in September Reader's Digest. You'll learn that talking with your child requires that you show respect and understanding. Learning how to handle children's "mixed-up feelings" can make the difference between a battlefield and a happy home. Find out how to reach children and how to handle parental anger. It's all in September Reader's Digest. Get your copy now.

311 PINTS OF BLOOD

Sex education in the schools is more or less taken for granted now, and I see by the news that "family life" instruction may soon be phased clear down to kindergarten. But 21 years ago, when Helen MacGregor Healing faced a class of teen-age girls with firm intent, she was a pioneer in an area into which only the boldest teachers ventured.

Mrs. Healing lives with her husband at 1009 Hampshire Road. She hasn't taught for many a year, but she still remembers the little high school in Ponoka, Alberta, where she made her decision and carried it through.

I should explain here that she is a woman with a mind of her own. She came to teaching by a hard route: two years at little new UBC, then off to try her luck in a profession that had no place for her. That was in the early 'twenties, when teaching posts were hard to come by.

She taught where she could as a student on permit, and between stints, completed her education. It was a hard grind, but eventually she was chosen from 196 applicants to teach grades nine to twelve in Ponoka at $1,200 a year.

The small, two-teacher school was overcrowded, the curriculum so bulging that it allowed no place for the Latin needed by Grade 12's who hoped to go on to university.

Helen MacGregor, young and single, saw that they got it. She taught them Latin after school, and saw them score good passing marks.

★

This for two years. Then she married Charles William Healing, and turned her attention to home-making.

But teaching refused to give her up. Whenever a substitute was needed, they called in Mrs. Healing.

So to the day in 1947, when one of the staff—a confirmed spinster, Mrs. Healing recalls—suffered what was then defined as a nervous breakdown. Perhaps significantly, the lady was overcome just before she was due to deal with reproduction as set out in the education department's health and hygeine course.

Margaret MacGregor Healing scanned the chapter. It commenced with a birds and bees passage, went on to deal stiffly with the beasts of the field, and wound up with a cautious dab at human multiplication.

"I wasn't impressed," says Mrs. Healing, who with the help of a book titled 'The Stork Didn't Bring You,' had seen to the sex education of her own two daughters. "I thought I could provide much more useful instruction."

★

The principal's name was Howard Lawson, and she looks back on him as a man ahead of his times. He approved her venture. So did the parents of her girl students . . . she had taught most of them, and they trusted her judgment.

"Now," she announced, when health-lesson time came, "our next chapter deals with reproduction."

She then snapped the text shut, and began to teach the truth as she had imparted it to her own children.

"You could have heard a pin drop," she say, and chuckles at the memory.

If her principal was ahead of his times, so was Helen MacGregor Healing. With her precise teacher's hand, she detailed male and female sex organs on the blackboard.

"Now for heaven's sake," she urged, "call them by their right names."

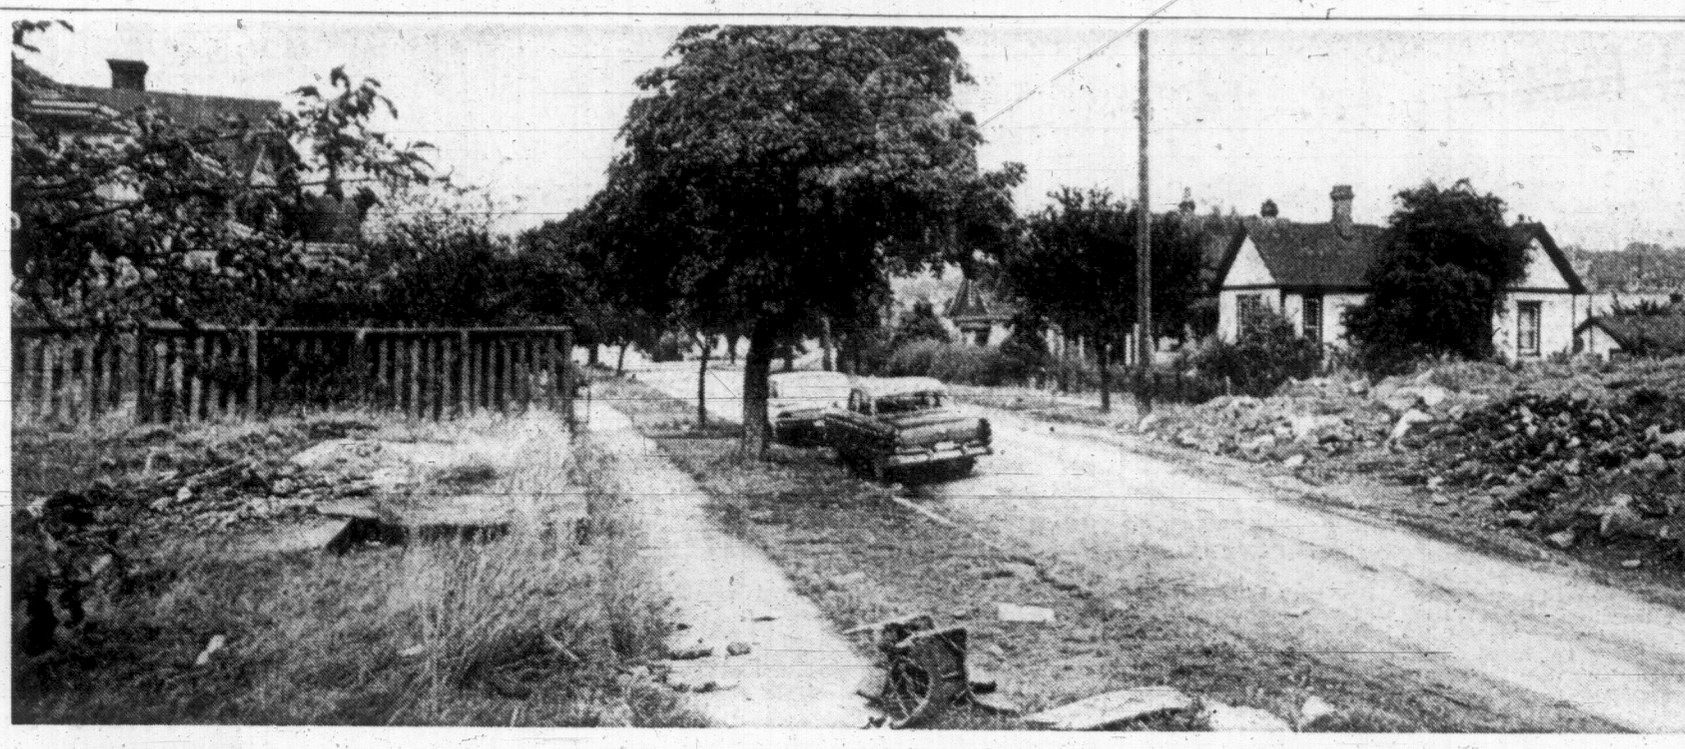

She dealt with sexual intercourse, conception and birth. She gave them concise information about contraceptive devices then in use, and calmly discussed venereal disease and rape. Also, she answered their questions.

"I just talked to them like a mother," she says, "and I left nothing out."

To each in turn, she loaned her copy of 'The Stork Didn't Bring You.'

Her course covered three health lesson periods. Not a girl who received it failed to thank her. And so, off and on for years, did their parents.

She was a pioneer, one of a few teachers who saw honest sex education as one of youth's necessities and did not hesitate to administer it. And I'm not sure even today, that our schools have quite caught up to her.

Wark Street; the houses beyond the rubble will go too . . .

AT THE DOORWAY of her Wark Street house, one doomed to expropriation, Mrs. Benny Liberatore says: "We liked it here very much. It was close to everything."

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL-MUNICIPAL, BUT . . .

Some Not Partners in Renewal Plan Partnership

In the still house of Mar Wing How the oil heater has been disconnected, paper is wrapped around it, and its pipes lie in a neat pile in an empty room.

In other rooms clothing is packed in boxes, waiting to be moved.

Mr. Mar is 72, is retired and has a broken heart.

He and his wife have lived in the bungalow at 2643 Blanshard for nearly 20 years.

It is one of seven the city will likely expropriate next month as part of its renewal plan for the Rose-Blanshard area.

The city has offered Mr. Mar $7,700 for the house, he said. He is not selling.

"I'm not asking for anything. I'm not asking for any price.

"All I want is a house to live in."

He and his wife would gladly move out if the city would find him another house—even if the other house had only two or three rooms and a basement.

He said about 1½ years ago the city came to see him, told him they wanted his property and said they would find him and his wife a place to stay.

"I've been waiting, waiting, waiting. This breaks my heart."

They began to pack.

Mr. Mar said if he was 20 years younger he would have no objection to taking the $7,700 the city is offering and going off to find himself a new home.

Now he is too old.

He admits that for the offered price he could not get a house anywhere comparable to the one he is waiting to leave, but he is willing to accept that as the way things go.

It is not proper, he says, to try to make a profit from the city. "The city helps you, you help the city."

Mr. Mar is inclined to show the city more charity than are most of his neighbors in the area.

A sign at the corner of Rose and Hillside reads, in big white letters: Urban Renewal Project 1; 180 Unit Housing Site.

Beneath that is the legend: A federal-provincial-municipal partnership.

There is a desperate feeling among the people in the houses left standing between the bulldozer-scarred lots where neighbors once lived that, somehow, they got left out of the partnership.

Like Mr. Mar they seem unable to do anything more than wait.

Grass along the boulevards is not cut and if the children playing along Wark and Blanshard laugh or shout, their noise is lost in the grumble of heavy machinery on Rose Street.

Nearly all the houses sit behind fences. Inside the fences, most gardens are untended. Nearly all the fences need paint. Nearly all the gates are broken.

Here are some of the people who are still there:

RESIGNED TO LEAVING their Blanshard Street home of nearly 20 years, Mr. and Mrs. Mar Wing How say it is not money they want from the city. What they want is another home. They are packed and ready to go. But, as yet, they have no place to go to.

Well Being Key Issue

Dollars and cents are not the key issues in the Rose-Blanshard property value disputes.

People are.

William Hooson, former social worker now assistant to the city manager, said this morning that expropriation proceedings now facing the city and involving seven properties in the urban renewal area, brought into sharp focus one of Victoria's biggest headaches.

"This problem is always, in one way or another, facing local governments," he said. "It is not so much a matter of dollars and cents as the consideration for the well being of the people. Their very life is involved.

"No matter what we do, somebody has to be affected. All we can try to do is keep the disruption to a minimum.

"And I think I can say in all honesty, that the city staff and the staff of Central Mortgage and Housing, have tried very hard to do that."

CMHC, the city and the provincial government, are three-way partners in the low rental housing scheme which will eventually see 180 new housing units built to replace what was once a depressed area of the city.

What does the three-way partnership offer the home owner or the renter about to be dispossessed by progress?

●

"We offer fair market value for all properties," says Mr. Hooson. "That fair market value can be established by qualified appraisers sent in by the city or, if the property owner wishes, an independent appraiser of his choice."

Although six property owners are holding out in the Blanshard School site area past records would indicate that the city has been batting a better than fair average in past negotiations.

When the scheme became official close to two years ago there were 127 residential property owners in the area. Of that total 114 have agreed to the "fair market" price established after appraisal.

Of the 13 properties remaining seven are now awaiting court adjudication to establish compensation.

The minimum price paid by the partnership for property is $3,380 for a bare lot. The maximum paid to date, $25,000 for a large house divided into four relatively modern apartment suites.

Average price being paid for the homes in the area, some well over the 50-year-old category, runs between $8,000 and $10,000.

"We don't insist that the property owner accept our price," says Mr. Hooson. "He is quite free to call in his own appraiser and we will negotiate from that figure."

●

It isn't always easy to convince a home owner that his property is not as valuable as he thinks.

"We had one case where after detailed appraisal the top price we could offer didn't even total the amount the owner still owed after six years of occupancy.

"What had happened of course is that when he bought the house he paid a highly inflated price. But we recognized his problem, realized that he had, in his mind, a valid argument and shelved negotiations for a while.

"This year when we did a completely new appraisal to meet the rising cost of property and land he came out slightly ahead of the game."

Mr. Hooson adds that with one or two exceptions the disputes between the city and the property owners have not been over price.

●

"Elderly people are not so much interested in cash as replacement for the homes they are now living in," he said. "This is where the gulf lies. The question is: how do we find an answer to the problem? It isn't an easy one to answer."

Mr. Hooson said every effort was being made to give the elderly people involved top priority in finding new homes either within the boundaries of the scheme or in a locale of their choice.

What happens to the renter who stays in the area in a replacement house while awaiting construction of the new units? Or the homeowner who, having agreed to the city's price, wishes to remain in his home until he can find his own new accommodation?

●

"First the partnership assumes the cost of any moving operations," answers Mr. Hooson. "Secondly, if they wish to stay in the area, they can rent from the now city-owned property for a rent established at five per cent of the price paid for the property.

"In other words if $10,000

MURDER HEARING

Victim's Injuries Described

William Bruce van Munster suffered severe injuries to the skull and facial bones and fractures of the cheek, jawbones and skull a doctor said in the preliminary hearing of two district men charged with murder.

Frederick James Morry and Gary Hugh McWhirter are charged with the non-capital murder of van Munster, a hotel clerk who disappeared almost five months ago.

Dr. Kenneth R. Thornton, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital said he performed an autopsy on an "extensively decomposed and partially mummified body" July 27.

He said the body was positively identified to him as van Munster's by another doctor present who examined the teeth.

'GROOVED' FRACTURES

Dr. Thornton did not say how death was caused but described to the court unusual or special characteristics of the skull fractures. He said above the left eyebrow there was a "sharp groove" which could have been caused "by a blow by the edge of a hard object." He said there were other fractures that also showed the "grooving."

On cross-examination he said the injuries were not post-mortem fractures because there was hemorrhaging which implied they were caused during life and there were no signs of repair.

The pathologist was the first of more than 30 witnesses who are to testify in the hearing being held before Magistrate William Ostler.

Lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood is acting for McWhirter and Cecil Branson for Morry. John Macintyre is Crown prosecutor.

The hearing was delayed for an hour early today when Mr. Owen-Flood said there had been an unexpected development overnight which "goes to the root of the conduct of the defence."

He asked for a three-quarter hour adjournment which was granted.

Mr. Macintyre agreed to the delay saying the development was "quite significant and would take some time to digest."

The hearing is continuing.

'It Cost Me Money To Fix This Up . . .'

You can't buy a house like this for $20,000 or $21,000," said Indar Singh, standing in the kitchen of his Kings Road duplex.

Indar said the city has offered him $13,000 for the house and property that abuts the Blanshard schoolyard.

After they made the offer, Indar said he went to look for a house and found "they want $17,000 or $18,000 for junky shacks."

A B.C. Forest Industries employee, he began fixing up the house after he got married and moved in about five years ago.

"It cost me a lot of money to fix this up," he said. "New houses aren't like this."

He said he wants at least $21,000 for the property, but has no intentions of selling. His plans now are to begin fixing up the exterior of the house and landscaping.

"Why I've got more than $1,000 bucks in kitchen cabinets in here and they come in and offer me $13,000.

"What the hell do they think they are?"

'I'm Bitter About It'

"I'm bitter about it . . . it's a flagrant waste of the taxpayers' money."

William Lind turned from his packing and looked at the Blanshard School site one house away from his porch.

He was nearly ready to move his family for the second time in a year to accommodate urban renewal—the first time from Kings Road to Wark Street and now from Wark to Blanshard.

"It's a crime to tear down this house, but that's what they're going to do—they'll have a bulldozer through here in no time.

"This place has got beautiful floors, all hardwood and in good condition. It's much better than the house on Kings we moved out of a year ago.

"It doesn't seem right to tear down a house like this—they could have put the school up half a block (near S. J. Willis north of Hillside) and used the school ground there.

'Nice People Lived There'

Nino Liberatore pointed across to a bulldozed pile of earth and rock beside the glistening, new Blanshard School and said:

"Where that dirt pile is — there were some nice people lived there."

Nino is 13 and getting ready to try out for offensive end with the Knights of Columbus-sponsored junior football team.

His father, Benny, is refusing to sell the house at 2640 Wark the family has lived in for four years.

Nino seems nearly to have given up hope. He said most of the people in the neighborhood seem to feel "it's no use fighting" the city takeover of their properties.

Mr. Liberatore, on the other hand, is fighting mad.

"It's time the city opened its eyes and closed its mouth," he said.

"They're dictators.

"What kind of democracy do you have that works this way?"

Mr. Liberatore had a house on Rose Street property and when the city started working on the renewal project he says he asked $30,000 for both houses.

He said the city refused the offer and bought the Rose Street house for $8,000, a house he estimated would cost a private buyer $11,500.

For the Wark Street house, with two apartments downstairs and the family quarters up, Mr. Liberatore said the city has offered him $16,500.

There was a $10,000 dollar difference between the offer and his asking price.

But he said, it's not the money he wants. It's another house.

Another house as convenient to the centre of town as the present one with room in it for two apartments to be rented out.

He said he is ready to fight for this in the courts.

Plants Go Into Tubs

Mrs. F. J. Kueng at 2655 Blanshard didn't want to talk about having sold out to the city.

"I'm just heartsick about the whole thing," she said.

"I've lived here for 28 years and now I have to move into a house that's not half as good."

Mrs. Kueng said she did not get "a fair deal"

"Have you talked to her over there?" she asked, pointing to a small, grey-haired lady digging in the garden of the house at the corner of Blanshard and Hillside.

The city directory lists the house as belonging to Mrs. E. V. Hunter but no one answered the door and the lady digging in the garden didn't want to talk either.

She was digging up plants, putting them in metal tubs and putting the tubs in the trunk of her car. "I'm too busy to talk," she said.

She was moving out.

A sign in the doorway of the house said "Private Property, No Trespassing."

Wheelchair On Ringside

Edward Godtel sat in front of the home he has lived in since 1926 and shrugged.

"Who wants to stay here with that going on?". He pointed to crews with pneumatic hammers just a few steps away, breaking up the pavement at Rose and Hillside.

His house, on the route of the Rose St. expressway, has been sold to the city.

"They (the city) have been quite good. They said they would try to find a house that's good for a wheel chair and build all the ramps. And they'll help move me."

Mr. Godtel is confined to an electrically-powered wheel-chair, from which he watched construction around his home.

His house sits alone in a no-man's land of road construction.

"But I've lived here a long time . . . it's been 42 years. It's sad to move out of a house you've had for so long."

He did not say when he would be moving out. The rest of his words were drowned in the grinding gears of a loaded dump truck.

SMACK UP AGAINST BLANSHARD SCHOOL, Indar Singh's house is slated for expropriation by the city. A duplex, with a young couple living upstairs, the house has been extensively refinished inside. Mr. Indar says he cannot buy a comparable house for the money the city is offering him for the Kings Road property.

Miniature Tools For Model Makers

By PENNY SAVER

Being myself a person of very little patience, I am always amazed at the accomplishments of my patient friends. I am thinking particularly of one family we know who make miniatures and models of every description. The whole family is hooked on this hobby. Even Mother will lend a hand with wiring a radio control or putting the finishing touches on a toothpick castle. Her own particular hobbies include cake decoration and, more recently, carving delicate little dolls out of wood. As I have said, the patience that goes into all these activities staggers my imagination.

During a recent visit I took a peek at their workbench. It teemed with the tiniest tools imaginable! After a bit of wheedling. I talked them into telling me where these miniature tools could be found so I could share the knowledge with my hobby-loving readers.

The miniature dolls I mentioned are made from an old pattern my friend found in a magazine years ago. She put it away and only recently decided to give it a try. The dolls have jointed limbs that fit together just so, and she found she needed the tiniest files ever to whittle the wood down to just the right size. "I have even used emery boards and nail files when the going got rough," she admitted to me, "but best of all was a set of files the boys bought for one of their projects." These files come in a soft plastic case. There are six in a set for $1.49. These thin files will slip into the holes to make them the right size for the pin that holds the joints together or slip between the fingers of a tiny doll hand.

Pint-Sized Plane Takes Razor Blades

Balsa wood plays a big part in many kinds of models because of its light weight, but it is not the sort of wood one attacks with regular tools. I noticed one of the boys carefully planing down a piece of balsa and asked him what kind of plane he was using. It turned out to be one that uses a razor blade instead of an ordinary plane blade. This miniature plane is made all of metal and costs $2.19.

One of the sons has an artistic bent and he is trying his hand at scorched-wood carvings. He decided that the best way to scorch the wood would be with the tiny blow-torch he had bought for a previous project. This intriguing device uses the same butane fuel that goes into cigarette lighters. The blow-torch attachment fits right onto the refill can. It includes the nozzle and the adjustment knob. The can acts as a handgrip as well as holding the fuel supply. The $5.95 set includes an initial can of fuel.

I was amazed to see a socket wrench set among the miniature tools. Surely nothing on a model would require the mechanical advantage of a socket wrench to get it tight! "But just getting hold of something that small can be a problem," I was told, "and when you are squeezing a pair of needle-nose pliers, shutting it can be quite a trick to apply a decent amount of pressure without straining a muscle." The eight sockets in the set begin at three-sixteenths of an inch and go up to seven sixteenths. The whole set comes in a plastic case for $7.75.

If you would like to know where these items may be found, please call me at 382-3131.

TODAY'S RECIPE

AVOCADO-BACON CLUB SANDWICHES

One-quarter cup lime juice, 30 thin slices peeled avocado, ¾ teaspoon curry powder, ½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing. Eighteen slices enriched bread toast, 6 lettuce leaves, 12 thin slices tomato, 12 slices crisp bacon.

Pour lime juice over avocado slices and let stand.

Combine curry powder and mayonnaise, spread 1 teaspoon mayonnaise mixture over each of 6 toast slices.

Top each spread toast slice with a lettuce leaf and 2 tomato slices.

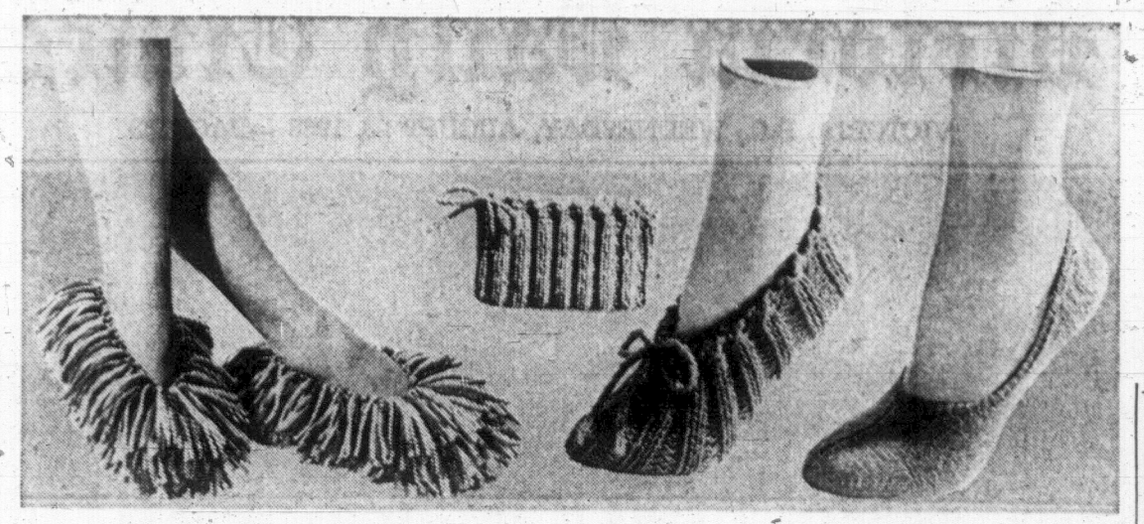

Spread a teaspoon of mayonnaise mixture over 6 more slices toast, place, spread side down, over tomatoes.

Spread another teaspoon mayonnaise mixture over top side of toast slices; top with 5 slices avocado and 2 slices bacon. Spread remaining mayonnaise mixture over remaining toast slices; place, spread side down, over bacon and avocado.

Fasten sandwiches together using our toothpicks; cut into four triangles before serving.

Yield: Six Avocado-Bacon sandwiches.

KNIT AND CHAT

By MAY MAC LEAN

Counting Mistake Can Be Rectified

Mac Lean

Dear May: I find your column very interesting and I hope you can help me find a solution to my problem. Last summer I started to knit a cardigan, and as I was so busy, there was long periods between the times I knitted. However, this spring it finally got finished. When I pressed the pieces, I found to my dismay, that I had made a mistake on one of the fronts, on the decreases from the armhole up, so that one front was much too long. I was so disgusted, I packed it up and never finished it off. Is there anything that you can suggest other than un-ripping the knitting? I am afraid the wool would never be the same if I did.—Mrs. J.B.S., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Dear Mrs. J.B.S.: Since you have one front that is the correct size and shape, it will be easy to make the other to correspond. I am not going to suggest that you re-knit the front, that would be too tedious and you would lose interest again.

Lay the correct shape on top of the other front, placing the lower edges together. Then with a sewing needle and contrasting colored thread, baste around where you have the excess. Now with matching colored thread, machine stitch around twice on top of the basting. Have a medium stitch on the machine tension, and do not allow the work to drag as you are machining. Cut off the excess. Now you have two fronts that are the same shape and size, and the cardigan can be finished without any problems.

It is a good idea to have a notebook in your knitting bag so that you can jot down exactly where you left off in the pattern. If the work is left for any considerable amount of time, you will know exactly where you are, as regards to increases and decreases etc.

This week's pattern features slippers! They are such fun to make—they're great as bazaar items and "sale-of-work" tables at teas!

The "mop-slippers" are a delightful whimsy to relax in and are made from double-knitting wool. The travelling slippers and footlets are from a finer weight of wool.

To order Leaflet No. 6813, send 35c in coin (not stamps or personal cheques please) together with a 5c stamped self addressed long envelope to: May E. Mac Lean "Knit and Chat," c-o The Times.

Liver Transplant Patient Died of Cancer on Monday

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Julie Cherie Rodriguez, who lived with a transplanted liver longer than anyone known to science, died of cancer Monday night at the University of Colorado Medical Centre.

"It was a blessing," said her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rodriguez of Pueblo, Colo. "She had suffered so much, I'm glad God came and picked her up," said her father.

At 2, the pretty, wide-eyed little girl was too young to know that by surviving more than 13 months after the transplant she offered hope to uncounted victims of otherwise terminal liver ailments.

Julies's new liver had functioned well since it was implanted July 23, 1967. The donor was a child who had died of causes that left the liver undamaged.

But cancer, which destroyed Julie's own liver by the time she was a year old, appeared elsewhere in her body. Several additional operations failed to curb it, and several weeks ago, just before the first anniversary of the transplant, the parents learned there was no hope.

Weight Control Seen As Scare Phenomenon

TORONTO (CP) — About the only good thing about fad diets, says Corinne Trerice, is that people don't usually stay on them long enough to do themselves serious harm.

Because of her concern about their effects on health, Miss Trerice has made a busman's hobby of collecting diets, food fands and odd beliefs about food. She is director of nutrition for the Associated Milk Foundation of Canada.

She says social and health bugbears have turned weight control into a scare phenomenon during the last 20 years.

Stewardesses to Wear New Uniforms Sunday

Stewardesses of CP Air will shed their conventional blue uniforms on September 1 to appear in stylish new turquoise apparel in tune with the exciting world of mod colors and design, the airline announced today.

The new outfit, to be worn by CP Air's 264 stewardesses, is trim, practical and attractive. Skirts keep in step with a slightly shorter length two inches above the knee.

The pillbox hat is replaced with a jaunty hunting-style cap with a small peak.

The new pure wool worsted uniform replaces the sky blue outfit which has been worn on CP Air's five-continent route pattern for the past six years.

Knowing that the appearance of its stewardesses is a big factor in its public image, CP Air decided it was time for an updating.

So it turned to those who know best what kind of uniform would be stylish, attractive and yet comfortable and practical for working—the stewardesses themselves.

Development of the new uniform was co-ordinated with the suppliers by selected stewardesses who nursed the project from its inception through all the designing, refining, manufacturing and final fitting phases.

The basic design is not too different from the old uniform, a one-piece A-line dress with a jacket and coat. The simplicity of design remains, but the wool worsted texture, vibrant turquoise color and twin rows of specially-treated, metallic-appearing bone buttons in blue and silver on the coat give it a new snap.

Mini sleeves and welted seams accent the slender A-line dress. Over it is worn a tailored four-button jacket which is removed during flight. There are summer and winter coats in matching wool worsted with the 10-button double-breasted styling, slash pockets and tailored collar.

The welted seams on the bodice are continued around the coat to give added back interest.

Complementing the turquoise look are black accessories: English morocco handbag; square-toed, semi-block heel shoes in black kid; and white shortie gloves. In winter, the stewardesses will wear knee-length fitted black boots and short black leather gloves.

A new wrinkle in accessories is addition of a cheery umbrella.

The uniform was manufactured by Sterling Cloak Company, Winnipeg; hat by Chic Hat Shop, Vancouver; handbag by Fiesta, Montreal. Shoes are by Avanti, Toronto, purchased with gloves through Woodward Stores, Vancouver. Emblems were made by Pressed Metal Products Ltd., Vancouver.

CP Air stewardesses Roswitha Schulz, left, and Shirley-Anne Hayzel, model the new turquoise uniform to be introduced by the airline on September 1. The outfit will be worn by CP Air stewardesses on all flights of the airline's 58,000-mile route pattern. (CP Air photo.)

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

HAIR FAIR

I'm in my middle 20s. My face is rather large and round and I have a short neck. Could you please tell me the best way to wear my hair? I prefer simple hairdos and find that short hair is easiest for me to manage.—F.C.

Actually, short and simple describes the best type of hairdo for you. Have it styled so that some hair falls on to the cheeks which will cut the width of your face. If you wear hair combed back off your forehead, your neck will appear longer. Then, too, hair shaped into a layered V in the back is trim looking and easiest to manage.

EXCESS BAGGAGE

Have you any suggestions for my problem? I have a roll of fat (shaped like a quarter of a melon) on my abdomen. Even though I maintain my weight of 105 pounds this "excess baggage" has stayed with me since I was 16. I've tried every exercise, diet, kneading, massaging—with no success.—H.D.

Your problem may stem from either of two causes, H. D. Check with your doctor to determine whether you have any internal abnormalities which may require his attention. If he agrees that the condition is due to muscle laxity in the protruding area, here are some toning exercises that will definitely help you.

Lie on the floor, raise the right leg about 12 inches off the floor and "draw" 10 circles clockwise. Lower your leg slowly without touching the floor; then raise it again and draw 10 circles counter-clockwise. Repeat this procedure with the left leg, always lowering legs very S-L-O-W-L-Y. Then raise both legs simultaneously and do 10 more circles in each direction. If you supplement this exercise by conscientiously tucking your tummy and buttock muscles in at the same time at least 50 times a day (or whenever you think about it), I'm sure you'll notice an improvement within a few weeks.

WEDDING BELLE

I'm 25 years old and plan to be married for the second time in August. This is my fiance's first marriage and between us we have many friends and relatives who should be invited to the ceremony. Can you please advise me about the type of celebration and ceremony to plan and what style dress would be suitable? Thank you very much for your help. —R.H.

I would recommend keeping the ceremony and reception as informal as possible inasmuch as some of the guests will have attended your first wedding.

For the reception, I would suggest champagne and cake, preceded by a buffet of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and/or dainty tea sandwiches such as chicken and watercress. "Finger foods" should be your choice.

Choose a simple short dress in the pastel shade most flattering for your coloring.

To Be Honored Saturday

Several parties have been arranged to honor Miss Mildred Orr on her retirement as provincial director of home economics after 23 years of service with the provincial government's Department of Education. Among the receptions is one which will be held in the Thurlow Road home of Miss Jean Irvine this Saturday. Home economics associates and friends of Miss Orr will be among the 40 guests attending. The Misses Beth Ramsay and Bertha Rogers will preside at the refreshment table. Serviteurs will be Mrs. Maurice Chandler, the Misses Muriel Pottinger, Jean Campbell, Muriel Johnson and Sharon Anderson. Out-of-town guests will include Miss Orr's sister, Mrs. Wallace Boyd; Miss Winifred Bracher of the University of British Columbia's school of home economics, Mrs. Arnold Webster, Mrs. William Reid and Miss Isabelle Elliott, all of Vancouver; Mrs. Harold Weeks, Parksville; Mrs. Eric Haffenden, Comox, and Mrs. Frank Hansen, Duncan.

From Ventura

Mrs. Leslie Tucker of Ventura, Calif. is in Victoria visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Walker of Weald Road. Mrs. Tucker plans to return to California Thursday.

Mrs. Kay Poelzer and her grandson, Mr. Michael Ringham, both of Vancouver, arrived Monday for a brief visit with Mrs. Poelzer's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Poelzer, 512 Joffre St. Mrs. Poelzer and Mr. Ringham have now returned to Vancouver.

Amethysts and Beach Stones

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — There's a place near here where anyone can wander along a beach and pick up jewels for a new ring or set of cuff links just for the gathering.

The place is Amethyst Cove, at the far end of Cape Blomidon, jutting out into tide-swept Minas Basin. There are a few other spots around the province where amethysts, agates and other pretty if not precious stones can be found.

Blomidon is a 500-foot-high bluff overlooking beautiful dikeland country where the Fundy tides swirl highest, fastest and fiercest. It is here that Glooscap, the legendary man-god of the Micmac Indians, is said to have resided.

Modern-day residents of the area gather amethysts, agates and other stones from the beaches, cut and polish them and fashion them into a multitude of items.

Stones may be fastened to a piece of jewellery in many ways, but in nearly all types of stone settings there must be a place on which the stone rests—often a flat piece of silver or other metal.

However, Mrs. Helen R. Rhurber of Digby has hit upon the unique idea of fastening amethysts to flat beach stones, thus ensuring the whole piece is strictly representative of Nova Scotia.

DEAR ABBY . . .

No Children Are THAT Mature

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been divorced for two years. We have two very mature and sophisticated children, a boy, 10, and a girl, 12, who live in New York with their mother.

I have a very nice beach home in southern California, and I have a ladyfriend living with me. My ex-wife is aware of this but my children are not.

In our settlement, my wife agreed to let me have the children for two weeks in the summer. Now she refuses to send them to me because she doesn't want them to visit a father who is living "in sin" with another woman.

I say, "Children should be taught the realities of life, and I don't intend to put up any phony puritanical front." My ladyfriend is not a cheap floozie. She's a fine European woman with sufficient charm and intelligence to hold a man without insisting on marriage, which is more than can be said of most American women.

How can I make my ex-wife see it my way? I miss my children.

DEPRIVED

DEAR DEPRIVED: You probably can't, which is just as well. I agree with your ex-wife. Your "mature and sophisticated" children will learn the realities of life soon enough, so allow them their illusions a while longer. And if you really "miss" your children, tell your "fine European lady friend" to get lost for two weeks.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, a former widower, expects me to entertain his first wife's relatives for indefinite layovers. I have my own private income and I married for companionship, not to do K.P. duty for outsiders. We have no servants. Please advise.

LAKE GEORGE

DEAR LAKE GEORGE: Since you are obviously irritated by these guests, I advise you to lay it on the line with your husband. He married for companionship, too, no doubt, and I have a feeling you were both robbed.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from a girl whose boyfriend's mother tried to force birth control pills on her. Your answer was fine, but you didn't go far enough.

These pills, and most other drugs, should be obtained from a qualified physician who has examined the patient and is familiar with her previous medical history. Furthermore, to give (or accept) any drugs prescribed for another is a foolish and dangerous practice.

AN R.N.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is to the 12-year-old "Nowhere Girl" whose mother wouldn't let her wear make-up, the kind of clothes she wanted, or her hair the way she wanted to:

Kid, if I were you, I'd get down on my hands and knees and thank God for such a mother. If you think it's fun to do what you please, you've got another thought coming. It isn't what it's cut up to be. At 13, my mother never cared what I did or what I looked like. And where did it get me? At 18 I am married, divorced and have two small babies. I am living in a dump and have nothing but a hot, dirty office to look forward to each day.

Be thankful you have a mother with more sense than I had.

OLD AT 18

Always Look Ageless

To get an ageless look, you must first make all the little age lines in your facial skin so inconspicuous they won't be seen by people at greeting distance from you. Or, better yet, get rid of them altogether. Ask your favorite cosmetician for a bottle of 2nd Debut, the lotion that women everywhere are calling their secret face lift. This lotion contains CEF (Cellular Expansion Factor) that expands underneath lines to push them upward so they level with the skin's surface and thereby become invisible. This smoothed-out appearance of the skin gives the face an ageless look that favors its wearer with an almost unlimited variety in her choice of clothes.

WHY GROW OLD?

Hair Needs More Care After Summer Conditions

It is time to begin reconditioning for fall. I wrote yesterday about how to dim suntan and freckles. Once summer is over many women wish to return to their natural coloring.

Lowman

This column is to remind you that if you have been an outdoor gal much this summer your poor topknot can use some help, too. Over exposure to the sun can cause dry, brittle, or discolored hair, or all three.

At the beginning of the summer perhaps you planned to wear a scarf over your head or a wide-brimmed hat when you were going to be out in the hot sunshine for quite a while, but soon became careless about it.

Also, the chlorinated water of pools and salt water will eventually cause the hair to be brittle and dry. This kind of water and too much sun can also discolor the hair. It is always a good idea to rinse your hair after swimming in salt water or pool water.

What to do now? From here on in, adopt the preventative measures mentioned above. Also, have only cream shampoos and rinses. Give your hair a few hot oil treatments. Also, use one of the pomades for dry hair. This will help you with grooming.

Besides that, you will just have to give the condition time to correct itself. Fortunately, only the hair shaft, or the dead part of the hair, has been damaged. The follicle beneath the skin has not been injured.

Exercise is beneficial to the hair as well as to the rest of the body. Brushing the hair with an upward sweep of the bristles stirs up circulation in the scalp. So does massage.

To step up circulation even more, lie on a slanting board (head at low end) as you massage your scalp. You can use your ironing board if you wish. Just place one end on a low stool, or seat of a low chair.

Most of you know how to massage your head. Spread your fingers and rotate your hands. In other words, your scalp should move, not your hands. Change the position of your hands until you have massaged your entire scalp.

Josephine Lowman gives you helpful information on hair care in her free leaflet "Stars in Your Crown." To obtain your copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Eunice Farmer Takes Look At Latest Fall Fashions

FEATURE FEMININE LOOK IN DESIGNERS' COLLECTIONS.

In answer to all of you who depend on me to tell you about the latest fashions for fall, I shall begin this week since I have seen the fall collections of the top American designers in New York.

Today, I must generalize by mentioning the highlights. There is a great return to the softer, more feminine look as witnessed by the silk crepes, satins, velvets, fur trims, feathers and beads.

The length that is generally accepted is just above the knee or about the centre of the knee which is probably where most of us have been wearing the skirts this past year. A few midi-length skirts did crop up into the picture, but it is definitely for the young, tall, slender gal who will do justice to it by making it a complete look with the right boots or shoes as well as all of the other accessories.

Yes, there is a return to more fitted clothes but don't panic and call the Goodwill yet! We can salvage many of last year's dresses by fitting them in a little closer and adding a belt. A decorative sleeveless vest is a very important accessory and can change the mood of any dress already in your wardrobe. As the weeks go by, I shall tell you about the techniques needed when working with new fabrics to achieve the new look of 1968. It would be a good idea to plan your entire wardrobe needs before buying anything to get the maximum co-ordination.

U.S. Keeps Close Watch on Soviet Fishing

By BILL MERTENA

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — State fisheries experts, who have joined the cold war game of Soviet watching with the appearance in the northwest of a vast Russian fishing effort, say the operation has become more sophisticated over the years.

Washington State first started serious surveillance efforts in 1967 after the first Russian fishing vessels, mostly smaller craft, appeared.

Now, after nearly a dozen surveillance flights in cooperation with those of federal agencies, they say the ships are fewer, but bigger and probably more efficient.

A six-hour flight by fisheries biologists Gene Didonato and Nick Pasquale last week was probably typical.

The plane had dodged under the rain-filled clouds over Cape Flattery no more than 15 minutes before the first Soviet trawler was sighted, the 280-foot Pechanga.

She was pulling her vast nets behind, wallowing slowly. Only one or two crewmen were visible. They watched the plane with little interest.

It was the third such fisheries flight this summer, and by now they may recognize the blue and white plane as a regular visitor.

Didonato and Pasquale recorded the ship's position, activity, name and number for later charting, and the plane flew off in search of the rest of the fleet.

There were 21 ships in all, 19 of them huge 2,500-ton ocean-going sterntrawlers. There was one small 80-foot side trawler and one tender-type ship to which two of the trawlers were tied up. Most of them were concentrated off Destruction Island.

"The ships are the same ones that have been here since this spring," said Pasquale. "We plot their positions and note what they're doing. It helps give us an idea of what they're fishing for and their catches." The fleet probably will leave about November.

The entire character of the Soviet fishing operations in the Pacific Northwest has changed since its beginnings, Pasquale said.

"When they first showed up they mainly used sidetrawlers —small craft about 80 feet long—and the catch had to be transferred to larger ships for processing. They had had a lot more ships off the coast, as a result.

"That made it a lot easier for us to keep tabs on their catch, because we could see what was being emptied out of the nets."

This year, there are fewer vessels, but they are the bigger sterntrawlers. They pull their fishing gear behind them, literally plowing the sea, and the catch is pulled up by machinery through a ramp cut in to the back of the ship down to the waterline.

One of the ships had just retrieved its nets when the patrol plane flew over. Pasquale and Didonato said the catch was probably hake, judging from the air.

"When they first appeared, our territorial limits went out only three miles, and there were clashes between them and American fishermen," Pasquale said. "Now that the limit is 12 miles, there's not so much contact."

The fisheries experts are pretty sure the Russians are mainly after hake, an unattractive, flabby bottomfish, and ocean perch or rockfish. They say they have no evidence they fish actively for salmon.

The Soviet effort has cut heavily into the American fishing for hake. This year there is no significant commercial fishing for hake, largely on account of Soviet fishing.

"They catch it and freeze it and use it as a food fish," the biologists said. "Our people use it mainly for protein concentrate and it goes mostly to animals."

STRIPPED from the side of the Liberian freighter Rose S., these twisted steel plates show the result of an August 10 collision in dense fog 17 miles east of Cape Flattery. The ship sustained a deep gouge in her side following the mishap with the American vessel Sea Train Washington. The Rose S. limped from the accident point to Port Angeles, where she unloaded a cargo of logs, then on to Victoria for repairs. Battered plates have been cut from the vessel's starboard side and lifted clear by the giant crane in the picture.

Car Bombing Ends Casino Control Feud

ZEPHYR COVE, Nev. (AP) — A casino owner once involved in stockholder struggles over control of Lake Tahoe gambling houses was killed Tuesday when a bomb exploded in his automobile in front of his house.

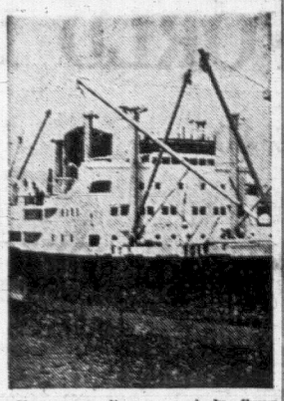

The body of Richard Chartrand, 42, was behind the wheel of his luxury car, torn to pieces by the blast.

The explosion littered the lawns of Chartrand's expensive home and others set among tall pine trees along the south shore of the Sierra Lake. A hole was torn in the street.

Sheriff George Byers of Douglas County said the bomb was under the floorboard.

Chairman Frank Johnson of the Nevada Gaming Control Board, who lives across the street and heard "the tremendously loud blast," said Chartrand has been involved in corporate disputes in the gaming industry.

'Only Certain Customers Received Big Money Leaks'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has levelled fraud charges against Wall Street's biggest securities firm on grounds that it leaked a big-money secret only to certain major investors.

The regulatory agency set no date Tuesday when it announced hearings would be held on charges by its staff against the country's biggest and best known broker-dealer, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith.

Nine officers and five salesmen of the firm, as well as 15 institutional investors—the alleged receivers of the hot tip from Merrill Lynch—also were called on the carpet.

The investors included the Madison Fund and Dreyfus Corp., top mutual funds.

"We are convinced that none of our people acted wrongfully and you can be sure we will defend our position vigorously," Merrill Lynch said in a statement issued in New York.

John Haire, chairman of Anchor Corp., into which Investors Management Co., one of the cited firms, was consolidated recently, said:

"To the best of our knowledge, we did not receive any non-public information regarding Douglas Aircraft from Merrill Lynch which was not available to us from other sources."

The SEC said Merrill Lynch was helping Douglas Aircraft Co. prepare a bond issue when it learned the big plane builder's earnings, contrary to earlier optimistic reports, were in bad shape.

The SEC version of what followed is that this word passed through the Merrill Lynch personnel to a chosen few investors and that immediately thereafter these began to sell off their holdings in Douglas in the expectation that its value was about to drop.

Meanwhile, the regulatory agency said, other Douglas shareowners were left in the dark—indeed, Merrill Lynch continued to sell Douglas to anyone who wanted to buy, the SEC said.

The dumping lasted half a week—until June 24, when Douglas publicly announced it might be faced with a no-profit year.

During the unloading, the SEC said, the large investors it has cited cleared their portfolios of 190,000 shares of the unwanted stock. An informed source said these shares sold for some $4,500,000 more than they would have brought if traded at the price that prevailed June 29.

To reward Merrill Lynch for sharing the secret with them, the SEC said, the favored customers, when making subsequent large transactions with other firms, would direct that the commissions be split, part going to Merrill Lynch.

If the SEC's allegations are upheld, Merrill Lynch could face revocation of its brokerage registration (its licence to do business), suspension of its registration, censure or limitation of certain portions of its business for specified periods of time.

The firm has 15 days in which to respond. The commission will appoint a hearing examiner who will later issue a decision which Merrill Lunch could appeal to the full commission. The full commission's ruling could in turn be appealed to a federal appellate court.

CHAN-TV Buys Station in Kelowna

OTTAWA (CP) — Sale of 10,002 shares of Okanagan Valley Television Co. Ltd., operator of CHBC-TV Kelowna, B.C., to operators of Vancouver station CHAN-TV was approved Tuesday by the Canadian Radio Television Commission.

The shares, being relinquished by Roy G. Chapman and Mrs. A. M. Chapman of the Kelowna company, represent about a one-third interest in CHBC-TV.

The shares go to British Columbia Broadcasting System Ltd., operator of CHAN-TV.

Permission of the transfer was sought at a public hearing of the CRTC in April.

FACTORS CONSIDERED

The CRTC announcement said points concerning local ownership of the Kelowna station were considered in arriving at the decision.

These included the balance between shareholders from the community and those from outside, the balance of the board of directors between those from the community served by the station and those from outside, the capacity of the changed management to understand and meet the needs of the community, and the extent of ownership of other enterprises that might influence the performance of the station.

The CRTC said it also had to recognize the need for "adequate economic resources in the natural development and expansion of broadcasting."

It had approved the application because the transfer "is directly related to a normal need for expansion and improvement of general broadcasting service."

The CRTC was also assured "of the continued capacity of local participation as a safeguard for community interests."

Under the new ownership, Mr. Chapman and J. R. Peters will each hold one share to qualify them as directors in the Kelowna station.

GREEN BERETS CZECH AIDS SAY SOVIETS

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Soviet newspaper charged today that specially-trained crack Green Beret American troops were infiltrated into Czechoslovakia recently in the guise of tourists.

An article in the weekly Literary Gazette said the troops received special training under the command of high-ranking American and West German officers.

It implied that one of their tasks had been to set up the underground radio stations which have been operating in Czechoslovakia since the Soviets and their allies invaded a week ago.

The Volvo seat was designed by doctors for fast, effective relief of nagging backache.

Equal Status Ordered

OTTAWA (CP) — Bilingual proficiency, or willingness to acquire it, will be required for appointment to the external affairs department by 1970 and for promotion within the department by about 1975, External Affairs Minister Sharp said Monday.

He made the statement at a language seminar for officers of his department.

Canadian foreign policy "must be based upon equal status" for the French and English languages in all operations of the department, Mr. Sharp said.

Canada must make a special effort to increase relations with French-speaking countries of Europe, Asia and Africa.

U.S. Repulses Viet Attack On Tay Ninh

SAIGON (Reuters) — North Vietnamese troops Tusday attacked a U.S. artillery base near the temple city of Tay Ninh after pouring in 200 rocket and mortar shells.

U.S. troops immediately called in helicopter gunships and artillery support and after a 2½ hour battle the North Vietnamese withdrew, a military spokesman said.

He said 27 North Vietnamese were killed in the battle three miles east of Tay Ninh. American casualties were light, he added.

U.S. headquarters estimates 7,500 insurgents slain in the intensified Viet Cong assaults of the last nine days, and the Communist command appeared to be shifting to less costly rocket and mortar attacks.

The southern allied command reported heavy barrages at camps and towns from the demilitarized zone south to the Mekong Delta.

In addition to the 200-shell barrage at Fire Base Rawlins, about 50 miles northwest of Saigon, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners raked four other posts along the infiltration route northwest of the city. Two of the camps were hit by light infantry assaults.

Shellings were reported at a dozen South Vietnamese and American camps in the Mekong Delta and in the Duc Lap area where more than 800 Communists died attempting to overrun a U.S. Special Forces camp over the weekend.

Viet Cong gunners in the Duc Lap area also shot down a twin-engined Caribou transport plane Monday, and a ground patrol that reached the wreckage found three Americans dead.

It's Goodbye Piccadilly

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Londoners may joke about selling off bits of their city to the rich Yanks, but if civic planners get their way, there won't be much left of the old London anyway by the 21st century.

The latest in a long line of proposals to remodel Piccadilly Circus would not only prove a case of "goodbye Piccadilly, farewell Leicester Square"—it could also spell the end of great tracts of the familiar West End from Oxford Circus to Covent Garden and southward to Trafalgar Square and Whitehall.

Frank West, Westminster city architect, is a man with a dream—or nightmare, depending on your viewpoint. He wants to rebuild the heart of the capital in space-age style.

●

His Piccadilly Circus plan, sixth attempt since 1958 to modernize the cluttered Victorian hub of the West End, would turn the famous old Circus into a futuristic dazzle of pyramids, cubes and pencil tower, like something out of Expo 67.

And this would only be the start of a grand design to remodel the whole of the West End on a two-tier principle, with glass-roofed streets for pedestrians at first-storey level and the traffic imprisoned below.

Unlike previous Picadilly plans, all of which were jettisoned almost as soon s they left the drawing board, this one is being thrown open to public opinion before giving the green light to developers who own the north, south and east sites around the circus.

●

A scale model on view in the 1878 Criterion building—itself scheduled for demolition under the plan—drew initially favorable remarks from visitors, but comment took a more acid turn after an architect publicly condemned the scheme as a "tragedy of misplaced effort."

If approved, the $104,000,000 project could be built by 1976, but controversy is bound to bubble over West's revolutionary concept. As cynics are saying, somebody is probably already getting busy on yet another Piccadilly blueprint to replace it.

In West's design, the as Eros would be resited 26 feet above ground and slightly east of its present position on a pedestrian deck running round three sides of the Circus. The platform, open to the well of traffic on the west, would be supported by a giant steel stalk and arching, umbrella-like ribs.

●

The ornate Victorian building now housing the Criterion theatre and restaurant would be replaced by a slim, 30-storey tower clad in bronze glass. Most startling of all, the new Longon Pavilion cinema would be a glassy pyramid covered in animated advertisements. Behind it would loom a larger, inverted pyramid shape housing a new hotel on the old Trocadero site.

Until the Crown leases expire about 1990, the new development would leave unscathed the elegant ensemble of buildings on the west side of the Circus forming the entrance to Regent Street and known as the Quadrant.

Eventually, however, they would be sacrificed to the modernistic two-tier Regent Street, linked to the pedestrian deck of the Circus.

Is a new Piccadilly necessary, anyway?

●

Ian Nairn, writing in The Observer, calls the whole multi-level concept "a colossal waste of time" in the context of the West End. The Piccadilly plan, he says, ignores the basic fact that the Circus is a natural hub drawing all the different strands of London into a single vortex. This what creates its excitement.

Commenting that London's traffic always expands just short of saturation point in any given space, Nairn says it will never move much more quickly than it does today. He recommends preserving the buildings and restoring traffic to ite old routes swirling around Eros, at present fenced off by one-way barriers.

●

"If the present . . . administrators want to make their mark, let them do so in a part of London that really needs it," Nairn concludes.

"But hands off today's Piccadilly Circus, which with very little alteration would work perfectly."

Destroyer Escort Boosts Firepower

HALIFAX (CP) — Maritime Command, Canada's foremost anti-submarine unit, is increasing its firepower and detection capability with the refit of the destroyer escort Terra Nova.

The conversion, which began in September, 1967, includes equipping the Restigouche-class warship with new electrical apparatus, anti-submarine weapons and detection equipment, including the most modern sonar systems.

When she leave the naval dockyard here this fall, the Restigouche will be 15 feet longer than her sister ships and her stern will be altered to accommodate the variable depth sonar, making her more effective in detecting submarines operating at greater depths.

The Terra Nova, although primarily an anti-submarine warship, will be a formidable foe to aerial invaders following the conversion with new equipment which is applicable to surface-to-air warfare.

The new anti-submarine rocket Asroc, being installed aft, is generated by a modern digital computer which receives its information from the sonar.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, and also for the beautiful floral offerings.—Mrs. Anna De Girolamo, Michele, Andre and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

EADE—In loving memory of my dear husband, George Eade, who passed away August 24, 1963. Also loving father of Edwin Eade and grandsons, Tom Eade, George Eade and Larry Eade.
Five years have passed,
Since you left me,
Lonelier each one,
But your memory
And what you suffered
Is with me always.
—Your loving wife, Ena.

TOYOTA COROLLA

"THE CLEANEST ECONOMY CAR EVER TO COME FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE OCEAN!

Who wants an economy car that won't get out of its own way and is left behind on the hills. The TOYOTA COROLLA has more power, a higher top speed and better acceleration than any other car in the 1100 cc class. And it still gets better than 40 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

SECLUDED
CHARMING
QUAINT

Many years ago there was a man who wanted to build something different. The only way that he could satisfy this urge was by building a house that is different and that is how it happened that this house was built.
A garden lover, he designed a towering glass penthouse that one enters from a spiral stairway that originates in the centre of the entrance hall. Can you imagine such a thing? Then there is the semi-circular living room and the little artist's studio with en suite plumbing.
Definitely not suitable for a conformist. But if you are a real individualist, then call Don Bacon, 385-2458. Price $38,900.

MAGNIFICENT SEA AND MOUNTAIN VIEWS
OAK BAY

This home stands on high rocky ground near Gonzales Observatory. The accommodation is on several levels but one does not have to be an Alpinist to enjoy the house. The living room (with large open fireplace), dining room, master bedroom and two other bedrooms all enjoy breathtaking sea and mountain views. Two full bathrooms, utility room, childrens playroom and a fourth (but very small) bedroom.
This home is on a quiet cul-de-sac in a very high and healthy location in one of our choice residential areas.

PETITION FOR DIVORCE

NOTICE TO: George Kent Cory

THIS IS A PETITION FOR DIVORCE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. If you wish to oppose the Petition or if you wish other relief, you must within twenty days after service on you of the Petition, inclusive of the day of service, cause your answer (or answer and counter-petition) to be filed in the registry of this Court at Victoria, British Columbia, and cause a copy thereof to be served upon the petitioner.
2. If your answer fails to give an address for service within ten miles of the registry, further documents will be served upon you by registered mail.
3. In default of answer within the time prescribed above, then fifteen days thereafter the petitioner may proceed, you will not be entitled to further notice, and a divorce and other relief may be given in your absence.
4. You may ascertain the approximate date of the hearing, and the date and details of any decree, from this registry.
5. If not made final at the hearing, a decree may be made final after the expiration of the time provided therein unless in the meantime you deliver to the undersigned, to the petitioner and to the Attorney-General, a written Notice that you wish to show cause why the decree should not become final and the grounds therefor.
6. Neither spouse will be free to remarry as a result of these proceedings until a decree of divorce has been granted and the decree has been made final.

DATED at Victoria, British Columbia, this 13th day of August, A.D., 1968.
B. J. B. MORAHAN
REGISTRAR
LAW COURTS
850 Burdett Avenue
Victoria, B.C.

PETITION TO THIS HONOURABLE COURT:

I hereby petition for a decree of divorce from the Respondent spouse on the grounds and in the circumstances following:

1. Grounds
A. My Petition is under the Divorce Act of Canada, Section 4, Subsection 1 (c) and Section 4, Subsection (1) (e) (ii).
B. The particulars of my grounds for divorce are:
(i) That my marriage suffered a permanent breakdown because of my husband's excessive drinking and assaults upon me. As a result of his conduct I left him on two occasions between May 7, 1954, and February, 1955, for approximately two weeks each time, and I finally left him permanently in February, 1955, and have not lived with him since that time.
(ii) That I have not seen or heard from my said husband since February, 1955, and I have no knowledge of his present whereabouts.

2. Reconciliation
A. The particulars of the circumstances which may assist the Court in ascertaining whether there is a possibility of reconciliation or resumption of cohabitation are: That I have been separated from my husband for thirteen years and have no desire for reconciliation with him.

3. Particulars of Marriage
A. Date of marriage: May 7, 1954.
B. Place of marriage: Victoria, B.C.
C. Surname of wife before marriage: Dickinson.
D. Maiden surname of wife: Dickinson.
E. Marital status of spouses at time of marriage: wife: spinster; husband: divorced.

4. Domicil and Jurisdiction
A. My residence is 730 Humboldt Street, Victoria, B.C.
B. My spouse's residence is unknown.
C. I ceased to co-habit with my spouse on or about February, 1955.
D. My domicil is British Columbia.
E. This domicil has subsisted since 1919.
F. My place of birth was Victoria, British Columbia, on October 18, 1919.
G. I have been ordinarily resident in British Columbia since birth and actually resided in the province for all of that period at Victoria, British Columbia.
H. My spouse's place of birth was Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, in 1918.

5. Age and Disability
A. That none of the parties or persons named in the Petition is under 21 years of age.
B. That none of the parties or persons named in the Petition is suffering any other legal disability.

6. Children
A. The names and dates of birth of all living children of the marriage as defined by the Divorce Act of Canada are: Nil.

7. Other Proceedings
A. The particulars and status of all other petitions or proceedings instituted with reference to the marriage or any child thereof, including applications to the Parliament of Canada or actions for alimony or applications under any statute are: Nil.

8. Separation Agreements and Financial Arrangements
A. The dates of any written or oral separation or financial agreements between the parties are: Nil.

9. Collusion, Condonation and Connivance
A. There has been no collusion in relation to this Petition.

10. Relief Asked
I therefore ask this Honourable Court for the following relief:
A. A decree that I shall be divorced from the respondent, George Kent Cory.
B. Such other and further relief as to this Honourable Court may seem meet.

DATED at Victoria, in the Province of British Columbia, this 12th day of August, A.D. 1968.
MARGARET CORY
730 Humboldt Street
Victoria, B.C.

It is proposed that this Petition shall be set down for trial at the Law Courts, 850 Burdett Avenue, in the City of Victoria, Province of British Columbia. The Petitioner's address for service is: Clay & Company, 730 Courtney Street, Victoria, B.C.

STATEMENT OF SOLICITOR

I, James Allan Bond, the solicitor for Margaret Cory, the Petitioner herein, certify to this Court that I have complied with the requirements of Section 7 of the Divorce Act of Canada.

Cautious Optimism Expressed for Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors, maintaining their cautiously optimistic tone, reported today that former president Dwight D. Eisenhower had shown "some further decrease" in heart irritability since Tuesday.

They also said he is "enjoying light background music" in his room at Walter Reed Army Hospital where he still is battling against his seventh heart attack.

The text of a 10:30 a.m. EDT medical bulletin:

"Gen. Eisenhower has spent another comfortable night. There has been some further decrease in cardiac irritability since yesterday's bulletins.

"Gen. Eisenhower's spirits remain good and he has been tnjoying light background music at intervals through the last 24 hours.

"Mrs. Eisenhower continues to visit the general for short periods frequently."

Tuesday, the doctors had expressed "cautious optimism" about the general's chances of surviving his current attack but they stressed at that time that his condition was still critical and that a recent favorable trend they had noted in his condition "is capable of reversing at any time."

were paid for a house it would be rented for $500 a year. We think that is about as reasonable as we can get."

Once the house is owned by the city the city becomes the landlord.

During the past year the repair bill alone within the Rose-Blanshard scheme has totalled $3,500.

And why the big push now to expropriate the seven remaining properties on the Blanshard School site?

"It is a step we take with great reluctance," answers Mr. Hooson. "We have avoided it for as long as we could in the hopes that amicable settlements could be reached. But now, with the school due to open to replace the old North Ward School in September, we need the property for a playing area.

"We just can't wait any longer if things are to move forward in an orderly way."

Can the property owners fight expropriation?

The answer to that is a flat, arbitrary "

Seattle Tests Cut Time Spent in Hospital Beds

MONTREAL (CP- — Dramatic shortening of time in hospital and big savings in hospital care costs can be achieved with properly planned home care programs.

Evidence of this was presented today to the international congress of physical medicine by Dr. D. C. Symington, head of the department of rehabilitation medicine at Queen's University.

Reporting on a Seattle study made shortly before he took up his Canadian post, Dr. Symington said the lessons learned could be applied to provide humanitarian, economic and efficient care even in smaller city hospitals.

The Seattle study involved hip fracture patients among aged indigents of Seattle's King County Hospital. The extensive home care program was broad enough to cover meals on wheels twice daily to patients at home, straight from the hospital kitchens.

Some of the results:

—Nearly one-third of the patients could be care for at home with the special home care facilities in an average of 15.1 days after their broken hip set. Their recovery was slightly better than a control group kept in the hospital.

—Average hospital stay for all 463 hip fracture cases was reduced to 58 days from the usual 151 days, representing a freeing of 93 beds a day at that hospital which treats a high incidence of such cases.

—The saving in opening so many beds year-round amounted to $941,000 against a cost of the rehabilitation home care program of $250,000.

Patients were initially hesitant about agreeing to participate but after the study was completed not one had serious objection. The fact that they recovered faster and with slightly fewer complications than those treated in hospital was attributed to more individual care at home.

Dr. Symington says he believes that with extensive and well-planned home care Canadian hospitals could send home up to 70 or 80 per cent of hip fracture cases.

'My Election A Tribute To Laity'

By DAVID DAVIDSON

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The United Church of Canada has taken an unprecedented step and elected a layman as a chief executive officer.

Dr. Robert Baird McClure of Toronto was named moderator Tuesday night as the church's general council concluded the first day of a nine-day meeting.

The 68-year-old medical missionary, on retirement leave from India, was elected on the fourth ballot to succeed Rt. Rev. Wilfred C. Lockhart of Winnipeg who had completed a two-year term.

The new moderator, the first layman to hold the post since the church came into being in 1925, told reporters he saw his election as "perhaps a tribute" to the church's laity.

McLURE
. . . heads United Church

He told a news conference the most important challenge of the church in the West is to meet peoples' needs rather than just talk about them.

Dr. McClure was born in Portland, Ore., where his mother was a refugee from the Boxer Rebellion in China. He grew up in northern China where his father also was a medical missionary.

FAVORS UNITY

As well as working as a missionary in India, Dr. McClure was a medical missionary in China where he says he came to favor Christian unity strongly.

He said he has "some disagreement" with Pope Paul's recent encyclical banning birth control by artificial means.

Family planning programs at 212 hospitals in India were organized under his guidance and Dr. McClure said he has sterilized 2,000 men and women.

He described the population explosion as a major problem facing mankind.

Dr. McClure was chosen over Rev. M. Bruce McLeod, minister of Westdale United Church, Hamilton.

Three other candidates were eliminated in earlier ballots.

Rev. A. J. Davidson, minister of Sydenham Street United Church here, dropped out after the first ballot; Rev. Randolph C. Chalmers, professor of systematic theology at Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, was eliminated on the second ballot; and Rev. W. S. Taylor, principal of Union Theological College at the University of British Columbia, dropped after the third ballot.

Formal sessions of the council began after a morning communion service attended by most of the 400 commissioners to the meetings.

The council met briefly in plenary session, but later resolved into sessional meetings which were closed to reporters.

In an address before the election of his successor, Dr. Lockhart called for a review of the moderator's role. He said the method of electing him and the manner in which he functions are outmoded.

The moderator now is elected for a two-year term at the biennial meeting of general council and although he is the church's titular head, he still retains his pastorate or a secular job.

Dr. Lockhart said the council should consider choosing a moderator-designate by mailed ballot a year after it sits formally. He then could assume office a year later when the council again convenes.

The council today was to consider several reports, including one from the general commission on union with the Anglican Church of Canada and another from a commission on the ministry in the 20th century.

Group Asks Longer Terms For Sellers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Narcotics Addiction Foundation of B.C. called Tuesday for longer prison sentences for traffickers and treatment programs for addicts.

The foundation said in a report:

"A complete review of legislation and treatment approaches is long overdue if sensible and effective control, treatment, rehabilitation and educational programs are to be achieved."

The report recommends mandatory prison terms from 10 to 14 years for traffickers or distributors of opiates, but says users should not be penalized for their addiction.

It proposes a six-month period during which addicts could register and place themselves under treatment. Those who abused the treatment or failed to register would be liable to imprisonment.

The foundation report says the most hopeful approach to solving the drug problem is preventive education.

Vote Dissolves Air Tieup Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada maintained uninterrupted service Tuesday and early today when a threatened strike by its pilots dissolved with ratification of a new 27-month contract.

The company's 1,122 pilots—who under the terms of their former contract earn between $6,600 and $28,000 annually—voted by a "substantial majority" to accept the agreement worked out last week.

Terms of the new contract, retroactive to July 1 with a rider that the new pay scales only will be retroactive to April 1 when the former contract expired, will give the pilots a 10-per-cent increase immediately and a further seven per cent after 15 months.

The pilots originally had asked for a 21-per-cent boost.

Air Canada officials, expressing pleasure at settling the dispute without a strike, said the new contract would add $6,700,000 in wages to its existing $15,000,000 annual pay bill.

The counting of ballots here Tuesday would have been followed by a 2 a.m. strike today had the vote not ratified the pact.

DIDN'T GIVE FIGURES

Cleve Kidd, executive vice-president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, did not disclose the figures in the vote beyond announcing a "substantial majority" had expressed themselves in favor of the latest offer.

Mr. Kidd sent telegrams Tuesday night to regional union councils in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver announcing ratification and that the "agreement will be signed as soon as amendments to the contract have been completed."

Grape Growers Gain As Boycott Falters

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — Pressure on the California table-grape industry continued to mount this week, but growers have gained some significant victories in their efforts to break a nationwide boycott of their produce.

With the harvesting of the grapes in the San Joaquin Valley in full swing, Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers organizing committee has announced plans to step up boycott efforts.

But the union suffered a setback in Los Angeles Monday when a spokesman said markets in Southern California will continue to sell grapes.

The union demanded last week that markets take grapes from display shelves and said stores would be picketed if they failed to do so.

GROWER VICTORY

Another grower victory was achieved last week when four New York trade unions agreed not to engage in a secondary boycott of California grapes.

The agreement grew out of an unfair-labor-practice complaint filed by Guimarra Vineyards of Delano, Calif., principal target of the union's organizing drive. Guimarra agreed to drop its complaint if the unions comply with the agreement.

Plans to extend the boycott to Canada were dampened Monday when Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell told local union heads he saw no reason for the boycott.

Campbell, who toured central California vineyards last week and talked to union and grower representatives, said he found field workers receive good pay and that work and living conditions are good. Campbell declined, however, to take an official stand on the boycott.

LOSE SUPPORT

Chavez also has lost some of his church backing. The San Joaquin presbytery of the Presbyterian Church and the San Joaquin Valley Baptist Association have expressed disapproval of the Northern California Council of Churches' support of the boycott.

And many businesses have withdrawn ads from the Central California Register, the official newspaper of the Fresno diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, which has indicated it supports Chavez.

The union, which called the boycott in an effort to force growers to recognize it as bargaining agent for grape pickers, has powerful support in the Democratic party.

Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, rivals for the party's presidential nomination in Chicago this week, have issued statements endorsing the boycott.

The Republican presidential candidate, Richard Nixon, has not taken a stand on the issue.

Eleven congressmen, all Democrats, have urged the justice department to end what they call the use of alien strikebreakers.

Chavez has charged that California growers have imported large numbers of Mexican nationals to work in vineyards. Those charges have been denied by the growers, who say they are having no trouble harvesting the crop or finding markets for it.

Surplus Water Worth 'Billions'

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — Dr. Arleigh Laycock of the University of Alberta's geography department said Tuesday that if 10 per cent of Canada's surplus water was exported to the United States, it would mean $8,000,000,000 a year to Canada.

The $8,000,000,000 received from surplus water would be 10 times the average wheat sales in Canada in the last decade, he said. "The prospects are exciting."

Laycock said that by the year 2000, Canada will still be using only 2 per cent of its water supply, and export sales might well be warranted for the surplus. But many studies are needed and there is insufficient information on which to base them at present, he said.

Marriages Set Mark

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 165,879 marriages in Canada last year, a record, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

There were increases in each of the 10 provinces.

Parties Seek Aid In Research

By Carman Cumming

OTTAWA (CP) — With the opening of Parliament a little more than two weeks off, Opposition parties still are awaiting word from the government on how much more research help they can expect.

Prime Minister Trudeau announced July 5 plans to open talks with the opposition parties on how the government could help them with staff and organization.

Since then the cabinet minister responsible, Privy Council President Donald S. Macdonald, has listened to opposition views on the question but apparently has not given the other parties any clue on what they can expect.

Conservative Leader Stanfield accused the government two weeks ago of dragging its feet on the question. Party whip Thomas M. Bell said this week that the Conservatives haven't seen "any real action" on it yet.

The New Democratic parliamentary leader, David Lewis, says he has discussed the proposed expansion with both Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Trudeau but doesn't know yet what is in store.

Mr. Lewis declined to associate himself with Mr. Stanfield's criticism, however. He said he has no way of knowing the basis for Mr. Stanfield's charge and also no way of knowing what priority the government is placing on the program.

He said he will be content if the government produces its plan around the time of the session opening, on Thursday, Sept. 12.

MADE SUGGESTION

Mr. Lewis said he suggested one possible approach to Mr. Trudeau when he and Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) met the prime minister recently.

The idea was that the government allocate a certain amount of money to each party, including the government party, based on its total of MPs. The parties themselves would decide how to spend it.

The allocation might be $2,000 for each member—possibly excluding cabinet ministers and parliamentary secretaries — and the program would cost less than $500,000 in all, Mr. Lewis said.

Gerald W. Baldwin, the new Conservative House leader, says he also has discussed his party's needs with Mr. Macdonald, but hasn't made specific requests.

The party is "thinking in terms of several senior people and several research assistants," he says.

He and Mr. Lewis agree that whatever help is provided, it should be hired and controlled by the party.

There already is a 10-member research staff in the Parliamentary Library and some Commons committees have hired expert advisers.

OPPOSITION NOT HAPPY

But opposition members want more. Specifically, they want experts capable of spotting weaknesses in a government bill or appropriation and advising on what should be done about it.

"The opposition is a very fundamental part of the parliamentary system and it simply can't function rapidly and efficiently without this sort of assistance," Mr. Baldwin says.

"When they talk about speeding up Parliament we think: 'Fine, but only on the basis of an opposition armed and equipped with the knowledge to survey and examine government measures and act as the watchdog of the public.' "

Mr. Bell points to the increasing complexity of government programs, the faster pace of society, and the expanding staffs of the prime minister and his cabinet colleagues as justification for expanded research staff.

And with younger MPs coming in, he says: "there's not the experience in Parliament that there used to be."

Two Killed When Camp Buses Crash

REVELSTOKE (CP) — An Edmonton man and his daughter were killed Tuesday when their camper, a converted school bus, was hit by a similar vehicle that swung across the highway while being towed.

Killed were Stanley Moynes, 35, and his five-year-old daughter Marlene.

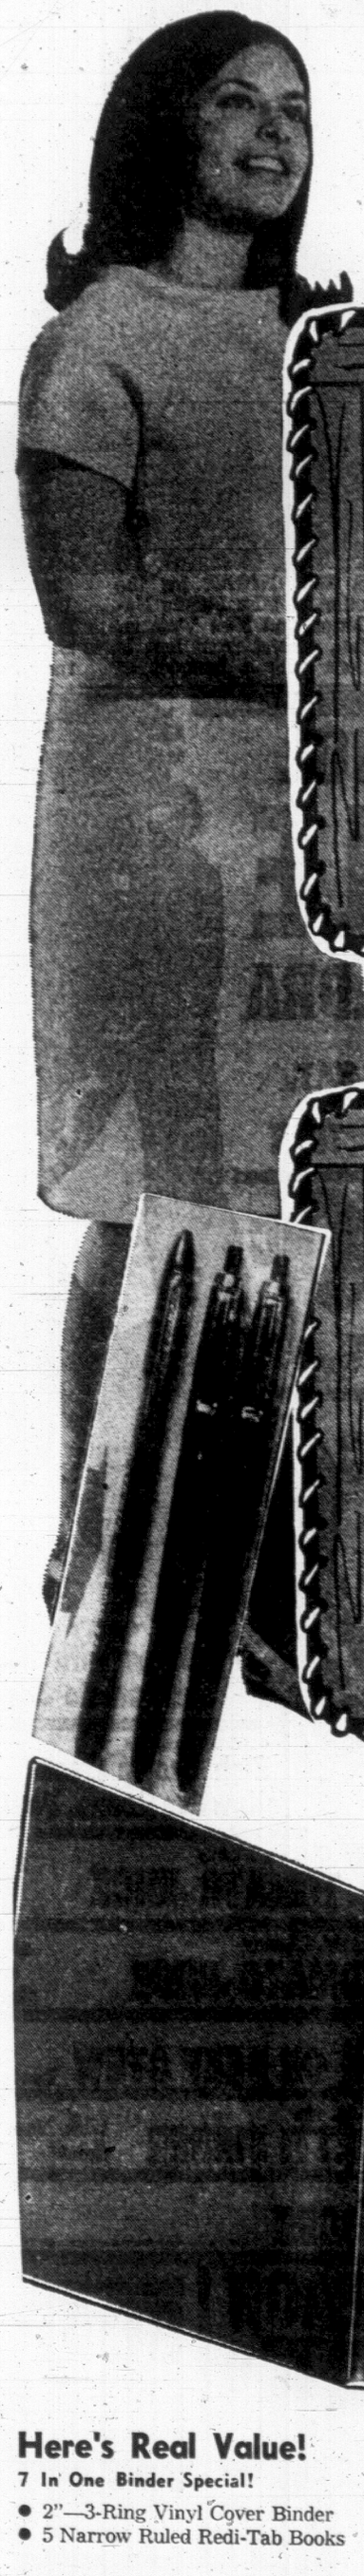

Mrs. Moynes and four other children—Wayne, 11, Debbie, 10, Ronald, 8, and Tommy, 3—were taken to hospital in Revelstoke. All were in good condition Tuesday night.

Police said the Moynes vehicle was travelling east on the Trans-Canada Highway a mile east of here when the other bus-camper being towed by a wrecker in the opposite direction, went out of control.

Story Behind Invasion

By STEPHEN S. ROSENFELD
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia followed intensive consultation in Moscow among the whole Kremlin leadership, and was not an intrigue prepared by second-tier officials and then thrust on the top men as an about-to-be-accomplished fact, U.S. officials said.

Challenging press reports that the big three—Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny—were recalled from vacations only on invasion eve, the sources said they knew that the three—and most others in the 12-man politburo—had returned to Moscow by the weekend of Aug. 17-18. The invasion came the night of Aug. 20.

What apparently happened, the sources suggest, is this:

Brezhnev, to give his policy a collective coloration, took nine other members of the politburo to Cierna. There they and the Czech leadership came to terms—unstable terms, it turned out—on Prague's course. A communique came out Aug. 1.

ACTION APPROVED

Shortly afterwards, the politburo's action was approved in the Soviet press by the politburo. This odd sequence led Kremlin-watchers to wonder if the approval of the central committee—160 men—had not been solicited and denied. The committee includes regional and aparatus officials with power bases of their own; it has shown signs in recent years of developing from rubber stamp to a certain tentative life of its own.

The Cierna compromise soon began to unravel. Some experts look for the reason in Moscow—in, perhaps, a political switch or deal; others look in Prague—in, for instance, the Czechs' ineffective effort to tame their press, a particular burr to the Russians, and in publication of a set of draft party regulations that promised to formalize Czech liberalization in the Communist Party Congress scheduled for September.

In retrospect, the announcement on Aug. 10 of joint command post manoeuvres of the Soviet Union and its hardline East European allies is seen as a crucial step in invasion plans, since these manoeuvres allowed the disposition of those forces which actually intervened.

On Aug. 6 the entire top leadership had gathered to bury Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky in the Kremlin wall. They then dispersed for vacations.

RECEIVED CALLERS

It is known in Washington, however, that for many it was a working vacation, for they received callers who enabled them to follow developments in Czechoslovakia. During this time, it is believed, Hungarian Communist leader Janos Kadar visited Russia, apparently he doubted the wisdom or need of a crackdown and had to be brought around. Just how this fits with reports that, on Aug. 17, he met with Czechoslovak leader Alexander Dubcek is not known.

On Aug. 16, a Friday, the Soviet press resumed its attacks on Czechoslovakia, signalling the end of Cierna's ostensible ban on polemics. Pravda, for instance, detected on Aug. 18 a "notable intensification in Prague of subversive activities by anti-socialist forces aimed at the Czechoslovak Communist party and the foundations of the socialist system."

Brezhnev, Kosygin, Podgorny, ideologist Mikhail Suslov and others had returned to Moscow by Aug. 17-18. There are widespread reports that a weekend meeting on Czechoslovakia took place at the central committee level—but perhaps not involving the full central committee.

IMPOSE BLACKOUT

From Aug. 17 the Soviet press imposed a blackout—not indicative in itself, but "interesting"—on the doings of politburo members. Not until Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda's mission to Moscow was announced on Aug. 23, was the blackout ended.

On Aug. 20, the Soviet Union, with its allies, invaded.

This train of events indicates to officials here that the invasion was a collective misjudgment, not a factional intrigue.

They can only guess at the interplay within the politburo, and particularly between the politburo and central committee, but they suspect it was substantial and they fully expect that a scapegoat will be tossed up—after an interval designed to protect the Kremlin's self-image of unity and infallibility.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDENERS

Good Keepers Ripen Late

By HILDA BEASTALL

Early ripening tree fruits are not good keepers like those ripening later. The rapidity with which some of the early apple varieties grow makes them deliciously juicy, but this same juiciness causes rapid deterioration once maturity is reached.

Hilda

Since the early fruits will not keep, the obvious remedy is to use them in as many different ways as a homemaker can devise.

Being naturally sweet, early apples are at their best eaten raw since no sugar is then required, but it pays in more than that of financial cost to experiment with using as little sugar as possible in preparing applesauce for many uses.

As a relish with meats, as a dressing mixed with sour cream or yogurt for salads, a minimum of sweetener is needed if a little lemon juice is added.

Gardeners with deep freezer units can try freezing their early apples. Some varieties are exceptionally good this way.

Care when picking fruit from the tree is of first importance, since bruised fruits rot quickly.

Fruits which fall are usually either previously damaged by insects or else they are fully matured. Either way, they are always bruised when they fall, even if not noticeably, so they are the ones to use first.

Should you happen to have a variety of apple whose name you do not know, it might be useful to get it named at the Department of Agriculture, Douglas Block, Parliament Buildings, Victoria.

They require two representative fruits, unpolished.

With the name, they will also give a recommended picking date for the current year. All useful, free information.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Dave Pwarnlyik, age 14, of Niagara Falls, Ont., for his question:

What do the rings on the Olympic Games flag symbolize?

The official flag of the Olympic Games is a snow-white banner bearing a simple design of five interlocking circles. There is a top row of three separate rings, one blue and one black and one red. The row below has a yellow and a blue ring. These two circles are arranged to overlap and interlock with the three above. The five Olympic rings represent five major populations — Eurasia, which is combined Europe and Asia, Africa, North America, South America and Australia. The interlocking feature of the elegant design symbolizes links of friendship. That beautiful banner happens to be the one flag that represents the fair and equal bonds of friendship among all mankind.

Naturally, the whole world treats it with the respect it deserves. When the games are in session it flies in the place of honor among the flags of the competing nations. Those who have seen it there never forget it. A person who has witnessed the dramatic pageantry with which it is raised and lowered treasures the memory for always. Here for 10 to 16 days, the bitter woes of the world are displaced. The reigning factor is human athletic prowess. All differences of background are disavowed and athletes from even hostile nations compete with each other in the friendly contests.

The games are governed by a strictly impartial international committee based in Switzerland. The flag and the official motto are its property. The motto is "Citius-Altius-Fortius," meaning "Swifter-Higher-Stronger." The torch that burns through the games was lit at the site where the Greeks held the first Olympic Games, maybe almost 3,000 years ago. The flame is carried by relays of runners, by planes and ships to the stadium of the city selected to host the session. The opening ceremony begins with official greetings between the host and the games committee.

Torch Lit

Then the competing athletes parade into the stadium, wearing their national costumes and bearing their national flags. The Greek athletes head the parade and those of the host country come last. The other countries march in alphabetical order. Nothing could be fairer. Then comes a fanfare of trumpets as the flag of the Olympic Games is slowly hoisted while a flock of white doves is released to add their well-known message to the proceedings. The flame arrives and the Olympic torch is lit. Someone gives a blessing and everybody joins to sing the Olympic hymn. One athlete is selected to speak for all, promising to compete fairly in the true spirit of sportsmanship. The games are ready to begin.

There is a closing ceremony when the noble days of the session are over. The president of the Olympic Games Committee addresses the youth of the whole world. He asks them to display cheerfulness and concord so that the Olympic torch may be carried on with even greater eagerness, courage and honor. There is a final fanfare of trumpets while the flame is extinguished and the noble Olympic flag is slowly lowered from its lofty pole.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Jonathan Nevala, age 14, of Tower, Minnesota, for his question:

Is lightning positive or negative?

Lightning is triggered by opposite charges of positive and negative electricity. The turbulent storm cloud strips electrons from gaseous atoms and molecules, producing fields of electrically charged ions. The negative ions are negatively charged electrons. The shorn atoms and molecules become positive ions. Vast fields of these opposite ions build up a need to restore their normal electrical balance. This driving energy factor is readjusted with a sudden electrical discharge of dynamic proportions — a flash of lightning. As a rule, a flash of lightning is several flashing discharges following each other along the same searing streak across the sky. Many such flashes may be needed to discharge the opposing positive and negative build-ups in different regions of the turbulent storm.

The lightning itself is neither positive nor negative, though it is an electrical discharge triggered by these opposite forces. Its streaking energy is direct current and not the jogging alternating current we use in our power systems. It takes about half an ampere of AC or DC current to run a reading lamp. A lightning flash may discharge a current of 100,000 amperes to slash a gash through the resisting air of a moist cloud and travel as much as 10 miles.

Problems After Ulcer Operation

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

During the 25 years in which I worked in the gastroenterological section of a great clinic, I must have seen hundreds of people with duodenal ulcers. Only rarely did I send one for an operation, because in almost every case, when I made friends with the man, I found his ulcer had come when he was under great mental strain. I had several remarkable cases in which men with tendencies to ulcer told me how they had had a flare-up each time when something had gone terribly wrong in their lives.

Alvarez

I remember one man who said his first bout of ulcer came when the girl he wanted to marry refused him. Later, it came when they got married and had serious difficulties getting adjusted. The next attack came in 1907 when the bottom dropped out of the copper market and my patient lost his job with a copper refinnig company.

Another attack of ulcer came in 1929 when he lost everything in the stock market crash, and another one came later when a big deal he had arranged for fell through. As I have often said whenever I have been able to get a man with ulcer to so handle his affairs as to get mentally comfortable again, nearly always that was the end of his hunger pain.

Another reason why I have never like to see men with ulcers operated on without first a good psychiatric study was that in many a case what was primarily wrong with the man was a nervous depression—due to sorrow, or disaster, great anxiety or often to heredity. Sometimes a woman with an ulcer needed, not an operation, but help in adjusting to her unhappiness following a divorce. I have known a number of such women who were operated on several times for ulcers, the symptoms of which flared up each time when the lady had gotten into a nervous "jam" of some kind. In so many cases, the operation on a neurotic, highly nervous and very discouraged and almost suicidal patient pushed her over the edge into a serious depression.

I was so happy recently to learn that in one of the big U.S. clinics, where 40 years ago all patients with ulcers were supposed to be operated on, today the surgeons will operate on a person with an ulcer only if he or she has complications, such as an obstruction at the outlet of the stomach, a bad perforation of the ulcer with much pain, or a tendency to much bleeding. A while ago I had dinner with the leading surgeon, and he told me he felt exactly as I do about operating on people with ulcers. He now operates only when some complication makes an operation imperative.

I thought of this a some some months ago I received a letter from a friend who told me of having had most of his stomach removed and his vagus nerves cut. Those nerves run from the brain down to the stomach. Nine months after this operation, he still had distressing indigestion, thought to be due to an inflammation in the remnant of his stomach. For this he was hospitalized for a while. Then he was told he had a "postgatrectomy syndrome," which I fear means usually the man has more indigestion and pain after the operation than he had before. Perhaps he should never have been operated on at all.

DANCE GENTLY, the dress is 140 years old. That warning will be kept in mind by Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ruthven, left, of 739 Mount Newton Crossroad, as they pose in garments to be displayed at the Saanichton Fair. Mrs. Ruthven's dress was worn by Mrs. Effie Evans of Bannockburn, possibly at the first Saanichton Fair. Three others modelling gowns from another era are Mrs. Nora Wainscott, Mrs. Gordon Michell and Marilyn Clayard. Meanwhile some other preparations for the fair are less fun—for example Mel Johnson's job touching up the paintwork in the exhibition hall.

Fall Fair Opens 1 p.m. Saturday

Progress through the years will be the keynote of the Saanichton Fair celebrating it's 100th anniversary over the Labor Day weekend.

Special attractions to show the progress of agriculture through the years will include a fully equipped blacksmith shop, thrashers operated by an old steam engine and demonstrations of how butter was made by pioneer farmers.

The fair opens Saturday at 1 p.m., remaining open Sunday except for the Agricultural Building, and all day Monday.

Willard Michell, honorary president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, sponsors of the exhibition, said fair officials have aimed to promote an atmosphere of past and present.

"Each section of agriculture will have a display to show the progress of farming over the past 100 years," he said. "A special prize will be awarded to the best display."

To mark the anniversary a huge birthday cake has been made for cutting and for sale.

A newly-published book on the history of the Saanichton Fair will also be available to visitors.

The program of entertaiment will include a band concert Saturday by the Royal Canadian Navy Band.

Other entertaining groups will perform on Sunday and Monday from a new bandstand erected on the fairgrounds.

Things to see include a wide range of agricultural exhibits, cattle, sheep, goats, rabbits, poultry and fancy birds.

The museum displaying old agriculutral equipment and farm household utensils will be opened for the three days.

On Saturday and Monday there will be 4-H Club competitions.

The horse show, always a feature of the fair, will run for the three days. There will be western and English events, plus a cutting horse competition Saturday evening and Sunday.

Low Approach Alarming When Aircraft Hit Tree

DUNCAN — A Canso water bomber which crashed Aug. 8 killing two pilots was attacking a forest fire at "an alarmingly low level."

This was part of the testimony of witness Cedric Roy Sworder at the inquest here Tuesday evening into the death of Thomas Chapman Swanson, 33, of 6778 Veyaness, Victoria, and his co-pilot Thomas Henry Worley, 47, of 4190 Springridge Crescent, Victoria.

Mr. Sworder said: "Halfway through the Canso's last drop there was a loud explosion and heavy shock wave.

"The end of a wing landed on the side of the road and the rest of the aircraft crossed over the road immediately in front of us about 30 feet above the road."

He said: "As it passed it was vibrating and shredding and then disappeared in smoke.

"STUNNED"

"We stood fairly well stunned and then heard the impact.

"We were at the scene of the crash in 5 minutes but the fire was intense and secondary explosions were still going on."

A logging manager, Mr. Sworder had taken shelter in his car and said one man took off down the logging road as fast as he could go.

Mr. Sworder said: "I've been at a lot of forest fires but this plane was alarmingly low."

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death as a result of the crash and fire and attached blame to no one.

A pathology report by Dr. K. R. Thornton, Victoria, said he was unable to identify the remains or state the cause of death.

LEFT EARLY

Pilot John Anderson Cline of Abbotsford, who was in the accompanying Canso during the firefighting eight miles west of Shawnigan Lake, said they left the scene early because of a serious oil leak.

He said he understood the second Canso was making its 13th run at the fire when it crashed.

Mr. Cline said conditions were ideal although there was one isolated tree which he did not consider an undue hazard.

He said: "This subsequently turned out to be the tree the aircraft struck."

David Keith Johnston, Aldergrove, pilot of the accompanying "bird dog" aircraft, confirmed the few standing trees did not seem to present a hazard.

He said the Canso's last run appeared normal until there was a cloud of dust and pieces of wood flying in the air.

BANKED AWAY

The Canso banked away to the left in normal fashion. Johnston lost sight of it momentarily as he turned away in the opposite direction but then saw "hot flames and a black cloud indicating an oil fire.

"I've never seen anything like it on a drop before.

"They seemed careful and never got too low that I could tell."

Cline testified that 75 to 100 feet was normal height from which to release a water bomber's load.

Mr. Johnston said that although instructions were given by a forest service official aboard the bird dog aircraft all drops were at the individual pilot's discretion.

Constable William Armstrong, RCMP, said a tree at the scene was identified as the one which the left wing of the Canso struck.

ESCAPED WHALE SEEN— HE MAY BE LURED BACK

PENDER HARBOUR (CP)—Skookum Cecil, a four-ton killer whale who broke out of his pen at Pender Harbour Monday was spotted Tuesday.

Sighting renewed hopes of Vancouver Public Aquarium officials that the missing mammal can be lured back into captivity.

Aquarium spokesman Doug Smith said the whale's trainers, aided by several fishermen, were attempting to zero in on Cecil.

Cecil escaped by breaking through the netting which formed his pen, but Mr. Smith said it is now believed the whale got loose accidentally.

"He aways used to rest his head on the side of the netting because of its pillow effect, and we think the net collapsed with the weight," he added.

Pender Harbour is 30 miles northwest of Vancouver.

NANAIMO (CP) — Mayor Frank Ney Tuesday officially opened the Parkade Plaza, Nanaimo's new $300,000 shopping and office complex.

Liquor Store Blues Sung Again By Port Alberni Protestors

PORT ALBERNI — For the second time since Alberni and Port Alberni were amalgamated, city council is protesting the closing of one of the city's two liquor stores by the provincial government.

Mayor Fred Bishop said the protest to the attorney-general's department is an attempt to halt bootlegging.

Dan Connel, secretary of the local labor council, said letters protesting the closing of the store in Alberni were sent when it was first proposed that the city be left with only one outlet.

"But we were just completely ignored."

BENNETT BLOCK?

He said he had little hope of the city being able to move Premier Bennett "on this subject."

Mayor Bishop said shift workers in the city cannot legally purchase liquor after 6 p.m. except on Fridays when the lone store is open until 9 p.m.

Mayor Bishop, saying a copy of the letter should also be sent to MLA Dr. Howard MacDiarmid, said location of the new store, in a shopping centre at the edge of town, had created an unnecessary traffic problem.

Ald. John Williamson said the government set up the store "in the worst possible area from a traffic viewpoint."

"They should at least listen to the views of council on matters of this nature," he said.

26-Pounder Wins Derby

COWICHAN BAY — A local angler came away as top prizewinner when the final fish-off in the Cowichan Bay salmon club spring derby took place Sunday.

David B. Walker of Duncan weighed in a 26 pounds 15 ounce spring to win the $75 first prize.

A total of 46 out of the 50 qualifying anglers took part.

Second prize of $50 went to Bill Sloan of 1397 David Street, Victoria, who caught a 20-pounder.

Mr. Sloan had been top of the ladder during the five-week run of the derby and received an engraved silver tray from club president George Hauk, Mill Bay.

Steve Woloshyn of Cobble Hill won the third prize with a 19-pounds 19 ounce fish.

Hidden weight prizes went to Walter Bell of Mesachie Lake and Andy Bell of Lake Cowichan.

President George Jauk announced plans for the club's coho derby Thanksgiving weekend, Oct. 12 to 14.

Poverty, Fear Grip Maritimes

OTTAWA (CP) — Quotation from a just-issued government report, Life and Poverty in the Martimes, based on a 1965 study by Pierre-Yves Pepin of the University of Montreal:

Kent County, N.B.

"Half of the labor force is on welfare for six months of the year; their yearly incomes do not average $2,000. People cling to the region partly from inertia and fear of the outside world."

"Emigration . . . is the answer of the young to poverty. They will accept a foreign way of life in order to have access to a weekly pay cheque, paid holidays and cars."

"Income comes primarly from fishing; out of about 100 fishermen, 25 will make a living."

". . . in general, people do not take much interest in what is going on outside, and television is only entertainment."

"Due to the large-scale departure of the young parents it may be feared that, within a short time, there will be a marked decrease in the birth rate and an aging of the population. Agriculture and fishing are in the hands of men whose average age is around 40 to 45."

"Taxes are a serious problem for the farmers — $400 to $500 on a gross income of $2,000. Everything was taxed: land, buildings, animals. The farmer would even pull down an unused barn in order to decrease his assessment."

"People talk about ARDA the Agricultural and Rural Development Act but the country people are sceptical. The believe that ARDA, like the agricultural loan plan, will not benefit the Maritimes . . . . and that Acadian projects will be ignored in Fredericton."

"The first objective is to buy an old car for $100; 75 per cent have cars but 75 per cent do not have toilets."

"Out of 31 weddings between July 1960, and July, 1964, only two couples remained in the parish."

"The young emigrate to Waltham, Gardner and Leominster Mass. where 'we are going to do the work that the Americans do not want to do, then come back to show off our cars.'"

Kings County, P.E.I.

A Souris-area parish: "Socially the parish is relatively closed, even though TV and cars have recently given them some contact with the world.

". . . Strangers are not well received. People fear abrupt social and economic changes."

"Two generations back it was Massachusetts which attracted the emigrants from South Lake: Boston, Nantucket, Quincy. Today people leave for Ontario and even British Columbia."

"People are tired of surveys made by private consultants under authority of ARDA; they want something concrete done."

"There are not enough leaders, and the best ones are leaving."

"Generally speaking, people eat little meat because it is too expensive. Nearly 10 per cent of the children are undernourished."

"Let us keep in mind, too, that incomes of more than $3,000 a year are the exception in Kings and that 43 per cent of the wage-earning population gross less than $1,000."

"It is relevant to mention the proliferation of loan companies in Charlottetown in the last 10 years . . . from two to 10."

Inverness County, N.S.

"Winter is the good season. People pay visits, play cards and drink beer. It is a picnic for people used to working 10 and 12 hours a day to go and work in industry in the towns. People much prefer to emigrate to Toronto than to Montreal."

"There are few baptisms now; last year there were only 29. The families in this area have finished having children. Out of 25 marriages, 20 were between former parishioners settled in Toronto or other places."

"The Scots are more cunning than the Acadians. They don't pay their taxes; their homes are put up for sale, but nobody buys them."

Of the Scots and Acadians: "The former are gloomy and withdrawn, listless, creatures of habit; individualistic and attached to the land. The latter are cheeful and outgoing, active, industrious, sociable and men of the sea . . . The houses of the Acadians are in plain sight, facing the sea; the houses of the Scots are often hidden in small clearings."

"Wages and working conditions of the lumberjacks are . . . unbelievable. Acadian lumberjacks are poor wretches and their families' standards of living are below average. They are poor people with a 'job.'"

The "Happy Fellows:" "They are rustics whose life is balanced between the ancestral home or the patched-up cabin, fishing and hunting the occasional bit of work on the outside and government allowances. The 'statistical' farm of 'three or more acres' supports a good number of them.

"They pose a serious problem of adaptation to a production economy and they irritate businessmen. Some businessmen even call them bums.

"These happy fellows, whose average age is 50, are incorrigible, and we do not believe there is any reason to deter them. They are the result of a way of life which will probably die out with them."

Summary

"This is the fundamental depressing factor: In spite of work which is frequently exhausting and which has long hours, incomes are indecently low."

". . . the young people grew up at a time the mass media were establishing their influence. Submissiveness and acceptance of the local living conditions were not good enough for them. Thus they leave."

"Those who are over 40 and have known even-poorer living conditions accept the situation more easily. . . . Lack of education and fear of the outside keep them rooted to the spot."

"There should be no hesitation in widely spreading the co-operative formula which has already led to deserved success among fishermen."

"A direct and massive attempt at general and technical education and training . . . is indispensible in order to break out of the vicious circle of material and intellectual poverty."

"The stakes are high. The-count . . . can no longer permit this anemia of the eastern regions."

Fallout Low In French H-Bomb Test

PARIS (Reuters) — The French hydrogen bomb tested Saturday had an explosive power of two megatons or 2,000,000 tons of TNT, Science Minister Robert Galley said Tuesday. He said fallout was negligible.

The bomb was detonated from a balloon 600 yards above the ground.

Galley said an aircraft landed him on Fangataufa Atoll, site of the test about 750 miles south of Tahiti, 3½ hours after the blast.

Armed Forces Minister Pierre Messmer, who addressed a press conference here with Galley, said if the government grants the necessary finance French forces will be equipped with hydrogen weapons within a few years.

Galley said the device was about the size of a sedan car and efforts of French scientists now will be devoted to "militarization and miniaturization" of the weapon.

"We can congratulate ourselves on the fact that with this successful experiment our country has become the equal of the great powers. . . ."

Asked how long it would take to develop a warhead and a missile capable of delivering a thermo-nuclear charge, Messmer said "10 years would be a very pessimistic estimate."

Troops Break Up Student Protest

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Army troops early today dispersed hundreds of students camping in front of the national palace following a peaceful march Tuesday night by some 200,000 persons protesting the regime of President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

Troops and armored cars surrounded the Zocalo, Mexico City's central plaza, where the students had pitched tents. The students put up no resistance and the troops burned the tents.

Student leaders had said they would maintain a constant picket line in front of the palace until Diaz Ordaz met their demands for restoration of "student dignity" and release of "political prisoners."

The noisy protest gave further warning the students, in an attempt to embarrass the government, may try to disrupt the Olympic Games opening Oct. 12.

The marchers carried signs and banners calling Diaz Ordaz a murderer and a dictator for ordering police to quell student disturbances last month.

Along with red flags and posters honoring Che Guevara, marchers carried signs demanding Soviet withdrawal from Czechoslovakia and U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam. The marchers chanted attacks on the police, the press and the Olympics.

Hundreds of troops guarded both the U.S. and Soviet embassies.

U.S. Blockade Means Dollars For Canada

By FENTON WHEELER

HAVANA (AP) — How effective is the U.S. economic blockade of Cuba in terms of dollars and cents?

Prime Minister Fidel Castro says it is damaging and has cost his country "hundreds of millions" of dollars because of transportation charges and buying under difficult conditions.

At the same time the Cuban leader manages to bring hundreds of millions of dollars worth of products to this island every year. Last year his imports from Western countries amounted to about $320,000,000 or between 20 and 25 per cent of all Cuba's foreign imports.

Cuban imports from Canada last year totalled $42,550,000 compared with $61,805,000 in 1966. Cuba's sales to Canada rose to $6,335,000 from $5,629,400 in 1966.

Only a shortage of hard currency due to a drought-wracked sugar crop is slowing Castro down this year. Sugar normally earns four-fifths of Cuba's foreign exchange.

The Soviet Union is Cuba's main source of goods from the Communist bloc. Cuba buys about $930,000,000 worth from the Soviet Union annually, far more than it sells in return. This accounts in part for the $1,000,000 a day in non-military aid Moscow is reported to send to this island.

SPAIN ALSO TRADES

For some time anti-Communist Spain has been out-trading such Communist nations as East Germany, Bulgaria, North Korea, Hungary, Poland, Romania, Yugoslavia and, at times Czechoslovakia. Imports from Spain often have approached those from Cuba's No. 2 trader Red China.

The West's new leader this last year was France, which more than tripled its Cuban sales of 1966 and is doing almost nine times the business it did here in the 10 years before Castro came to power.

Figures available here show France's exports to Cuba totaled $70,000,000 in 1967, followed by Spain among the major western traders with $65,600,000.

Canada is listed third among the western sources, with $48,600,000 although Canada's own export statistics from Ottawa show a total of only $42,550,000.

Canadian sales to Cuba last year included $34,300,000 worth of wheat, wheat flour, and durum wheat, up sharply from $10,500,000 for the commodities in 1966. But Canadian potato sales last year fell back to $814,000 from an unusually high figure of $27,960,000 a year earlier.

Cuba's 1967 sales of $6,335,000 to Canada included about $3,000,000 in sugar and just over $750,000 in cigars and cigar leaf tobacco.

Britain sold Castro's regime $36,600,000 last year, followed by Japan with $33,500,000, Italy $15,000,000, West Germany $9,200,000, Sweden $6,200,000, Switzerland $5,600,000, Belgium $2,800,000, and Denmark 1,000,000.

USES CASH, CREDIT

The figures indicate Castro can buy and bring through the blockade most of the things he needs if he has the hard currency to pay for it.

There has been evidence lately that he also can do it on credit. Romania is giving Cuba $30,000,000 worth of oil drilling equipment on eight years' credit.

East Germany has agreed to supply $25,000,000 worth of heavy construction and hydraulic equipment, also on credit.

Near Cienfuegos on Cuba's south coast a big fertilizer plant supplied by Simon Carves Ltd. of Britain is going up. The plant's price is $44,000,000, backed by a guarantee of the British government. Cuba has five years to pay for this.

Against the background, there are no outward signs here that Castro is interested in resuming diplomatic relations with the United States, even if an offer came from Washington.

Castro has a ready-made villain to blame for Cuba's shortages and economic difficulties: The U.S. economic blockade.

One-Day Strike Call In Que. Labor Fight

By DON MacPHERSON

MONTREAL (CP) — The 200,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor Tuesday fired the latest shot in its battle with the Quebec labor relations board over a union certification vote for construction workers at Baie Comeau, Que.

The QFL, the Quebec wing of the Canadian Labor Congress, called a province-wide one-day strike of its 53,000 construction workers for Sept. 6 to protest a board decision to hold the vote, won by a union affiliated with the rival Confederation of National Trade Unions.

About 35,000 of the construction workers affiliated with the QFL work in the Montreal area. The total construction work force in the province numbers more than 117,000 men.

QFL President Louis Laberge said Tuesday the federation's fight is with the labor relations board and not with the 250,000-member CNTU.

In the Aug. 16 vote, ordered by the labor relations board, the National Union of Hauterive Construction Workers was chosen to represent workers on the site of a $42,000,000 expansion of the Canadian British Aluminium Co. plant at Baie Comeau, 220 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, the QFL affiliate defeated in the vote, has asked Mr. Justice Austin W. Johnson of Quebec Superior Court to nullify the vote on the grounds that the board was not empowered to act as it did.

Mr. Laberge said at a news conference the QFL is carrying out its campaign against the labor relations board to show the public that "construction workers are citizens as honorable as anyone else and that they should have full freedom throughout Quebec."

PLAN WORKERS' MARCH

The QFL plans to hold a demonstration in Montreal of from 10,000 to 20,000 construction workers in conjunction with the strike.

The federation plans to have between 600 and 700 union leaders present to serve as marshals and keep "agents provocateurs" from causing violence during the demonstration, a QFL statement said.

Mr. Laberge told reporters the strike and demonstration represent the "beginning of a campaign" to force the government to recognize "the right of association as an important weapon in the arsenal of the war on poverty."

He called for a complete investigation—"royal or otherwise"—of the labor relations board's actions.

He accused the board of favoritism towards the CNTU, incompetence and bad faith.

The QFL affiliate defeated in the vote has said the labor relations board illegally and arbitrarily prevented 120 workers at Baie Comeau from voting, while the board has said it has the right to decide whether a vote will take place and under what conditions it will be held.

The CNTU affiliate received 132 votes to its rival's 20. Five ballots were spoiled.

Humphrey Bandwagon Rolls Toward First-Ballot Win

HOW THEY STAND

CHICAGO (AP) — Standings at 2:05 p.m. today of the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination based on publicly committed first ballot votes:

Humphrey	1,416½
McCarthy	491¼
McGovern	60
Favorite sons	91½
Others	17¾
Uncommitted	545¼
Needed for nomination	1,312

DAYLIGHT finds littered streets and armed troops standing by following early morning demonstrations by anti-war protesters at Conrad Hilton Hotel, left background, in Chicago. The Hilton is the headquarters for the Democratic national convention. (AP Wirephoto.)

Chicago Subdues Doves

CHICAGO (AP) — Police arrested 31 demonstrators today near the International Amphitheatre, scene of the Democratic national convention, and 1,400 members of the Illinois National Guard were ordered into the downtown area to cope with massing anti-Vietnam war demonstrators.

The troop callup was in anticipation of possible trouble later today when thousands of hippies and peace demonstrators attempt to carry out a planned march on the convention hall.

A spokesman for Brig.-Gen. Richard Dunn of the National Guard said Chicago police requested the guardsmen to support a large police force guarding the Conrad Hilton Hotel, headquarters of the convention.

Some 800 guardsmen relieved police at the hotel early today after 2,500 anti-war demonstrators gathered in a park across the street in defiance of a city law that closes parks from 11 p.m. to 4 a.m. Three guardsmen later were withdrawn as weary police returned to guard the hotel.

Still later, Assistant Police Supt. James Rochford requested return of the guardsmen to the hotel area and Grant Park, across the street from the hotel, as the peace demonstrators began massing for a rally in the park and the expected march on the convention hall on the south side.

Near the convention hall, police arrested 31 persons conducting a standing prayer vigil when they defied orders to move from a security area. Included among those arrested were nine women.

Police said the group was led by Dr. Saughton C. Lynd, former Yale University history professor who made an unauthorized trip to North Vietnam and China several years ago. Lynd was arrested.

POLICE WEARY

Rochford said the 800 guardsmen took over protection of the Hilton Hotel early today only because many of his police had been on duty 15 to 17 hours and were weary.

But it was obvious that city officials were worried about the presence of hippies and the peace demonstrators, most of whom had been routed from Lincoln Park with clouds of tear gas just after midnight, because they defied the same law.

Some 300 police won the "battle of Lincoln Park," and took firm possession of their trash-littered battlefield by stationing blue-helmeted men every few hundred feet along its southern edge.

SEEN BY DELEGATES

Officials made no attempt, however, to use the same tear-gas tactics when most of the demonstrators moved four miles south to the Hilton.

There they joined a small demonstration already in progress in Grant Park, just across fashionable Michigan Avenue, and in full view of both delegates and national television cameras.

The guardsmen closed Balbo Drive, which runs through

Draft-Kennedy Movement Fails

CHICAGO — Hubert H. Humphrey sped toward triumph today with more than enough votes to win a first ballot nomination for the Democratic presidential nomination. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy removed the obstacle of his phantom candidacy with a "final, firm disavowal of interest and a draft-Kennedy move collapsed.

Three favorite sons in quick order endorsed Humphrey following Kennedy's firm, new disavowal.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey produced 61 more votes; Floridans flocked to Humphrey when Sen. George Smathers shed his favorite son status, and — the bandwagon rolling fast now — Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen released his delegates from their favorite son commitment to him.

The 118-vote Illinois delegation was in caucus at mid-day with Mayor Richard Daley, its firm leader, expected to join the Humphrey movement. Daley had breakfast with Humphrey prior to the caucus.

McCarthy, realizing the lonely and once ridiculed effort he had taken to demonstrate the Vietnam war's unpopularity had reached its end, talked philosophically about how to soften the blow to his dedicated supporters.

He cancelled appearances before caucuses of delegates and held so-called "emergency meetings" in his hotel.

It was revealed today that McCarthy offered Tuesday night to throw his entire support to Sen. Kennedy if he would accept the nomination.

Sen. George S. McGovern, a late starter who never was much of a threat to Humphrey, continued his round of appearances with pleas to deny the nomination to Humphrey and to repudiate President Johnson's war policy at the convention's afternoon debate on Vietnam.

Drafts Acceptance Speech

So confident was Humphrey of quick success tonight that he took time out to draft sections of his acceptance speech and to confer with party leaders about his choice of a running mate.

Kennedy's firm statement from Washington calling upon those promoting a draft movement here to "cease all activity on my behalf" brought gloom to a youthful band working on his behalf. They closed their "draft Kennedy" headquarters in respect to his wishes.

Jesse Unruh, leader of the largely uncommitted 174-vote California delegation, abandoned any possibility of a draft-Kennedy movement. He announced that Kennedy had told him personally he was not a candidate.

Unruhy, California assembly speaker, told his state's delegation: "When I came to the convention I had hoped we might have another candidate in the race — a candidate who I felt could win the nomination and, more importantly, could win this fall."

But he said he received a telephone call from Kennedy making clear that he would not give any support to the draft movement — and without advance word from Kennedy delegates would not be willing to be caught short by backing a non-candidate.

Battle Renewed on Vietnam

Delegates renewed today their battle over Vietnam war policy, which had forced the convention to adjourn in tumult early this morning.

Debate finally began this afternoon on a plank that, opponents charge, was tailored to the interests of President Johnson and Humphrey.

The unwieldly assembly of 3,099 delegates, having ended its first session early Tuesday in uproar over the isssue of anti-Negro bias in the Georgia state delegation, broke up in the same mood early today, hours behind schedule.

Delegates on the convention floor, thick with security men, revolted at debating the touchy issue of Vietnam at such a late hour. In effect, the revolt led by Wisconsin foced Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago as a convention architect to move adjournment.

It was a clear triumph for elements opposed to the proposed policy statement on Vietnam which backs up President Johnson's determination to force acceptable concessions from North Vietnam as a condition of peace negotiations more fruitful than the sterile exchanges so far at Paris.

It also was a triumph for getting the Vietnam debate

Hanoi Meddling, Says U.S.

PARIS (AP) — The United States accused North Vietnam today of meddling in American politics, and demanded that it quit. Spurning the demand, Hanoi's Ambassador Xuan Thuy accused President Johnson's administration of forcibly suppressing opposition to the Vietnam war.

Thuy's statement was made in the 19th session of the Paris peace talks.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman called for a start in serious peacemaking with an end to what he described as North Vietnamese interference in American internal affairs with constant comments on the presidential election contest.

"Among the American people the voice against the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam is every day growing louder," Thuy told Harriman.

"This is why in the present election campaign, in order to cope with the indignation of the people, the U.S. authorities have had to use barbed wire and tens of thousands of troops and police agents."

Stiff Battle Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen battled a sizable force in the jungled infiltration corridor northwest of Saigon today while inside the capital Viet Cong rockets fell for the third time in two months, killing three civilians.

U.S. headquarters said a stiff fight was under way 34 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital and that so far 44 guerrillas have been killed.

The rocket attack on Saigon hit a slum district on the southern edge of the city, blowing up one house and damaging two more.

Deadline Demanded On Soviet Withdrawal

TIMES NEWS SERVICES

PRAGUE — The Czechoslovak National Assembly today adopted a resolution demanding a firm deadline for the withdrawal of Soviet-led occupation troops and condemning the occupation as illegal.

Informants said the National Assembly also declared it could not ratify the Moscow agreement because it was reached under pressure.

There was no immediate report from a secret meeting of the Communist party central committee on its position on the Moscow accord that continues the occupation and has forced the Czechoslovak regime to halt its liberalizing program.

But sources indicated that opposition to the terms of the settlement was hardening rapidly despite appeals Tuesday by Alexander Dubcek, the party leader, and President Ludvik Svoboda for Czechoslovak understanding while they work to end the occupation.

Dubcek was expected to address the central committee meeting at the clandestine Communist headquarters.

"The National Assembly continues to regard the occupation of the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic by forces of five states of the Warsaw pact as illegal and as violating international treaties, the UN charter and the Warsaw pact," said a Free Prague radio broadcast.

"The National Assembly is convinced that our armed forces are capable of security of our western frontier and calls on the government to insist the fixing of and adherence to concrete dates for the withdrawal of foreign troops.

"At the same time we maintain that all our citizens who have been illegally detained and imprisoned by Czechoslovak and foreign organs since Aug. 21 should be released."

The assembly statement reaffirmed support of Dubcek's reformist leadership and thanked Czechoslovak leaders for their efforts at the showdown talks in Moscow. It also added that the "National Assembly is convinced that this country's only place is in the community of Socialist nations."

Reformist sources said that Dubcek has been asked to deny rumors he yielded to Soviet demands to declare the special 14th party congress illegal.

HELD SECRET MEETING

The congress met secretly last week and elected a liberal Central Committee replacing one that still included a strong conservative wing.

Informants said there was growing opinion that Dubcek should be voted out of office if he confirmed the rumor. This could result in two rival central committees with reformists holding membership in both.

The congress of the Slovak Communist party also was under way at Bratislava with increasing signs that delegates would support reformist efforts to oust Vasil Bilak, the orthodox first Slovak secretary.

Government sources said there are no immediate plans to emerge from the underground and move back into the central committee building, cleared by Soviet troops Tuesday. Sources said at least two Soviet secret police agents were recognized in the building today.

Posters appeared in many parts of Prague spelling out the "ten commandments" of passive resistance against the Soviet-bloc occupation.

"We have not learned anything, we don't know anything, we don't have anything, we don't give anything, we can't do anything, we don't understand anything, we don't sell anything, we don't help, we don't betray, and—in big letters—we will not forget anything."

Russian troops dropped leaflets from the main post office building, still under Soviet guard, which claimed that two Soviet journalists were murdered by Czechoslovak "terrorists."

LEAFLETS TRAMPLED

The leaflets called on the population to "capture the murderers." Hardly anyone picked up one of the leaflets. Many trampled on them.

Despite youthful protests and widespread resentment, most Czechoslovaks appeared to be

Body Identified

LANGLEY (CP) — Michael Parasy, 54, of Prince George was identified today as the man whose body was recovered from the Fraser River near here about six weeks ago.

NEWSMAN ROUGHED UP IN FRONT OF CAMERAS

CHICAGO—Viewers on television got plenty of drama, excitement, suspense and action during the Democratic convention activities Tuesday night.

Security guards even forgot about the cameras as they roughed up Columbia Broadcasting System's Dan Rather when he tried to find out the name of a Georgia delegate, who, he said, was being "hauled out".

The incident in which Rather was punched and thrown to the floor, took place in full view of the TV audience.

Settlement Reached By Air Controllers

OTTAWA (CP) — A contract dispute between the government and 1,000 air traffic controllers has been settled, providing for a 15-per-cent wage increase in a two-year contract, it was announced today.

Agreement was announced in a joint statement by the government's treasury board and the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association.

It is subject only to a ratification vote by the union's membership, which is expected to be completed by Friday.

The controllers, who direct all the country's air traffic, will receive an increase of eight per cent retroactive to July 1, 1967. A further seven-per-cent became effective July 1, 1968, and runs to June 30, 1969, when the contract expires.

The increases will bring maximum annual rates of pay for beginning controllers to $7,304 a year from $6,320. The most senior level will jump to $16,276 from $14,084.

The announcement said the new contract will provide a limit on the number of days an airport controller may work without a break, but did not specify the period.

The memorandum of agreement was signed by John Lyon of Winnipeg, president of the controllers union, and all members of his negotiating team.

'TREATED LIKE CHILDREN'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Indian chief who has three university degrees said the federal government is still treating Indians like children.

Bill Mussell, head of the Skwah Band, near Chilliwack, made the charge at a United Nations high school seminar at the University of B.C.

Mr. Mussel, 29, said his band can't even buy a lawnmower with its own funds without permission of the regional superintendent of Indian affairs.

Convention 'Indifferent' to LBJ Absence

By WARD JUST
The Washington Post

CHICAGO — The Democratic national convention lurched through the second perilous night of its 35th incarnation spared the presence of its paterfamilias, Lyndon B. Johnson.

The news from the Texas white house that the president would celebrate his birthday at home was greeted with an electric display of indifference.

Richard J. Daley, the Chicago field marshal whose pride in his city rivals only his pride in his power, proposed that singer Anita Bryant lead the delegates in a rousing happy birthday to the president. The singing was merry, and one young black delegate from New York was so moved he placed his face in his hands and roared with laughter.

This followed the invocation from the Rev. Billy Graham, the evangelist. The Rev. Graham (who, incidentally, is a close personal friend of Richard M. Nixon) praised the absent president for his "faithful church attendance, remarkable family life." There was no opportunity for applause, since this assessment of Mr. Johnson came in the course of a prayer.

But, more darkly, the evangelist warned against delegates more "interested in being tricky and making merry; than in conducting serious business. In a general comment on the situation in America, the Rev. Graham deplored "the new aura of permissiveness."

Some observers felt that the Rev. Graham had struck just the right note for a convention which in its first night saw two nasty floor fights and the igniting of one of the magnetized (and flammable) floor passes. Personal animus has been raised to the level of an art form. Not even the spectre of Richard Nixon has been able to unite, or even impress, this convention, which is one indication of how far matters have gone.

The city of Chicago is a fortified hamlet, and the convention itself is an armed camp in the middle of what is presumed to be enemy territory, although the mayor lives nearby. The insurgency grew Tuesday night, and pacification proceeded slowly. Tuesday night, for no one knew what reason, the delegates were forbidden to bring newspapers into the hall. "You'll have to hit me in the head to get this newspaper away from me," said one delegate to the blue-suited guards at the entrance; but he gave it up finally without a struggle.

The concerns of the delegates shift, depending on the region and the nature of the delegation. One New Hampshire man pointed out Tuesday night that all the "trouble" was coming from the delegations whose members were chosen in primary electic : New York, California, South Dakota, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, among others. By "trouble," of course, he meant the effort to reject the force-feeding of the regulars, the attempt to bring the Democrats out of the shadow of dissension and into the sunlight of unity.

The floor of the amphitheatre is surprisingly intimate. The aisles are clogged with people like leaves in a drainage ditch, and nothing from the platform can be heard. But after a delegate has been in convention for 24 hours, he knows the issues and does not have to listen to the speeches; he can watch Chet, David and Walter on the box.

A fight of two erupted on the floor, an airplane violated amphitheatre air space (and was questioned by secret service agents when it landed in Meigs Field); the Georgia regulars declared that they were returning to Dixie to work for Nixon, and Mayor Daley glowered at the unruly proceedings from his fourth row seat.

GRAHAM
. . . strikes right note

"The world is watching us, so let's behave like adults," said one of the early speakers. The injunction drew tepid applause from all save the Illinois delegation.

Mayor Daley said there'll be law an' order as long as he's mayor o' Chicago — so when's he goin' t' jail some o' them cops?

Sampans Sock Aussies

By Vincent Matthews

The navy is charged with protecting much of Australia's 12,446 miles of coastline, but at its present strength, a Labor opposition member of Parliament charged recently, it could not even apprehend a Chinese sampan fishing on the Barrier Reef.

The MP made the quip during an uproar in Parliament over the case of the talkative admiral. A few days earlier the flag officer commanding the Australian Fleet, Rear-Admiral Gordon Crabb, shocked the government by telling reporters and distinguished guests aboard the missile destroyer Perth that the navy is below strength.

Australia is buying three of the Perth-type destroyers from the United States, but three is not a viable force, the admiral said. The navy needed four, but for financial reasons it had been told it could have only three. There also was a serious shortage of men which could only be made up by a much wider draft.

And, the admiral said, the navy is likely to be landed with the job of fisheries protection service on the northern coastline but would need at least 20 more patrol boats to do the job. It had little chance of getting them.

The admiral's statement came at an indelicate time for the government because the nationalistic pride of Aussies had been roused.

The cause was an 8,000-ton Russian trawler named the Van Gogh which has been raiding the rich prawn grounds in the Gulf of Carpentaria off the north coast of Queensland. Formosan boats have also been fishing off the Great Barrier Reef, but it was the Russian ship that made Australians angry.

AROUSED BY PIRACY

The owner of an Australian trawling fleet got publicity when he sent a telegram to Prime Minister John Gorton complaining that the Russian ship kept steaming straight towards the small Australian boats as they were about to haul a catch of prawns aboard. The boats had to leave their catch while the bigger Russian ship sailed in to "pirate" the lot.

Gorton sent his primary industry minister, Douglas Anthony, to the gulf to investigate. After reporting to the cabinet and talking with the defence minister, Anthony promised that the Royal Australian Air Force would keep up permanent patrols over the gulf and if the Russian ship violated the 12-mile territorial waters limit "action would be taken."

But this didn't satisfy the Labor opposition which called for the government to take control of all the waters in the gulf and "argue it out in the International Court later."

Gulf waters extend for more than 100 miles from the Australian mainland and the government is reluctant to create an international incident by claiming the waters as Australian.

In Parliament, Dr. Rex Patterson, who represents some angry voters in northern Queensland and who made the quip about the Chinese sampan, said the admiral's statement showed the shocking state of Australia's defences. He accused the government of a "pussy-foot" attitude towards claims for all the gulf waters because it is afraid of offending Russia, Formosa and Japan whose fishermen, he said, poach in Australian fishing areas.

PUT ON CARPET

Anthony replied that the attorney-general's department is studying every possibility that could lead to extending Australia's exclusive fishing rights.

Navy Minister Charles Kelly put the admiral on the carpet for embarrassing the government with his criticism of navy strength. Kelly said Crabb had broken the rules and now realized he had made an "unfortunate expression which was just not correct."

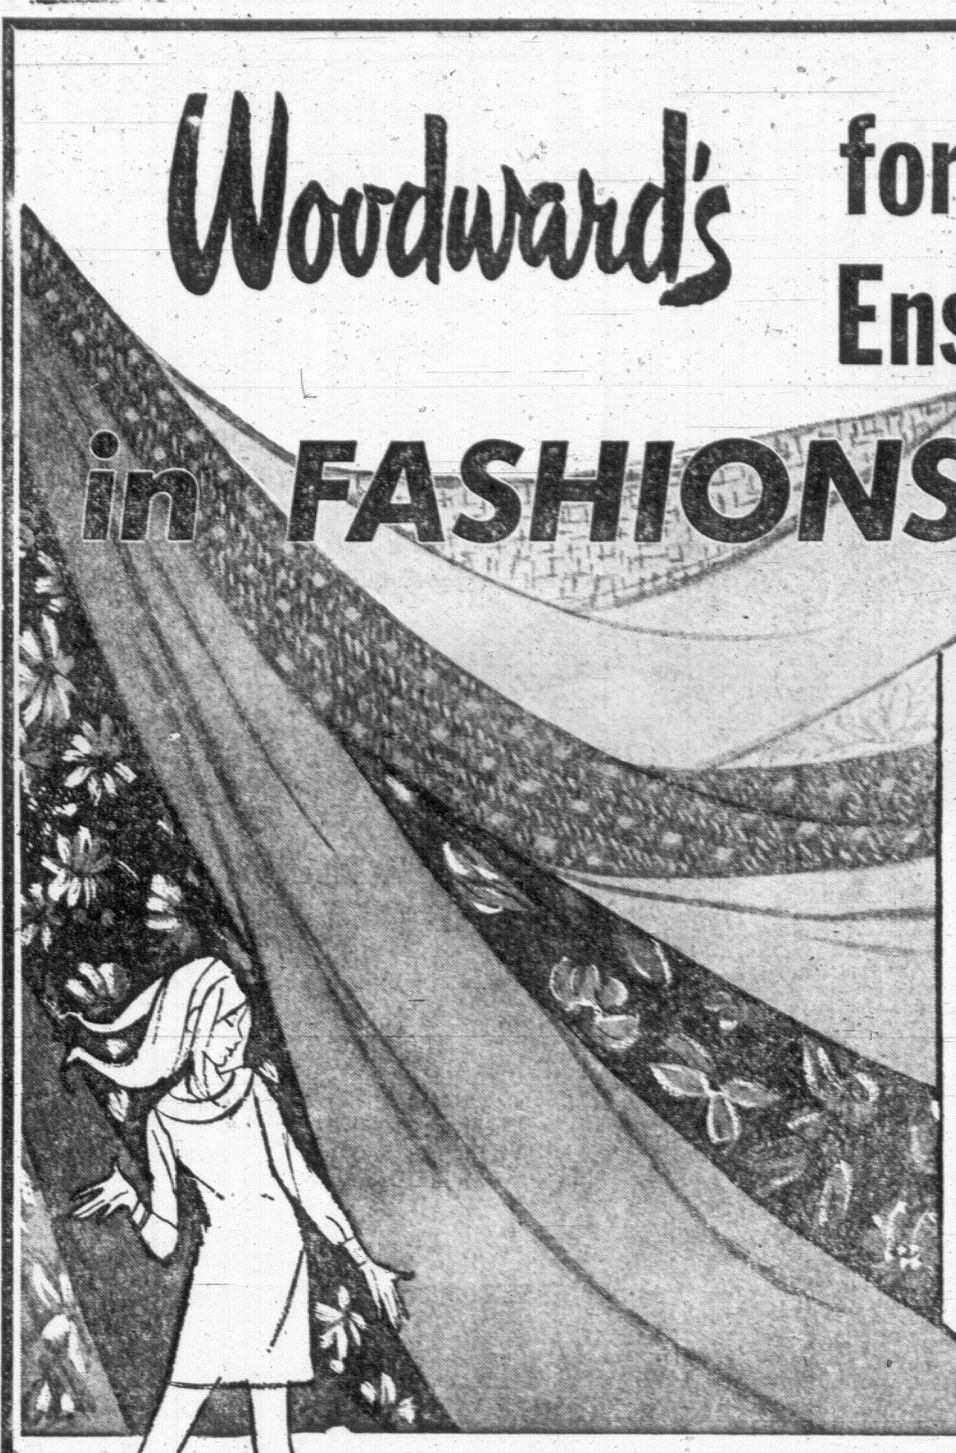

But although the admiral might have felt it was in the interests of his career and of the service to apologize and climb down, his words had made their impact. Politicians seized on them to confirm their views that there is disquiet over the navy's inadequacies. And the whole question of Australia's defences came under the spotlight again.

Within the next few weeks, a report ordered by Gorton on Australia's future defence role will be presented to cabinet. Crucial decisions affecting Australia's defences for the next 10 years will follow.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1968 —PAGE 33

Wark Street; the houses beyond the rubble will go too . . .

Arthur Mayse

Sex education in the schools is more or less taken for granted now, and I see by the news that "family life" instruction may soon be phased clear down to kindergarten. But 21 years ago, when Helen MacGregor Healing faced a class of teen-age girls with firm intent, she was a pioneer in an area into which only the boldest teachers ventured.

Mrs. Healing lives with her husband at 1009 Hampshire Road. She hasn't taught for many a year, but she still remembers the little high school in Ponoka, Alberta, where she made her decision and carried it through.

I should explain here that she is a woman with a mind of her own. She came to teaching by a hard route: two years at little new UBC, then off to try her luck in a profession that had no place for her. That was in the early 'twenties, when teaching posts were hard to come by.

She taught where she could as a student on permit, and between stints, completed her education. It was a hard grind, but evenutally she was chosen from 196 applicants to teach grades nine to twelve in Ponoka at $1,200 a year.

The small, two-teacher school was overcrowded, the curriculum so bulging that it allowed no place for the Latin needed by Grade 12's who hoped to go on to university.

Helen MacGregor, young and single, saw that they got it. She taught them Latin after school, and saw them score good passing marks.

★

This for two years. Then she married Charles William Healing, and turned her attention to home-making.

But teaching refused to give her up. Whenever a substitute was needed, they called in Mrs. Healing.

So to the day in 1947, when one of the staff—a confirmed spinster, Mrs. Healing recalls—suffered what was then defined as a nervous breakdown. Perhaps significantly, the lady was overcome just before she was due to deal with reproduction as set out in the education department's health and hygeine course.

Margaret MacGregor Healing scanned the chapter. It commenced with a birds and bees passage, went on to deal stiffly with the beasts of the field, and wound up with a cautious dab at human multiplication.

"I wasn't impressed," says Mrs. Healing, who with the help of a book titled 'The Stork Didn't Bring You,' had seen to the sex education of her own two daughters. "I thought I could provide much more useful instruction."

★

The principal's name was Howard Lawson, and she looks back on him as a man ahead of his times. He approved her venture. So did the parents of her girl students . . . she had taught most of them, and they trusted her judgment.

"Now," she announced, when health-lesson time came, "our next chapter deals with reproduction."

She then snapped the text shut, and began to teach the truth as she had imparted it to her own children.

"You could have heard a pin drop," she say, and chuckles at the memory.

If her principal was ahead of his times, so was Helen MacGregor Healing. With her precise teacher's hand, she detailed male and female sex organs on the blackboard.

"Now for heaven's sake," she urged, "call them by their right names."

She dealt with sexual intercourse, conception and birth. She gave them concise information about contraceptive devices then in use, and calmly discussed venereal disease and rape. Also, she answered their questions.

"I just talked to them like a mother," she says, "and I left nothing out."

To each in turn, she loaned her copy of 'The Stork Didn't Bring You.'

Her course covered three health lesson periods. Not a girl who received it failed to thank her. And so, off and on for years, did their parents.

She was a pioneer, one of a few teachers who saw honest sex education as one of youth's necessities and did not hesitate to administer it. And I'm not sure even today, that our schools have quite caught up to her.

AT THE DOORWAY of her Wark Street house, one doomed to expropriation, Mrs. Benny Liberatore says: "We liked it here very much. It was close to everything."

MURDER HEARING

Victim's Injuries Described

William Bruce van Munster suffered severe injuries to the skull and facial bones and fractures of the cheek, jawbones and skull a doctor said in the preliminary hearing of two district men charged with murder.

Frederick James Morry and Gary Hugh McWhirter are charged with the non-capital murder of van Munster, a hotel clerk who disappeared almost five months ago.

Dr. Kennedy R. Thornton, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital said he performed an autopsy on an "extensively decomposed and partially mumified body" July 27.

He said the body was positively identified to him as van Munster's by another doctor present who examined the teeth.

'GROOVED' FRACTURES

Dr. Thornton did not say how death was caused but described to the court unusual or special characteristics of the skull fractures. He said above the left eyebrow there was a "sharp groove" which could have been caused "by a blow by the edge of a hard object." He said there were other fractures that also showed the "grooving."

On cross-examination he said the injuries were not post-mortem fractures because there was hemorrhaging which implied they were caused during life and there were no signs of repair.

The pathologist was the first of more than 30 witnesses who are to testify in the hearing being held before Magistrate William Ostler.

Lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood is acting for McWhirter and Cecil Branson for Morry. John Macintyre is Crown prosecutor.

The hearing was delayed for an hour early today when Mr. Owen-Flood said there had been an unexpected development overnight which "goes to the root of the conduct of the defence."

He asked for a three-quarter hour adjournment which was granted.

Mr. Macintyre agreed to the delay saying the development was "quite significant and would take some time to digest."

The hearing is continuing.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL-MUNICIPAL, BUT . . .

Some Not Partners in Renewal Plan Partnership

In the still house of Mar Wing How the oil heater has been disconnected, paper is wrapped around it, and its pipes lie in a neat pile in an empty room.

In other rooms clothing is packed in boxes, waiting to be moved.

Mr. Mar is 72, is retired and has a broken heart.

He and his wife have lived in the bungalow at 2643 Blanshard for nearly 20 years.

It is one of seven the city will likely expropriate next month as part of its renewal plan for the Rose-Blanshard area.

The city has offered Mr. Mar $7,700 for the house, he said. He is not selling.

"I'm not asking for anything. I'm not asking for any price.

"All I want is a house to live in."

He and his wife would gladly move out if the city would find him another house—even if the other house had only two or three rooms and a basement.

He said about 1½ years ago the city came to see him, told him they wanted his property and said they would find him and his wife a place to stay.

"I've been waiting, waiting, waiting. This breaks my heart."

They began to pack.

Mr. Mar said if he was 20 years younger he would have no objection to taking the $7,700 the city is offering and going off to find himself a new home.

Now he is too old.

He admits that for the offered price he could not get a house anywhere comparable to the one he is waiting to leave, but he is willing to accept that as the way things go.

It is not proper, he says, to try to make a profit from the city. "The city helps you, you help the city."

Mr. Mar is inclined to show the city more charity than are most of his neighbors in the area.

A sign at the corner of Rose and Hillside reads, in big white letters: Urban Renewal Project 1; 180 Unit Housing Site.

Beneath that is the legend: A federal-provincial-municipal partnership.

There is a desperate feeling among the people in the houses left standing between the bulldozer-scarred lots where neighbors once lived that, somehow, they got left out of the partnership.

Like Mr. Mar they seem unable to do anything more than wait.

Grass along the boulevards is not cut and if the children playing along Wark and Blanshard laugh or shout, their noise is lost in the grumble of heavy machinery on Rose Street.

Nearly all the houses sit behind fences. Inside the fences, most gardens are untended. Nearly all the fences need paint. Nearly all the gates are broken.

Here are some of the people who are still there:

'It Cost Me Money To Fix This Up . . .'

You can't buy a house like this for $20,000 or $21,000," said Indar Singh, standing in the kitchen of his Kings Road duplex.

Indar said the city has offered him $13,000 for the house and property that abuts the Blanshard schoolyard.

After they made the offer, Indar said he went to look for a house and found "they want $17,000 or $18,000 for junky shacks."

A B.C. Forest Industries employee, he began fixing up the house after he got married and moved in about five years ago.

"It cost me a lot of money to fix this up," he said. "New houses aren't like this."

He said he wants at least $21,000 for the property, but has no intentions of selling. His plans now are to begin fixing up the exterior of the house and landscaping.

"Why I've got more than $1,000 bucks in kitchen cabinets in here and they come in and offer me $13,000.

"What the hell do they think they are?"

'I'm Bitter About It'

"I'm bitter about it . . . it's a flagrant waste of the taxpayers' money."

William Lind turned from his packing and looked at the Blanshard School site one house away from his porch.

He was nearly ready to move his family for the second time in a year to accomodate urban renewal—the first time from Kings Road to Wark Street and now from Wark to Blanshard.

"It's a crime to tear down this house, but that's what they're going to do—they'll have a bulldozer through here in no time.

"This place has got beautiful floors, all hardwood and in good condition. It's much better than the house on Kings we moved out of a year ago.

"It doesn't seem right to tear down a house like this—they could have put the school up half a block (near S. J. Willis north of Hillside) and used the school ground there.

'Nice People Lived There'

Nino Liberatore pointed across to a bulldozed pile of earth and rock beside the glistening, new Blanshard School and said:

"Where that dirt pile is — there were some nice people lived there."

Nino is 13 and getting ready to try out for offensive end with the Knights of Columbus-sponsored junior football team.

His father, Benny, is refusing to sell the house at 2640 Wark the family has lived in for four years.

Nino seems nearly to have given up hope. He said most of the people in the neighborhood seem to feel "it's no use fighting" the city takeover of their properties.

RESIGNED TO LEAVING their Blanshard Street home of nearly 20 years, Mr. and Mrs. Mar Wing How say it is not money they want from the city. What they want is another home. They are packed and ready to go. But, as yet, they have no place to go to.

Mr. Liberatore, on the other hand, is fighting mad.

"It's time the city opened its's eyes and closed its mouth," he said.

"They're dictators.

"What kind of democracy do you have that works this way?"

Mr. Liberatore had a house on Rose Street property and when the city started working on the renewal project he says he asked $30,000 for both houses.

He said the city refused the offer and bought the Rose Street house for $8,000, a house he estimated would cost a private buyer $11,500.

For the Wark Street house, with two apartments downstairs and the family quarters up, Mr. Liberatore said the city has offered him $16,500.

There was a $10,000 dollar difference between the offer and his asking price.

But he said, it's not the money he wants. It's another house.

Another house as convenient to the centre of town as the present one with room in it for two apartments to be rented out.

He said he is ready to fight for this in the courts.

Plants Go Into Tubs

Mrs. F. J. Kueng at 2655 Blanshard didn't want to talk about having sold out to the city.

"I'm just heartsick about the whole thing," she said.

"I've lived here for 28 years and now I have to move into a house that's not half as good."

Mrs. Kueng said she did not get "a fair deal".

"Have you talked to her over there?" she asked, pointing to a small, grey-haired lady digging in the garden of the house at the corner of Blanshard and Hillside.

The city directory lists the house as belonging to Mrs. E. V. Hunter but no one answered the door and the lady digging in the garden didn't want to talk either.

She was digging up plants, putting them in metal tubs and putting the tubs in the trunk of her car. "I'm too busy to talk," she said.

She was moving out.

A sign in the doorway of the house said "Private Property, No Trespassing."

Wheelchair On Ringside

Edward Godtel sat in front of the home he has lived in since 1926 and shrugged.

"Who wants to stay here with that going on?" He pointed to crews with pneumatic hammers just a few steps away, breaking up the pavement at Rose and Hillside.

His house, on the route of the Rose St. expressway, has been sold to the city.

"They (the city) have been quite good. They said they would try to find a house that's good for a wheel chair and build all the ramps. And they'll help move me."

Mr. Godtel is confined to an electrically-powered wheelchair, from which he watched construction around his home.

His house sits alone in a no-man's land of road construction.

"But I've lived here a long time . . . it's been 42 years. It's sad to move out of a house you've had for so long."

He did not say when he would be moving out. The rest of his words were drowned in the grinding gears of a loaded dump truck.

Well Being Key Issue

Dollars and cents are not the key issues in the Rose-Blanshard property value disputes.

People are.

William Hooson, former social worker now assistant to the city manager, said this morning that expropriation proceedings now facing the city and involving seven properties in the urban renewal area, brought into sharp focus one of Victoria's biggest headaches.

"This problem is always, in one way or another, facing local governments," he said. "It is not so much a matter of dollars and cents as the consideration for the well being of the people. Their very life is involved.

"No matter what we do, somebody has to be affected. All we can try to do is keep the disruption to a minimum.

"And I think I can say in all honesty, that the city staff and the staff of Central Mortgage and Housing, have tried very hard to do that."

CMHC, the city and the provincial government, are three-way partners in the low rental housing scheme which will eventually see 180 new housing units built to replace what was once a depressed area of the city.

What does the three-way partnership offer the home owner or the renter about to be dispossessed by progress?

●

"We offer fair market value for all properties," says Mr. Hooson. "That fair market value can be established by qualified appraisers sent in by the city or, if the property owner wishes, an independent appraiser of his choice."

Although six property owners are holding out in the Blanshard School site area past records would indicate that the city has been batting a better than fair average in past negotiations.

When the scheme became official close to two years ago there were 127 residential property owners in the area. Of that total 114 have agreed to the "fair market" price established after appraisal.

Of the 13 properties remaining seven are now awaiting court adjudication to establish compensation.

The minimum price paid by the partnership for property is $3,380 for a bare lot. The maximum paid to date, $25,000 for a large house divided into four relatively modern apartment suites.

Average price being paid for the homes in the area, some well over the 50-year-old category, runs between $8,000 and $10,000.

"We don't insist that the property owner accept our price," says Mr. Hooson. "He is quite free to call in his own appraiser and we will negotiate from that figure."

●

It isn't always easy to convince a home owner that his property is not as valuable as he thinks.

"We had one case where after detailed appraisal the top price we could offer didn't even total the amount the owner still owed after six years of occupancy.

"What had happened of course is that when he bought the house he paid a highly inflated price. But we recognized his problem, realized that he had, in his mind, a valid argument and shelved negotiations for a while.

"This year when we did a completely new appraisal to meet the rising cost of property and land he came out slightly ahead of the game."

Mr. Hooson adds that with one or two exceptions the disputes between the city and the property owners have not been over price.

●

"Elderly people are not so much interested in cash as replacement for the homes they are now living in," he said. "This is where the gulf lies. The question is: how do we find an answer to the problem? It isn't an easy one to answer."

Mr. Hooson said every effort was being made to give the elderly people involved top priority in finding new homes either within the boundaries of the scheme or in a locale of their choice.

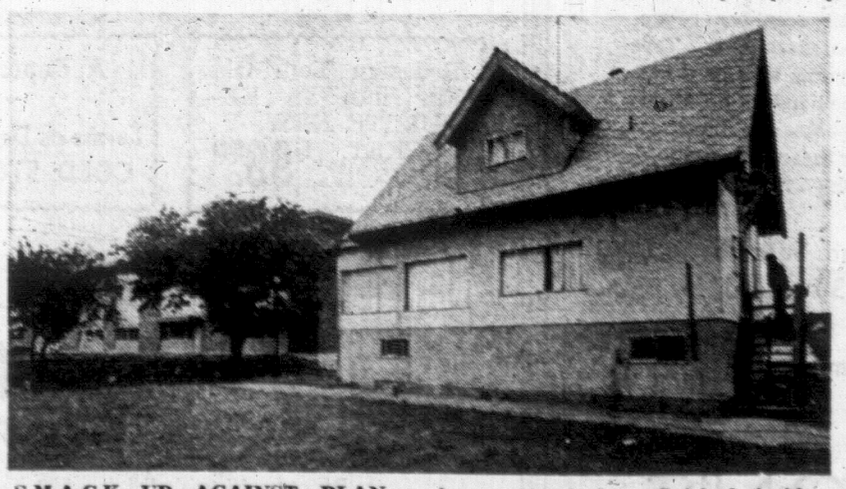

What happens to the renter who stays in the area in a replacement house while awaiting construction of the new units? Or the homeowner who, having agreed to the city's price, wishes to remain in his home until he can find his own new accommodation?

●

"First the partnership assumes the cost of any moving operations," answers Mr. Hooson. "Secondly, if they wish to stay in the area, they can rent from the now city-owned property for a rent established at five per cent of the price paid for the property.

"In other words if $10,000

SMACK UP AGAINST BLANSHARD SCHOOL, Indar Singh's house is slated for expropriation by the city. A duplex, with a young couple living upstairs, the house has been extensively refinished inside. Mr. Indar says he cannot buy a comparable house for the money the city is offering him for the Kings Road property.

NOTICE TO: George Kent Cory
THIS IS A PETITION FOR DIVORCE
TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. If you wish to oppose the Petition or if you wish other relief, you must within twenty days after service on you of the Petition, inclusive of the day of service, cause your answer (or answer and counter-petition) to be filed in the registry of this Court at Victoria, British Columbia, and cause a copy thereof to be served upon the petitioner.
2. If your answer fails to give an address for service within ten miles of the registry, further documents will be served upon you by registered mail.
3. In default of answer within the time prescribed above, fifteen days thereafter the petitioner may proceed, you will not be entitled to further notice, and a divorce and other relief may be given in your absence.
4. You may ascertain the approximate date of the hearing, and the date and details of any decree, from this registry.
5. If not made final at the hearing, a decree may be made final after the expiration of the time provided therein unless in the meantime you deliver to the undersigned, to the petitioner and to the Attorney-General, a written Notice that you wish to show cause why the decree should not become final and the grounds therefor.
6. Neither spouse will be free to remarry as a result of these proceedings until a decree of divorce has been granted and the decree has been made final.

PETITION TO THIS HONOURABLE COURT:

I hereby petition for a decree of divorce from the Respondent spouse on the grounds and in the circumstances following:

1. Grounds
A. My Petition is under the Divorce Act of Canada, Section 4, Subsection 1 (c) and Section 4, Subsection (1) (e) (ii).
B. The particulars of my grounds for divorce are:
(i) That my marriage suffered a permanent breakdown because of my husband's excessive drinking and assaults upon me. As a result of his conduct I left him on two occasions between May 7, 1954, and February, 1955, for approximately two weeks each time, and I finally left him permanently in February, 1955, and have not lived with him since that time.
(ii) That I have not seen or heard from my said husband since February, 1955, and I have no knowledge of his present whereabouts.
2. Reconciliation
A. The particulars of the circumstances which may assist the Court in ascertaining whether there is a possibility of reconciliation or resumption of cohabitation are: That I have been separated from my husband for thirteen years and have no desire for reconciliation with him.
3. Particulars of Marriage
A. Date of marriage: May 7, 1954.
B. Place of marriage: Victoria, B.C.
C. Surname of wife before marriage: Dickinson.
D. Maiden surname of wife: Dickinson.
E. Marital status of spouses at time of marriage: wife: spinster; husband: divorced.
4. Domicil and Jurisdiction
A. My residence is 730 Humboldt Street, Victoria, B.C.
B. My spouse's residence is unknown.
C. I ceased to co-habit with my spouse on or about February, 1955.
D. My domicil is British Columbia.
E. This domicil has subsisted since 1919.
F. My place of birth was Victoria, British Columbia, on October 18, 1919.
G. I have been ordinarily resident in British Columbia since birth and actually resided in the province for all of that period at Victoria, British Columbia.
H. My spouse's place of birth was Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, in 1918.
5. Age and Disability
A. That none of the parties or persons named in the Petition is under 21 years of age.
B. That none of the parties or persons named in the Petition is suffering any other legal disability.
6. Children
A. The names and dates of birth of all living children of the marriage as defined by the Divorce Act of Canada are: Nil.
7. Other Proceedings
A. The particulars and status of all other petitions or proceedings instituted with reference to the marriage or any child thereof, including applications to the Parliament of Canada or actions for alimony or applications under any statute are: Nil.
8. Separation Agreements and Financial Arrangements
A. The dates of any written or oral separation or financial agreements between the parties are: Nil.
9. Collusion, Condonation and Connivance
A. There has been no collusion in relation to this Petition.
10. Relief Asked
I therefore ask this Honourable Court for the following relief:
A. A decree that I shall be divorced from the respondent, George Kent Cory.
B. Such other and further relief as to this Honourable Court may seem meet.

DATED at Victoria, in the Province of British Columbia, this 12th day of August, A.D. 1968.
MARGARET CORY
730 Humboldt Street

Cautious Optimism Expressed for Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors, maintaining their cautiously optimistic tone, reported today that former president Dwight D. Eisenhower had shown "some further decrease" in heart irritability since Tuesday.

They also said he is "enjoying light background music" in his room at Walter Reed Army Hospital where he still is battling against his seventh heart attack.

The text of a 10:30 a.m. EDT medical bulletin:

"Gen. Eisenhower has spent another comfortable night. There has been some further decrease in cardiac irritability since yesterday's bulletins.

"Gen. Eisenhower's spirits remain good and he has been enjoying light background music at intervals through the last 24 hours.

"Mrs. Eisenhower continues to visit the general for short periods frequently."

Tuesday, the doctors had expressed "cautious optimism" about the general's chances of surviving his current attack but they stressed at that time that his condition was still critical and that a recent favorable trend they had noted in his condition "is capable of reversing at any time."

were paid for a house it would be rented for $500 a year. We think that is about as reasonable as we can get."

Once the house is owned by the city the city becomes the landlord.

During the past year the repair bill alone within the Rose-Blanshard scheme has totalled $3,500.

And why the big push now to expropriate the seven remaining properties on the Blanshard School site?

"It is a step we take with great reluctance," answers Mr. Hooson. "We have avoided it for as long as we could in the hopes that amicable settlements could be reached. But now, with the school due to open to replace the old North Ward School in September, we need the property for a playing area.

"We just can't wait any longer if things are to move forward in an orderly way."

Can the property owners fight expropriation?

The answer to that is a flat, arb

'My Election A Tribute To Laity'

By DAVID DAVIDSON

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The United Church of Canada has taken an unprecedented step and elected a layman as a chief executive officr.

Dr. Robert Baird McClure of Toronto was named moderator Tuesday night as the church's general council concluded the first day of a nine-day meeting.

The 68-year-old medical missionary, on retirement leave from India, was elected on the fourth ballot to succeed Rt. Rev. Wilfred C. Lockhart of Winnipeg who had completed a two-year term.

The new moderator, the first layman to hold the post since the church came into being in 1925, told reporters he saw his election as "perhaps a tribute" to the church's laity.

He told a news conference the most important challenge of the church in the West is to meet peoples' needs rather than just talk about them.

Dr. McClure was born in Portland, Ore., where his mother was a refugee from the Boxer Rebellion in China. He grew up in northern China where his father also was a medical missionary.

FAVORS UNITY

As well as working as a missionary in India, Dr. McClure was a medical missionary in China where he says he came to favor Christian unity strongly.

He said he has "some disagreement" with Pope Paul's recent encyclical banning birth control by artificial means.

Family planning programs at 212 hospitals in India were organized under his guidance and Dr. McClure said he has sterilized 2,000 men and women.

He described the population explosion as a major problem facing mankind.

Dr. McClure was chosen over Rev. M. Bruce McLeod, minister of Westdale United Church, Hamilton.

Three other candidates were eliminated in earlier ballots.

Rev. A. J. Davidson, minister of Sydenham Street United Church here, dropped out after the first ballot; Rev. Randolph C. Chalmers, professor of systematic theology at Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, was eliminated on the second ballot; and Rev. W. S. Taylor, principal of Union Theological College at the University of British Columbia, dropped after the third ballot.

Formal sessions of the council began after a morning communion service attended by most of the 400 commissioners to the meetings.

The council met briefly in plenary session, but later resolved into sessional meetings which were closed to reporters.

In an address before the election of his successor, Dr. Lockhart called for a review of the moderator's role. He said the method of electing him and the manner in which he functions are outmoded.

The moderator now is elected for a two-year term at the biennial meeting of general council and although he is the church's titular head, he still retains his pastorate or a secular job.

Dr. Lockhart said the council should consider choosing a moderator-designate by mailed ballot a year after it sits formally. He then could assume office a year later when the council again convenes.

The council today was to consider several reports, including one from the general commission on union with the Anglican Church of Canada and another from a commission on the ministry in the 20th century.

Group Asks Longer Terms For Sellers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Narcotics Addiction Foundation of B.C. called Tuesday for longer prison sentences for traffickers and treatment programs for addicts.

The foundation said in a report:

"A complete review of legislation and treatment approaches is long overdue if sensible and effective control, treatment, rehabilitation and educational programs are to be achieved."

The report recommends mandatory prison terms from 10 to 14 years for traffickers or distributors of opiates, but says users should not be penalized for their addiction.

It proposes a six-month period during which addicts could register and place themselves under treatment. Those who abused the treatment or failed to register would be liable to imprisonment.

The foundation report says the most hopeful approach to solving the drug problem is preventive education.

Vote Dissolves Air Tieup Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada maintained uninterrupted service Tuesday and early today when a threatened strike by its pilots dissolved with ratification of a new 27-month contract.

The company's 1,122 pilots—who under the terms of their former contract earn between $6,600 and $28,000 annually—voted by a "substantial majority" to accept the agreement worked out last week.

Terms of the new contract, retroactive to July 1 with a rider that the new pay scales only will be retroactive to April 1 when the former contract expired, will give the pilots a 10-per-cent increase immediately and a further seven per cent after 15 months.

The pilots originally had asked for a 21-per-cent boost.

Air Canada officials, expressing pleasure at settling the dispute without a strike, said the new contract would add $6,700,000 in wages to its existing $15,000,000 annual pay bill.

The counting of ballots here Tuesday would have been followed by a 2 a.m. strike today had the vote not ratified the pact.

DIDN'T GIVE FIGURES

Cleve Kidd, executive vice-president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, did not disclose the figures in the vote beyond announcing a "substantial majority" had expressed themselves in favor of the latest offer.

Mr. Kidd sent telegrams Tuesday night to regional union councils in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver announcing ratification and that the "agreement will be signed as soon as amendments to the contract have been completed."

Grape Growers Gain As Boycott Falters

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — Pressure on the California table-grape industry continued to mount this week, but growers have gained some significant victories in their efforts to break a nationwide boycott of their produce.

With the harvesting of the grapes in the San Joaquin Valley in full swing, Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers organizing committee has announced plans to step up boycott efforts.

But the union suffered a setback in Los Angeles Monday when a spokesman said markets in Southern California will continue to sell grapes.

The union demanded last week that markets take grapes from display shelves and said stores would be picketed if they failed to do so.

GROWER VICTORY

Another grower victory was achieved last week when four New York trade unions agreed not to engage in a secondary boycott of California grapes.

The agreement grew out of an unfair-labor-practice complaint filed by Guimarra Vineyards of Delano, Calif., principal target of the union's organizing drive. Guimarra agreed to drop its complaint if the unions comply with the agreement.

Plans to extend the boycott to Canada were dampened Monday when Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell told local union heads he saw no reason for the boycott.

Campbell, who toured central California vineyards last week and talked to union and grower representatives, said he found field workers receive good pay and that work and living conditions are good. Campbell declined, however, to take an official stand on the boycott.

LOSE SUPPORT

Chavez also has lost some of his church backing. The San Joaquin presbytery of the Presbyterian Church and the San Joaquin Valley Baptist Association have expressed disapproval of the Northern California Council of Churches' support of the boycott.

And many businesses have withdrawn ads from the Central California Register, the official newspaper of the Fresno diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, which has indicated it supports Chavez.

The union, which called the boycott in an effort to force growers to recognize it as bargaining agent for grape pickers, has powerful support in the Democratic party.

Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, rivals for the party's presidential nomination in Chicago this week, have issued statements endorsing the boycott.

The Republican presidential candidate, Richard Nixon, has not taken a stand on the issue.

Eleven congressmen, all Democrats, have urged the justice department to end what they call the use of alien strikebreakers.

Chavez has charged that California growers have imported large numbers of Mexican nationals to work in vineyards. Those charges have been denied by the growers, who say they are having no trouble harvesting the crop or finding markets for it.

Surplus Water Worth 'Billions'

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — Dr. Arleigh Laycock of the University of Alberta's geography department said Tuesday that if 10 per cent of Canada's surplus water was exported to the United States, it would mean $8,000,000,000 a year to Canada.

The $8,000,000,000 received from surplus water would be 10 times the average wheat sales in Canada in the last decade, he said. "The prospects are exciting."

Laycock said that by the year 2000, Canada will still be using only 2 per cent of its water supply, and export sales might well be warranted for the surplus. But many studies are needed and there is insufficient information on which to base them at present, he said.

Marriages Set Mark

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 165,879 marriages in Canada last year, a record, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

There were increases in each of the 10 provinces.
